Gaston and Cleaveland, in the State of North Car man, at kings shountain Depot, on the Atlanta mai Charlone Air Lane railway, now owned by the lifehment and Danville railroad company. The property has been used for fifty years pust as an ince property, and has oeen worked at various pains, but chiefly at the site of the celebrated lelow Raige Ore Bank, which has always yielded an ore noted for its richness in metallic iron, and its softness and toughness. This vein of ore, which extends for two miles in length, has been worked to the dept of 147 feet, showing at that depth a vein of ore about 40 feet wide, and analyzing as high as 55 per cent. of metallic iron. This was not been worked for twenty years, but the facts set forth can be fully shown. Various other veins have been worked, and within the past two years very large deposits of Iron ore have been discovered at other points. Within the past eighteen mentals, however, the owners have discovered deposits of ore in Crowder's Mountain, (five veins of iron ore, are exposed), which were unknown before, and which will immish an amount of good ore, easily worked and above water, that must make it one of the most desirable iron properties to be found. They have discovered on the pinnade of this mountain, which is 1000 feet above the level land. 2201 feet above the sea level, a vein of ore eight feet wide, which crops out at various points from the top to the bottom of the mountain, showing in one place about 20 feet of solid vein. This veincan be traced over the top of the mountain for over a mile, and this deposit alone would afford an almost inexinausticie supply of ore, easily worked, and above the water line. In addition to this four other veins heve been found on this mountain. lack Diagonal Russian Circulars, Black Basket Cloth Circulars, Black Basket Cloth Newmarkets, Black Basket Cloth Ulsters, &c., &c.

WHAT A CONTRAST.

Gov. Cleveland looms up in contrast to James G. Blaine since the Presidential campaign opened. A healthybrained man of "stalwart common sense," cool and uninfluenced by the clamor and political excitement around him, never forgetful of his personal dignity, of the office which he fills as Governor of a great State, or as the chosen representative of the National Democratic party for the highest office in the gift of the people, he has pursued the even tenor of his way, attended to the duties of his office, leaving the result of the election to the judgment of the people, speaking through the ballot and in their sovereign capacity. In all the contest no unseemly, undignified nor him, and no truckling, unbecoming words have fallen from his lips. He has grown bigger and greater every favor and strength with the people, who see in him the man they have been looking for in the crisis before

In his great Brooklyn speech, Henry Ward Beecher said:
"Two great dangers threaten this republic." One, the corruption of wealth, and the other the corruption of two-long-held power. We hear a good deal of the protection of the workingman, when the government seems to be only one vast scheme of taxation. One hundred millions lie in the treasury today useless, powertaxation. One hundred millions lie in the treasury today useless, power-less, motionless. It is surprising that it is not used to grind out votes for the great Republican party. Thou sands of men are holding out their hands to be bought, and after they have put their ballots into the box they go home with smiling faces and say their prayers. Money makes the mayor to go—and the elections. To-day an attempt is being made to buy a candidate into the Presidential chair with money. One or two milchair with money. One or two mil-lions of dollars have been rolled into lions of dollars have been rolled into Ohio to get it, and now another million is to be rolled into Indiana.

"With these charges staring us in the face, which man should we support—Blaine or Cleveland?" This first mention of Cleveland set the ers of sarcasm.

Referring to the slanders against Gov. Cleveland, Mr. Beecher said: "In all the history of politics I do not believe that lies so cruel, so base, so tenant Governor, Legislature and Congressman, and vote upon the question of holding a convention to revise the Constitution of the State. atrocious, have ever been set in motion. I would to God that I could be lieve that the Republican party had not any hand in it. If they have, it is the worst thing that ever was done upon a proposed amendment to the State Constitution giving the Goverby that party. The air is murky with shameless stories of Mr. Cleveland's private life. To our sorrow and shame we find these cockatrice eggs brooded and hatched by foolish nor power to veto any part of an ap-propriation bill while approving the

Mr. Beecher then produced the let-ter, which has been published in the OBSERVER. He then continued: When in the gloomy night of my sufferings in years gone by I sounded every depth of sorrow, I vowed that if God would bring the day star of hope to me, I would never suffer brother, friend or neighbor to go un-friended should a live serpent seek to crush him. That oath I will regard now. Because I know the bitterness of venomous lies I will stand against venomous lies that seek to sting to death a man-a magistrate worthy of better things.

"Then counsel me to ponder lest l stir again my own grief! No, I will not be prudent. If I refuse to interpose a shield of well placed confidence between Gov. Cleveland and the swarms of creatures that wriggle in the mud or sling arrows from ambush, may my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth, and my right hand forget its cunning. [Loud applause.] I will imitate the noble example set me by Plymouth Church in the day of my calamity. They were not ashamed of my bond. They stood by me with God-inspired loyalty. It was a heroic d ed. They have set my duty before me. I will imitate their example, and as long as I have breath I will not see a man followed by hounds, serpents, or venomous stinging insects, and not-if I believe him to be innocent-stand with him and for him." [Long and loud applause and cheers.]

Dr. Grissom's Opinion of York. Va., Dispatch a letter from one of its correspondents dated Charlotte, which gives a pretty graphic view of the political status in this State. After a brief sketch of political affairs, for a few years previous, and the origin of the Coalition combination with so called liberals, and what the Coalitionists based their hopes of success upon, it concludes that the Republicans threw away whatever advantage they might have claimed by the nomination of a mongrel like Dr. York, as their candidate for Governor, who has been abandoned by near ly all the so called Liberals and receives only a half hearted support from the Republicans, who see no hope of electing him. The correspondent thinks York will run at least four hundred votes behind Blaine in this county, and the same may be said proportionately in every county
