dina, at king's liountain Depot, on the Atlanta and Charlotte Air Line railway, now owned by the Richmend and Danville railroad company. The property has been used for fifty years past as an iron property, and has been worked at various points, but chiefly at the site of the celebrated Yeilow Ridge Ore Bank, which has always yielded an ore noted for its richness in metallic iron, and its softness and toughness. This vein of ore, which extends for two miles in length, has been worked to the dept if 147 feet, showing at that depth a vein of ore about 40 feet wide, and analyzing as high as 66 per cent, of metallic iron. This wein has not been worked for twenty rears, but the lacks set forth can be fully shown. Various other veins have been worked, and within the past two years ear large deposits of iron ore have been discovered at their points. Within the past eighteen ears very large deposits of from one have been dis-positive to their points. Within the past eighteen matrix, however, the owners have discovered de-calls of one in Crowder's Mountain, (five veins of our ore, are exposed), which were unknown be-ore, and which will furnish, an amount of good we, easily worked and above water, that must halle it one of the most desirable iron properties the island. They have discovered on the pinnacle calle it one of the most desirable fron properties to be leaned. They have discovered on the pinnacle of this mountain, which is 1000 feet above the level had, about feet above the sea level, a vein of ore eight feet wide, which crops out at various points from the top to the bottom of the mountain, showing in one place about 20 feet of solid vein. This vein can be traced over the top of the mountain for over a mile, and this deposit alone would afford an almost inexhaustible supply of ore, easily worked, and above the water line. In addition to this four other veins, have been found on this mountain.

The ore is a mottled gray ore, showing on analysis from 45 to 65 per cent. of metaille iron, with a small amount of titanic acid, and without any sulphar or phosphorus. The quantity of ore in this mountain is simply inexhaustible and of good analyse. they have reason to believe this mountain is full of ore also. In addition to iron ore the property has manganese, limestone clay for making fire-proof brick, gold and other minerals. Very pure and ex-cellent barytese has just been found in large quan-tic.

The other 4,000 acres embraced in the mountain slides are productive of fine grass and herdage, and afford excellent natural pasturage for sheep and cattle. The climate is so mild that but little sheller for stock is needed in the coldest winters. The whole six thousand acres are now covered with a fine growth of timber of all kinds, such as pine, hickory, oak, walnut, cedar, etc. The land is well suited to farming purposes, by those who wish to colonize. Cotton, corn, peas, outs, clover and grass, and truits of all kinds are produced beautifully, and it is specially suited to grapes and small fruits. It could be divided into small farms that would give to each farm variety of soil, and level and hilly and. CREMATION.

Progress Made by the Society of New Orleans -- Dr. Formento's Report. The Cremation Society of New Or-leaus held a meeting on Tuesday night last, at which there was a full attendance. Dr. Formento, who had just returned from the meeting of the American Public Health Association American Public Health Association at St. Louis, was present, and made a report in which he repeated the chief points of the two papers on cremation read before that body and prepared by the Rev. Dr. Bengless, chaplain of the United States navy, and Mr. J. M. Keating, of this city. Dr. Formento said: "Several orators, among whom Dr. John Morris, of Baltimore; Dr. Sternberg, of the United States army; Dr. Bernago, of St. Louis; Dr. Raymond, of Brook-St. Louis; Dr. Raymond, of Brook-lyn; Prof. Ropi, of Baltimore, and myself followed in the discussion. Most of them were in favor of the cremation, and I can truly say, with-A 1990 In the same of the question had the advantage. I finally offered a resolution, which, after some modifications accepted by me, was unanimously carried, namely: 'That a committee of seven be appointed to study and advise upon apply report at the payt meeting of the and report at the next meeting of the American Public Health Association the best methods of disposing of the dead.' I was made chairman of that committee, with the assistance of the Rev. Dr. Beuglass and others, whose names I have not present at this moment. An important step forward has thus been made, and the question of cremation will now come up with more authority before the National Sanitary Association at its next meet-Sanitary Association at its next meeting in Washington, in December, 1885." Mr. Levy, secretary of the New Orleans society, reported remarkable progress throughout the world in the matter of cremation world in the matter of cremation with their heads to the ring.

of sympathy and congeniality wel-comes them. Shakspeare and Wal-ter Scott may be said to belong to this class. The first is the normal product of the Elizabethan age, which has filled his imagination with its great deeds and the great changes it has wrought. Scott, too, had, in the English literature there had grown up a common understanding between the authors and the public. But, moreover, the teeming imagination which furnished out Scott's poems and romances was also in a certain sense the result of fortunate circumstances. It was not the mere accident of a gifted nature, but the result of local and family associations. In the brain of the Borderer the wild life of his ancestors survived as a perennial spring of bal-lad poetry and romance. That brain was like a haunted house upon which the strange deeds of a past genera-tion have left their mark. He said himself that he had "a head through

Where Women Work.

Eit Perkins, As Bavaria joins Switzerland I give the essence of a little talk which I had with a Bavarian and his wife, between Geneva and Munich. They were both in the field reaping wheat with a sickle. A bare-footed woman was picking up straw in the next field.

"What do you get a month for such first place, the advantage of models in whose steps it was safe to follow, since Shakspeare himself and the great novelist had created the style and smoothed the path for him, and since in two centuries of a flourishing work?" I asked. "We get, both of us together, thirty-two marks," ($8) said the man.
"And your board, too?"

"Yes, our food, too." "What do you eat every day?" I "We have flour soup for breakfast, potatoes, bread noodles for dinner, and soup and noodles for supper."
(Noodles are made of black flour, scalded and dried.) "Do you have coffee and sugar?"

"None," they both said, shaking

Damages in Both Ways.

A Lawyer's Fresh Client,

A well known lawyer of Macon took a case up to the Supreme Court nearly two years ago, and, as the costs must be paid when or before the case is called in that court, he instructed his client to send $10, the amount of the costs, to clerk Harrison, in Atlanta, says the Macon Telegraph. Some time afterward clerk Harrison dunned the lawyer for the $10. The lawyer saw his client who swore he sent it as instruct ed. The lawyer was again dunned, Exposition must satisfy all those car-pers and "prophets of evil" who thought everything would not be completed and in good order for the opening of the Exposition in Decem The condition of affairs is extremely gratifying. Although nearly all the plans have been enlarged; although the buildings to be erected have been increased in size, and even new ones arranged for, the work on all is up to time, and the date of their completion can be fixed accurately and exactly. The Horticultural Hall was the first completed, having been finished some months ago. It has, for some time, been receiving rare plants, and will be quite filled with them by the time the Exposition opens. The saw mills building, sufficient for fifty saw mills, has just been finished; so has the Main Building, while the extension to Machinery The condition of affairs is extreme ent who swore he sent it as instruct ed. The lawyer was again dunned, and, as he was responsible for the costs he paid them. A short time ago he met his cliennt and upbraided him for not sending the money. The client persited that he had sent it, and said he had the receipt at home to show for it. The lawyer told him to bring the receipt, and about four days afterwards he appeared before the lawyer with an air of mingled injured innocence and self-vindication and exclaimed. "I told you I had the receipt for it, and here it is." Imagine how the lawyer's gravity was upset when he was shown post master Brown's money order advice which the client had not sent to clerk Harrison, but kept it as he would an finished; so has the Main Building, while the extension to Machinery Hall requires only a little extra work in the way of sashing and flooring. The Art Building will be done by Nov. 10; the asphalt walks by Nov. 15. The Government Building has two thirds of the flooring and nearly all of the roofing laid, and will be turned over by Nov. 15.

It will thus be seen that the work has been pushed forward with startling rapidity in the past few weeks. Harrison, but kept it as he would an express receipt. The poor fellow thought the money had gone off properly, as his experience with money orders was limited to that one transaction. The lawyer made every apology and gave him a pointer on sending money this way in the fuling rapidity in the past few weeks, and that everything is in readiness to open the Exposition with great eclat next month. English Women.

M. Max O'Rell, in his new book, charges the English aristocracy with gluttony, and observes that their enormous eating explains "why the teeth of the English decay before the fortieth year," and why, also, "the eyes of most of the habitues of Posters Power to stick out of their the most auspicious circumstances, and have here for that great event the Presidents of the United States, Mexico and the Central American Rotten Row seem to stick out of their heads." "The fact is," he adds, "that one sees very few pretty women on the fashionable promenade in Hyde Park. With the exception of Indianapolis Sentinel: I was at the winter quarters of the Barnum circus at Bridgeport, Conn., in the elephant pavilion, watching Professor George Arstingstall rehearing his twenty odd pachyderms in the military drill. He is rather a small man, and I expenses the state of the small man, and I expenses the small man are small man, and I expenses the small man are small man, and I expenses the small man are small lovely pink and white children, you only see in the carriages stupid and clumsy figures, whose billiard-ball eyes stare stolidly. Death of Mrs. T. M. Jones.

"Perhaps it is insignificance they fear most," replied Arstingstall with a laugh; "think, for instance, of their fear of a mouse." I derided the thought as preposter-ous. But the following day, soon after I entered the pavilion Arsting-stall came in with a small mouse trap Mrs. T. M. Jones, the beloved wife of Rev. T. M. Jones, president of the Greensboro female college, died Sun day morning at Greensboro. For some time past she has been in fail-ing health and her death was not unexpected. She was aged about fifty years, and was a sister of the late Mr. Thad McGee, of this city. Several of her relations here went to stall stopped, and opening the trap Greensboro to attend the funeral, trapped a tiny mouse from it. With- among these being Mr. Eugene T. among these being Mr. Eugene T. Jones, Mr. Garland Jones, Mr. W. T. McGee and Miss Hattie McGee. Mrs. Jones was an estimable lady and a true christian. Her death is greatly regretted by warm friends in all parts of North Carolina.

An Exceptional Case.

"When I grow up I shall marry a rich man, or I won't marry any-body!" a little girl was heard to say. "But if you don't marry anybody," said her father smiling, "you will be sure to live with a poor man all your life." Instantly the little maiden answered: "Oh, but, papa, Ilove you and so you don't seem poor!"

Inflammatory Rheum atis.

I was attacked last winter with inflammatory rheumatism of severe type—my first serious illness since 1876. I had girlous kinds of treatment with only temporary partial relief. After seven weeks I was reduced in weight 35 pounds, had no strength nor appetite, and was growing weaker every day. In this condition I began Swiii's Specific, and in three days began to improve, and in three weeks I was free from disease and up attending to my regular business. My appetite returned and I rapidly gained my flesh. I have waited this long to be certain that my cure was permanent.
