Digest of Supreme Court Opinions.

Greenleaf vs Railroad.

1. A new promise must be unconditional and in writing.

2. A contract made by an officer of a corporation and ratified by the corporation, becomes the contract of the latter.

3. A verdict allowing "interest to date" in a case where the "proof is that the principal sum was due in April, 1871," is sufficiently definite as to the time for which the computation is to be made.

4. Suggestions of counsel as to what occurred on the trial will not be regarded.

5. Where a bond was placed in the hands of a co-obligor for delivery, without condition or instructions, and he subsequently executed the name of one of the signers before delivering it to the obligee and without his knowledge or consent.

6. In such case the co-obligor acts as the trustee of his associate obligors, and his abuse of the trust in altering the bond does not relieve them from liability upon the same.

7. Where two or more persons must suffer loss by the fraud of a third person, he who first reports the confidence must bear the loss.

8. Martin vs Worth.

9. The sureties on a clerk's official bond, when the clerk has been removed from office, are not liable for a default of their principal in the management of a fund which came into his hands as receiver where the order of appointment does not name him as clerk.

10. The sureties on a clerk's official bond, when the clerk has been removed from office, are not liable for a default of their principal in the management of a fund which came into his hands as receiver where the order of appointment does not name him as clerk.
