hypothetical talk of the gentleman from Tennessee, that he, the gentleman from Tennessee, did not mean to be personally offensive, and thus the performance ended and all was serene and lovely. We are really glad of this happy termination of a scene which outside of Congress might have resulted in a declaration gress of hostilities; but really, is it not absurd these frequent wordy battles, between men who ought to have better sense, who for the time being make themselves ridiculous, and who after they cool down have to go through the humiliating ordeal of publicly acknowledging that they made asses out of themselves, and used language that they did not know the full import of at the time. Perhaps as a remedy, in addition to a Speaker, it would be a good idea for Congress to have a moderator, or a guardian for these quick-blooded gentlemen, to pull their coat tails when they rise filled with ire (perhaps whiskey) and present them at the same time with a lexicon unabridged for reference so that they objected. may select just such language as they desire to use and know the full im-

REEPING HIS COUNSEL. During his stay in New York President-elect Cleveland had a small army of callers, ranging from men high up in the councils of the party, down to men conspicuous only in local politics. They doubtless talked about many things, suggested many names for this office and that, from the cabinet down, but whatever the impressions made upon Mr. Cleveland, he has managed to keep his own counsel and the country knows no more about the result of these conferences than it did before they took place, and so far as to who are the men who are going to fill his cabinet, while there are certain gentlemen who stand prominently before the eye of the country as likely to be called upon, it is all a matter of speculation. It is gratifying. however, to know, in view of the number of names that have been mentioned, that the Democratic party has such an abundance of material to draw from, From our Washington letter it would seem that Mr. Cleveland appeared to be impressed with the presentation made of the name of ex-Governor Jarvis, the unanimity of whose support in the State seemed to strike him as a favorable indication. If Gov. Jarvis should be summoned into Mr Cleveland's council, Mr. Cleveland will find him a clear headed adviser, a deep thinker, a hard worker, and one in thorough accord with the aims and purposes of the incoming administration.

Joues, of Florida, presented the credentials of the reelection of Sen-ator Call. They were filed. Execu tive session. Adjourned.

House-Reagan, of Texas, asked unanimous consent to take from the Speaker's table the inter-state commerce bill with the Senate amendments thereto, for the purpose of non concurring in those amend ments; but O'Neil, of Pennsylvania,

The House then proceeded to consideration of business under the special rule.

Gibson, of West Virginia, rose to a question of privilege and endeavor ed to be heard in regard to yesterday's dispute between Young and struggle Willis, but as he had not been immewouldn't do." diately concerned in the matter he was not allowed to proceed.

Young, of Tennessee, then rose to a question of personal privilege and explained that he discovered by to day's Record, and had also been assured by friends who heard him, that he had yesterday made some statements in regard to members of the river and harbor committee, which were too sweeping, and he explained what he had intended to say. He thus modified his remarks as to remove any imputation offen sive to chairman Willis.

Willis said that a number of gentlemen had called his attention to the fact that the language he emly. ployed yesterday might be suscepti-ble of harsher construction than he intended. He wished to disclaim now any intention of imputing per-sonal dishonor to the gentleman from Tennessee

Young said that he had expected such a statement from the gentleman. He had not believed that the gentleman intended to reflect upon him. On motion of Mr. Willis, a recess was ordered from six o'clock to-day until ten o'clock Monday, and the House then, at 2 o'clock, went into committee of the whole, Hammond, of Georgia, in the chair, on the river and harbor bill.

Dibble, of South Carolina, offered an amendment, increasing from $150,000 to $300,000 the appropriation for the improvement of the harbor at Charleston, S. C. Lost-53 to 73. A large number of amendments were offered but they were severally voted down

At 5 o'clock, Townsend, of Illinois moved that the committee rise. He wishen to move that the House adjourn, having been advised that it was the intention of the river and harbor bill to continue this legislative day throughout Monday and thus crowd out regular appropriation bills. The motion was lost.

Italy Sympathizes with Engiand. ROME, February 7th .- It is stated that the government is prepared to send 35,000 troops into the Soudan.
