Works beg to call the attention of capitalists from ananufacturers, stock and dairy men, and those who wish to settle colonies, to their property, which offers inducements to the classes above named.

The property consists of Six Thousand Three Bundred Acres of land, located in the counties of Gaston and Cleaveland, in the State of North Carolina, at King's Mountain Depot, on the Alianta and Charlotte Air Line railway, now owned by the Richmond and Danville railroad company. The property has been used for fifty warrs past as an iron property, and has been worked at various points, but chiefly at the site of the celebrated Yellow Ridge Ore Bank, which has always yielded an ore noted for its richness in metallic iron, and its softness and toughness. This vein of ore, which extends for two miles in length, has been worked to the dept fiff feet, showing at that depth a vein of ore about 40 feet wide, and analyzing as high as 66 per cent. This vein has not been worked for twenty rears, but the facts set forth can be fully shown. Various other veins have been, worked, and within the past eighteen covered at other points. Within the past eighteen ronths, however, the owners have discovered deposits of ore in Crowder's Mountain, (five veins of iron ore, are exposed), which were unknown before, and which will furnish an amount of good ore, easily worked and above water, that must make it one of the most desirable iron properties to be found. They have discovered on the pinnacie of this mountain, which is 1000 feet above the level and, 2200 feet above the sea level, a vein of ore eight feet wide, which crops out at various points from the top to the bottom of the mountain, showing in one place about 20 feet of solid win. This vein can be traced over the top of the mountain, showing in one place about 20 feet of solid win. This vein can be traced over th

Besides Crewder's Mountain the owners possess King's Mountain, for about seven miles, whose pinnacie is the highest points of land from Richmond to Atlanta, except Mt. Airy, in Georgia, and they have reason to believe this mountain is full of ore also. In addition to iron ore the property has manganese, limestone clay for making fire-proof brick, gold and other minerals. Very pure and excellent barytese has just been found in large quantity.

As a stock and dairy farm it offers fine opportualties to those who may wish to engage in such business. It has from three to four thousand acres of ievel or only slightly rolling land, which produces crass, grain and all kinds of farming products anely, and it is well supplied with water by unfailing springs and branches.

The other 4,000 acres embraced in the mountain sides are productive of fine grass and herdage, and afford excellent natural pasturage for sheep and afford excellent natural natural natural for she saluhity of the climate, and the healthiness of its atmosphere. It is a region free from malarla and other unhealthy influences. It is located with great convenience to railroad facilities, being situated at from two to four miles from King's Mountain Station, on a railway that has the most extensive connections with all parts of the country, and which offers great inducements to those who are trying to develop the country along its lines. POPULAR AGITATION.

A prominent author and educator in England writes as follows to friend in Virginia: "We are in the midst of the the greatest political changes since the revolution of 1688. What it means you may judge from this: In 1865 there were 800,000 electors; in I866 there were 3,000,000; in 1886 there will be 5,000,000. The coming 2,000,000 are largely from the country districts. They will vote against the landlords, who are mostly conservatives. Soon we may expect to see the abolition of the state church and the law of entail and the introduction of the most radical reform." The land agitation which began in Ireland has spread to England and Scotland and is gaining strength KEMNANTS OF LACE CURTAINS from 2 to every day. There are no dynamite methods resorted to, but the movement is not the less earnest because it seeks through methods of law what others, more restive, seek to accomplish by the dagger and dynamite. But there are reasons for this. In England there is free speech and a free press and the agitation can be kept up openly and vigorously. In Ireland there is neither free speech nor free press. Hence Irishmen of the more impulsive order resort to dynamite as one of the agencies to force concessions which they believe will not come without the employ ment of such terrorizing instrumentalities. When despofic power prevails and men cannot act openly for redress of grievances, they will work in secret, the more determined of them will counsel and use the dagger and the dynamite to cope with the despotism that throttles free speech and shackles free action. Russsia is one of the most powerful despotisms on the face of the globe, and yet a handful of determined Nihilists prac tically make the Czar a prisoner in his palaces, making his coming and going a matter of peril, and keep him in constant fear of his life. So in other countries where the will of the ruler is mightier than the voice of people, secret societies exist and work frozen, each man's helmet and coat in the dark. The fact is there is a appearing as hard as armor, but their

Number of Lives Lost---Lunatics Large in the Streets.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13. - A fire last night at the almshouse entirely destroyed that portion of the institution set apart for the insane. Of the 684 lunatics confined there many are missing, but it is thought most of them wandered away. At nine o'clock this morning two more charred bodies were found in ward number two. They had been roasted beyond all recognition. Several human forms can be seen in the burning wreck in the cellar. It is now thought that 28 of the inmates perished, that number of violent patients were locked in cells on the third floor and could not be reached. Eight have been taken out dead, and the others are not accounted for. There seems no doubt that they are lost, and that their remains are among the ruins.

During the night many insane persons were found wandering in different parts of the city, some nearly naked. The poor creatures generally seemed unable to understand the situation, and in some cases begged their captors piteously not to throw them in the river. Others seemed to take it as a grand joke, and laughed gleefully when the subject of the fire was mentioned. Another came flying down South street early this morning with a manacle attached to his wrist and a few links of the chain dangling from it. He shrieked and laughed as he struck right and left among the frightened people. It was found necessary to use violence and knock him down before he could be secured. Another madman caused a panic in a street car by rushing in half clad and with his face scorched and blackened. He sank cowering in a corner, and it was soon found that he was more frightened than those who had run away. A report that the streets were full of escaped maniacs caused much alarm in West Philadelphia. and strangers look upon each other with much distrust. The firemen are still at work on the ruins. They are weary and half search for the bodies is continued steadily. There appears to have been a great deal of unnecessary trouble caused by rotten hose and the scarcity of the water supply. To remedy the latter a dozen brawny firemen chopped a hole in the thick ice on the Schuylkill river, but when the hose was introduced the mud and grinding bits of ice split the leather, and the remedy was a failure. The confusion about the ruins, the disposition of the insane people to secrete themselves, the promiscuous manner in which they are being cared for, and the utter weariness of all those who have had them in charge prevent an accurate estimate being made of the loss of life and property.

Mrs Dudley Writes a Letter.

Mrs Yseult Dudley has written a letter to the New York Tribune, the purport of which is that O'Donovan Rossa has no right to complain of her est form of patriotism, and that she only practiced what he taught her. Mrs. Dudley says she will avail herself of the best counsel she can procure, and will leave her case contentedly in their hands.

According to a recent publication Mrs. Dudley's early days were days parish of Kingston on Thames October 1, 1860. Her true name is Keenan. She was the daughter of Ellen Keenan, a single woman who was co keenan, a single woman who was co-habiting at Surbiton with Henry Ed-wards Handley. They were known in Surbiton as Mr. and Mrs. Henry Coverdale. In the parish register the child is named Lucy Coverdale. The mother died when Lucy was a girl five years old, and her putative father is supposed to be living in New Zealand. While in England she assumed a variety of aliases, among them Coverdale, Lucilla, Dudley, Keenan, Boyle, Doyle, Dale and Du-

England and Italy. One of the most curious developments in the present European com-plications is the alliance between Italy and England. Exactly why these two powers-whose interests these two powers—whose interests are so little connected—should be acting together and co-operating in Egypt, it is difficult to say. Italy perhaps feels that she has been neglected too much in the past. She is still bitter over the French action in Tunis and the ignoring of Italy's claims there, and is seeking for influence and power as well as for some colonial possssion; and she seizes therefore the first opportunity offered her to play a more important part in European politics. The arrangements made in Italy between Italy and Eugland must be satisfac-Italy and Eugland must be satisfactory to both parties. The Italians are to do garrison duty in Alexandria, Cairo and other Egyptian towns, thus relieving the English forces and permitting them to be sent to the front in the Soudan. This is as far as the treaty goes.

The Italians seem delighted with their new friend, and are promising to do anything asked of them, and t furnish as large a force as needed Their ultimate aim, it is said, is to secure Tripoli, a barren slip of land on the African side of the Mediteranean, of a little value. But in the present European craze for new possessions any land seems desirable. The Italian troops have had little opportunity for fighting since Italy ecame one of the great powers. It has a large army on which a considerable sum of money has been-expended, and one of the finest European navies; but it is doubtful whether they will be called on for much service to-day, in consequence of this alliance.

Progress of Education in Philadelphia President Steel delivered an address before the board of education o Philadelphia Tuesday. He spoke of the necessity of instituting manual training and industrial education. The experiment of teaching sewing has proved successful, eleven special teachers being now employed for that purpose, and steps have been taken to extend the instruction into all the secondary and grammar schools of the city. He hoped that the de-partment would be able to make some progress toward the establishment of supervising principals, which he considered to be the next important step in the reorganization of the school system of the city. He recommended the establishment of a cooking school at the Girls' Normal School, and also stated that he was happy to report the continued pros-perity of the night schools, which registered 13,886 pupils during the last term. The reports show that the pupils of the colored schools are more regular in their attendance than those of other schools. A Colored Educational Conference. Revival of the Trade of Fayetteville.

Faretteville Observer. In the olden time large quantities of molasses was hauled in wagons from this point to many places South and West. Until the railroad connection to Greensboro and Bennettsville, much of that trade was cut off from us, the white topped wagon being a thing of the past as a common carrier. Large quantities of molasses and syrup are shipped direct from Matanzas here and sent by rail to the Western and Southern consumers. Large quantities of other kinds of freight are also forwarded over our railroad.
