of Kentucky, for commissioner of in-ternal revenue, backed as he was by the whiskey interests of that State, and also of large whiskey handlers outside of that State, and the appoint ment of Mr. Miller, of West Virbinia, who had no such backing, and whose name for that position was not prominently before the public, is differently construed. Some are disposed to regard it as a victory of the Randall wing of the Democratic party, to which Mr. Miller is reported to belong, while others, who claim to know whereof they speak say that this consideration did not enter into

The Charlotte Observer.

WHAT IT MEANS.

The defeat of Mr. Phil Thompson

the motives of the appointment at all and that nothing was further from the President's views than to lean either to the protective or free trade elements in a question which had no connection with or bearing upon that issue. Mr. Thompson was not appointed simply for the reason that being from Kentucky and closely identified with the whiskey interests of that State, his appointment under the circumstances was looked upon at least as unjudicious, and also in view of the fact that the status of the whiskey tax involving millions of dollars is not yet determined and will probably be agitated in the next Congress as it was in the past. As a matter of prudence it was not advisable to put in such a responsible position, at such a time the man selected and urged by an interest which had much at stake, and which once in would not hesitate to use him if he could be used. Hence Mr. Cleveland wisely decided to appoint a man free from all these entanglements, who would enter the office unembarrassed, and not subject to the suspicion of being the creature of any ring or combination, a decision which shows a discriminating judgment which looks ahead and guards against not only probable but possible embarrassments This is the view that is taken of it by some of the eading journals in the country, as an illustration of which we clip the following from the Philadelphia

Times, Independent, written just before Mr. Miller was appointed: The whiskey ring has marshaled all its immense forces and concentrated its great power, to accomplish the appointment of ex-Congressman Pnil Thompson, of Kentucky, as commissioner of internal revenue. The issue is thus made for the Cleveland administration so plainly that none can mistake it, and the occasion is a most auspicious one to halt the whismost auspicious one to halt the whis-key ring at the threshold of the new national authority. If not halted now, the whiskey ring will speedily halt public trust in President Cleve-

There are reasons obvious to President Cleveland and Secretary Mandent Cleveland and Secretary Manning, outside of the whiskey ring interest that is battling for Mr. Thompson, which so cogently forbid his appointment, that we can't doubt the failure of the application, however strongly backed; but if there were no insuperable personal objections to Mr. Thompson, the manner in which, and the purpose for which, he is pressed upon the administration should summarily dismiss him and his backers.

The new commissioner of internal revenue should mark a pointed contrast with his recent predecessors. One of them resigned the office to be come the attorney for the whiskey ring, and the present incumbent comes from the midst of the whiskey comes from the midst of the whiskey ringsters and is their obedient servant. The new commissioner should know no obligations to any ring or interest, and that standard precludes Mr. Thompson. Halt the whiskey ring; and the way to halt it peremptorily is to appoint a resolutely honest and competer t commissioner of revenue.

Considerable consternation has peen created in Philadelphia by the the discovery that a Russian butcher domiciled there has been using can ine flesh as a sausage compound. The indignation was greatly enhanced when it was was learned that he had passed pulchritudinous Newfound-land dogs off as yeal.

Deaths from Hiccoughs'

Chatanooga Times.

Mention was made in yesterday's Times that there had been three deaths in this city already this week from a mysterious malady, the only specific symptom of which was hiccoughs. Physicians were disposed to regard this merely as a coincidence, but later developments make the matter more serious, and the subject is proving very puzzling to several of our leading physicians. A Times reporter learned yesterday that there were two more cases which were in a very critical condition last night, and death seemed ine vitable.

THE NORTH CAROLINIANS IN THE

New Roster and Some Inkling of What it Means--- A Correction of the Associated Press--- Mr. Bayards Central American Dispatches.

Washington, March 18.—Arrivals are Col. Miller and bride, Col. R. F. Armfield, Messrs. Shepherd and Williams, of Iredell; Richmond M. Pearson, Esq., of Asheville; Julius A. Bonitz, Esq., of the Goldsboro Messenger, and son; Col. Isaac J. Young, collector of the 4th district. Messrs senger, and son; Col. Isaac J. Young, collector of the 4th district; Messrs. Fort, Council and Bissell, of Wayne and adjacent counties. Col. John A. Sloan, the historian, is also here. Col. W. F. Beasley was seen on the avenue yesterday. There are several others, whom I could not trace up.

Mr. Bonitz is here on private business not connected in any manner with politics.

Col. Ike looks grave, but says: 'You fellows oughtn't to be rash, but should stick up to your civil service principles and keep me in."

The delegation has endorsed Maj.

Edward J. Hale as its choice for minister to Belgium, or a mission of equal grade, and the papers have been filed.

Maj. Dowd probably has the inside track for the collectorship of the 6th district, as it is understood that Mr. own section is somewhat di-

Gen. Young seems to be the only candidate mentioned now for postmaster at Charlotte.

The postoffices are giving the delegation more trouble than anything else. There are several applicants for the Salisbury office, also for that of Winston. In Thomasville the Democrats are bringing a pressure against the incumbent, Miss Cates, because her father is a Republican.

Mr. Williams, of Iredell, wants the lead office in Debote. land office in Dakota.

Senator Vance, who was in the Senate yesterday, is absent from indisposition today, but is paired.

It would seem from the nominations for Commissioner of Internal Revenue and First Comptroller of the Treasury that the President is holding the balances even between the factions. Kentucky was knocked out on the first, but secured the second and equally important prize. It is not true, a well informed Kentuckian said this morning before Durham's appointment was an-nounced, that the Democrats of Kentucky were sore over Phil. Thompmissionership. Nevertheless, Mr. Randall's friends have done a deal of Randall's friends have done a deal of boasting ever since Miller's name was sent in. It is now the Kentucky day for crowing. The truth is, Mr. Cleveland is wisely holding the balances even between Messrs. Carlisle and Randall, although the administration, excepting Messrs. Manning and Whitney, is nearer to Carlisle on the tariff question than to Randall.

There is some sharp criticisms, even among Mr Bayard's best friends, of his signature to the Central American dispatches. They say that it might do for Blaine or Brewster to sign his family name, as would an English lord, but that a true American Democrat should subscribe himself in official communications as any other citizen would, with his full Christian name, or the initials thereof. But there is no disapproval of the matter of the Secretary's telegrams.

one of the House employes thirty years ago, says that in those days Gen. Thomas L. Clingman was regarded as one of the finest looking men of the body. The name for him was "Handsome Tom." "And," adwas "Handsome Tom." "And," added my informant, "he was as gifted as he was good looking. Few men in public life are equal to him." The same gentleman spoke highly of Messra Ruffin and Outlaw, making the mistake, however, such was the lapse of time, of crediting the latter to South Carolina.

INTERNAL REVENUE COMMIS-Why the Gentleman from West Virginia

was Appointed. Wash. Cor. Baltimore Sun.

There was considerable talk among the visitors at the white house today on the snoject of the recent nomination of Mr. Miller as commissioner of internal revenue, and the construction sought to be put upon it as a victory of the Randall high tariff element against the Carlisle revenue reform element. There is absolutely no ground whatever for such inferno ground whatever for such inferences. The question of high and low ences. The question of high and low tariff no more entered into the consideration of this subject than it would in the determination of who should be sent as minister to Liberia. It happened that Mr. Carlisle, who is looked upon as the leader of the revenue reformers, supported very actively ex-Representative Thompson, of Kentucky, for commissioner of internal revenue, while Mr. Randall, of Kentucky, for commissioner of in-ternal revenue, while Mr. Randall, the leader of the protectionists, has been given the main credit for the appointment of Mr. Miller. It is learned on the very highest authori-ty, all statements to the contrary nothwithstanding, that while Mr. Randall indicated his opinion that the appointment of Thompson was Randall indicated his opinion that the appointment of Thompson was not a proper one to be made, he really took very little interest in the case. The President, in conferring the appointment upon Mr. Miller, was influenced by two considerations only—first, that it would be eminently

SEA HOGS FOR FOOD.

Porpoise Stakes to Take a Prominent Place on Hotel Bills of Fare.

A letter from Atlantic City to the Philadelphia Times says:

"Porpoise fishing promises to become one on the principal industries of the New Jersey coast. The experiment made last fall at Cape May proved so successful in a financial way that the facilities of the company will be greatly increased and other porpoise fisheries will be established in Cape May and Atlantic counties. At first they were caught for the skin and blubber alone, the carcasses being thrown away or in a carcasses being thrown away or in a few instances used as fertilizers. From the blubber is extracted a very from the blubber is extracted a very fine oil, while the skin makes 'a superior quality of leather. Some time last fall however, it was discovered that the porpoise flesh was savory to the taste, and it soon became popular as an article of food, and was in great demand. The juicy red meet great demand. The juicy red meat, which is taken from beneath a layer of fat next to the skin, is pronounced by epicures to be more palatable than any porterhouse steak ever cooked. In appearance it resembles beef, but is more solid and of finer grain and very tender. Some say that it tastes likes venison, and that there is nothing of the fishy taste about it

"Last fall New York parties offered two cents per pound for the carcass-es, but they will command a much higher figure this summer. A Philadelphia firm has recently made a proposition to take all that may be eaught along the coast this season with the view of working much of it into mincement. The Cape May Company, however, will reject the offer, as it already has orders from prominent Philadelphia and New York hotels and restaurants, and it is believed that there will be a demand for the meat which cannot be met. For the first time it will be on the bills of fare at the leading hotels along the coast the coming season, and will no doubt prove acceptable as a substitute for the inevitable fish. In addition to this much of it will be dried and placed upon the market. It is superior to dried beef, as in this state it retains all sorts of its sweet-ness and is still as tender as when "The porpoises weighs from three hundred to four hundred pounds and are caught in a seine, which is necessarily large and cumbersome, as the fish are very powerful when they are in the water. Last year a seine about one thousand yards long, with a net reaching almost to the bottom of the sea, was used, but proved seines will be used this season, some of which are now in course of construction and which will be patented. Each porpoise was estimated to be worth $20 per head when nothing but the blubber and skin were utilized, but now that the flesh is in demand and an extra fine oil is extracted trom the head, it is said that they will be worth more than double that amount. When it is stated that the Cape May Company realized $3, 740 from an outlay of $1,000 last sea son in five weeks' time, it will read in the cape weeks' time, it will be read that the cape weeks' time, it will be read that the cape weeks' time, it will be read that the cape weeks' time, it will be read that the cape weeks' time. readily be seen what a profit there is in porpoise fishing. Steps have re-cently been taken to organize a Com-pany at Atlantic City and other points along the coast."

Gen. Grant's Religious Views.

The Rev. Dr. John P. Newman

was sent for with a view to his acting as spiritual adviser, but this was on Monday between Messrs. Van Wyck and Eustis, on one side, and ex-Secretary Teller on the other, in the matter of the Backbone land grants. Van Wyck, in the general opinion, demolished Teller in facts and argument, and was not once ly in later years to form any opinion placed on the defensive. An attache of the Senate, who was one of the House employes thirty pared to accept the extreme position taken by most Protestants, that the unconverted and the indifferent will be eternally tormented. If Grant's attitude with reference to religion could be exactly defined, it might be expressed as having all along been one of unconcern, and there is no reason to suppose that the nearness of death has made any change, though his wife is very solicitous that he should arouse to mental activity on the subject, "He does not apparently bother himself in the least about the hereafter," says, one trustworthy informant, "seemingly being willing to take his chance with the millions who have gone before him in the same frame of mind." The only clergyman with whom he was ever intimate was Dr. Newman, and their relations were confined mainly to sociability. When Newman undertook the ultimately disastrous job of gathering a popular con-gregation in the big church in which Hepworth had failed, Grant took a new, made a liberal contribution and attended the services with consider ble regularity; but when offered a leaconate in the church, which was Congregational, though the pas'or was a Methodist, he abruptly declined. When the slightly less spiritual office of trustee was suggested, he refused that, too, and avowed his moderate degree of infidelity. It remains to be seen whether Newman will be able to shake him in that position of indifference. The trial is bound to be made.

For several years I have had a trouble with my breast, which I fear is cancer, that being incident to my family. For two years past any general health has been wretched from its effects. I became so weak I was incapacitated for all work; my appedite was gone, the aight of food was nauseating to me, I would would wake up in the morning so tired I scarcely had energy to arise and dress myself, upon the least exertion I had papitation of the heart so violently that I was helpless. I was so nervous I could get no good sleep, but would lay awake at night restless, and wheu I did drop off to sleep would soon awake with a start, and it would be nours before I could get to sleep again. My constitution was wrecked—hope was gone. I concluded, as a last resort, to try Mrs. Joe Person's Remed. I commenced using it last July, have taken 17 bottles, and the effect has been wonderful. My general health is excellent. I sleep as well as I ever did in my life and wake in the morning feeling refreshed and well. I can not only get up and cook my own breakfast without fatigue but have fine appetite to relish it now after 'cook it. I can go all day long and am not tired when night comes. I have not had a touch of palpitation of the heart, since soon after I commenced the Remedy. My breast does not pain me at all, or give me any trouble. I do not know whether the Remedy will cure my breast or not, as the lump is still there, but if it never does no words of mine can express my gratitude for what the Remedy has done for me. It has done more for me than Mrs. Person premised me it would do, when I consulted her in regard to using it. I will take pleasure in giving any one information in regard to my case who may desire it. I wish every afflicted person in the land could know of its virtue, I am gratefully.
