REFORM.

In the Presidential campaign of 1876, which resulted in the election of Samuel J. Tilden to the Presidency, and the seating of the fraudulent Hayes, the leading issue was the cry of "Reform." In the campaign which ended in the election of Cleveland, the Republicans attempted to force an issue on the tariff, but as is now believed under Cleveland's direc tion, the Albany Argus, then edited by Dan Manning, now Secretary of the Treasury, and regarded justly as party in the North, kept standing at its masthead in bold black letters, "The tariff is not an issue in this campaign." Reform in the tariff was incidental to the general reform demanded by the people.

It is continually asserted by some that Mr. Cleveland came into office absolutely "unpledged." This is not true. The new President, as well as the party behind him, is pledged to that "reform" which will bring back the government to the limitations of the Constitution and make it what it was intended to be by its founders, "a government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

One of these reforms is that there shall be speedy and proper changes made in the Federal offices of the South. This can and must be done clearly within the purview of the. civil service law, and without conscientious scruples on the part of Mr. Cleveland. We claim that a general clearing out of the Southern Federal officers is absolutely demanded in the interest of such reform. For Federal appointments at the South have been made, as a rule, for partisan reasons and from a class of persons who would not be given positions on business grounds or by the suffrages

These should be removed and good, honest men given their places, but perhaps the sweep should not be too clean nor should it be made on purely political grounds. There is scarce ly a necessity for this suggestion, however, since Mr. Cleveland has committed himself to the policy of civil service reform in its purest sense, and this would not admit of his applying other than personal and public tests in conducting these re-

Mr. Cleveland sealed the fate of many of the Republican Southern officeholders when he wrote his famous civil service letter to Mr. Curtis. In that letter he said: "Many now holding Government positions have forieited all just claims of retention, because they have used their places for party purposes, in disregard of their duty to the people, and because instead of being decent public servants, they have proved themselves offensive partisans and unscrupulous manipulators of local party management."

Can any one doubt Mr. Cleveland's intentions after reading the above? He has never broken a pledge yet, and it shows very bad taste, to say the least of it, when he is attacked by so-called Democratic papers for not acting more quickly, as if they doubted his intentions. We believe he intends doing the work thoroughly, but he intends doing it in his own way, and not at the dictation of every whipper-enapper newspaper scribbler or politician in the country who thinks he carries the wisdom of the world under his hat band.

Mr. Cleveland will "turn the rase cals out," but he will do so simply because they have been and still are guilty of incompetency, rascality and offensive partisanship, and not for the purpose of making places for hungry office seekers, who now have the brass to claim rewards for having performed a sacred duty in the

As far as we have noticed the weight of the argument seems to be against dividing, al-though the other side has some able advocates --- An item has been going the rounds of the papers to the effect that the recent fire and attempts at ncendiarism here was the outcome of a belief among the negroes that the body of Lee Staten, colored, who was recently lynched, was disintered and dissected by Dr. F. M. Winchester and others. It is unnecessa ry for us to say that this is a pure nvention of some quill driver outside of Monroe, as no such belief exists here. Lexington Dispatch: Last Friday, the case of Mary Ann Green against Franklin Everhart, was being tried before a jury. A number of witnes ses were examined to prove that the plaintiff was insane when she executed a certain deed. The admissibility of the plaintiff's testimony to prove that she had ever been insane was argued at some length. The judge related to the counsel an incident of a jurer who went crazy from hearing an insanity case argued. The case went over until the next morning. When the case was called on Saturday, Mr. John L. Young, one of the jurors, did not answer to his name. The case was continued until Monday, and inquiry being made, it was learned that the juror had left home on Saturday; but diligent search failed to discover him. FIXING THINGS. NORTH CAROLINA AT LAST.

The Old North State's Pork and Pepper--Whut Mer Statesmen are Do-Washington, March 26.- The crowd of office seekers grows slimmer. The conviction is abroad that the best way to get a place in the administration is to wait for the lightning to strike. Certain it is that the most clamerous eekers do not soonest find. Senator Ransom and other North Carolinians were seen at the White House about noon, the hour of the assembling of the Cabinet. Our politicians, compared with many others, have been modest, and it is believed that their modesty is now to be handsomely rewarded. With Jarvis, Fowle and Bob Vance well provided for, there will still be positions, and you may read THE OBSERVER'S dispatches for the next for deep after the next for the nex read THE OBSERVER'S dispatches for the next few days after this date for confirmation of this statement. Touching Gen. Vance a gentleman said this morning: "Whatever Bob Vance has tried to do he has done thoroughly. He understands all patent laws and the whole subject of patents." patent laws and the whole subject of patents. He has given much attention to the interests of the Cherokee Indians. He is up in the intricacies of department work, how to get things done and what things to have done." At another time, perhaps a dozen North Carolinians were congregated socially, a venerable Democrat observed: "Well, here is Jarvis. He made a fine Governor. At first he made a fine Governor. At first he couldn't speak very well, but he learned to make the best speeches on the stump I ever heard. I mean the most telling, sensible efforts-nothing florid and ambitious. Once he fol-lowed John W. Daniel and thought he had to send off fire works because he thought it would be expected after the eloquent Virginian. But it was a complete failure. Jarvis is distin guished for his horse sense.' "How would he do for minister to Brazil, to which country they say he is to be sent?" "Oh, he'd be all right on the work line. As to the flummeries of court State etiquette and all that, I imagine that he wouldn't rival Lowell. But then you know, we sent Judge Rom Saunders to the very particular court of Madrid and he couldn't speak Spanish. But he got along and attended to the business for all that. It doesn't take such a finished scholar and eloquent gentleman for every diplomatic place. Besides, Mrs. Jarvis is able to supply all the tact, pol-ish, language and whatnot that way he needed. Rare-woman, Mrs. Jar vis." In these opinions all who were present seemed to concern. We have a jovial crowd here from western Carolina. Every day at a certain room in the Capitol there is an assemblage which for wit, wisdom, Democracy, pulchritude and comradeship is extremely hard to beat. This week-well, perhaps it is a breach of the proprieties to personalize, but I did want very much to say that any group of gentlemen that comprised the cherry and erudite Mc-Corkle, the learned, modest and tire less Henderson, the active, eloquent and handsome Reid, the stalwart and practical Johnson, the elegant and dignified Hale, the reticent and sensible Boyd, the logical and judicial Bynum, the courtly and debonair Hussey, the business-like Gregory, and the affable Williams, is at once marked for its intelligence and its sociability. Six of these gentlemen, headed by the two Congressmen first named, called at the White House Tuesday and paid their respects to the President, after which they visited Mr. Solicitor General Phillips socially at his office in the Department of Justice. Mr. Phillips seemed touched deeply by this testimonial of personal esteem from fellow Carolinians, prominent members of the bar, public men and gentlemen op-posed to himself in politics. One of the party said afterward that if either call had had to be dispensed with, he would have preferred seeing Mr. Phillips. This gentleman received his friends very cordially, and they remained some time chatting pleasure. remained some time chatting pleas antly upon various subjects. A little pleasantry arose at the capitol later in the day as to sundry flowers and the disposition made of them; whether, first, they were presented by the White House gardener or bought of a florist, and next, whether they were sent by mail to the confiding wives at home or bestowed upon some buxom beauties at the gate of the grounds, who snickered and said that the President ought to give them his flowers and "not those old clodhoppers from the country. Yesterday Mr. Johnson took another party to see Mr. Cleveland, and they too, claimed to have received bouquets which they promptly forwarded to the spouses far away. Only two postmasters have been appointed in Mr. Henderson's dis trict, but there are a large number of vacancies soon to be filled. Those appointed are: At Catawba, J. U. Long; at Randalman's, W. P. Brooks; at Franklinsville, John S. Ritter. Mr Johnson has secured the appointment as route agent or postal clerk of Mr. D. M. Luther, of Hays wood. He will serve on the Duck town line. Mr. Johnson has only one postoffice the term of the postmaster of which has expired.

A member of the Cabinet has said that the administration is hampered by the fact that so many of the chief clerks and bureau and division chiefs are Republicans. As soon as practicable these places will be filled by persons in sympathy with the admin istration, and when this is done, appointments here and in the States will go through without difficulty. Democrats are chaffed about Republican endorsements of the administration. This noon a number of gentlemen met casually. They were from different States and sections, and all except two were Republicans One Republican said: "It is a singu lar fact that you see no Democrat who is entirely pleased with the ceurse of the President and no Republican who objects to that course."

Up spoke one: "You are mistaken;
here is a Democrat who not only does "Mighty strange, gentlemen," remarked the other Democrat, "that you," turning to the Republicans, "should for once in your lives be found endorsing such nominations.

Not a Republican has been nominations. ed. Every man is a Democrat, and therefore a good nomination" In another place the crowd was all Dem man. "Yes," was the response, "it's too d - d harmonious to last."

And so swells the tide of talk.

Senator Vance was able to appear in the Senate today, closely wrapped.

TARBORO, Feb. 4, 1885.

For several years I have had a trouble with my breast, which I fear is cancer, that being incident to my family. For two years past my general health has been wretched from its effects. I became so weak I was incapacitated for all work; my appetite was gone, the sight of food was nauseating to me. I would would wake up in the morning so tired I scarcely had energy to arise and dress myself, upon the least exertion I had palpitation of the heart so violently that I was helpless. I was se nervous I could get no good sleep, but would lay awake at night restless, and when I did drop off to sleep would soon awake with a start, and it would be hours before I could get to sleep again. My constitution was wrecked—hope was gone. I concluded, as a last resort, to try Mrs. Joe Person's Remed. I commenced using it last July, have taken I7 bottles, and the effect has been wonderful. My general health is excellent. I sleep as well as I ever did in my life and wake in the morning feeling refreshed and well I can not only get up and cook my own breakfast without fatigue but have fine appetite to relish it now after I cook it. I can go all day long and am not tired when night comes. I have not had a touch of palpitation of the heart, since soon after I commenced the Remedy. My breast does not pain me at all, or give me any trouble. I do not know whether the Remedy will cure my breast or not, as the lump is still there, but if it never does, no words of mine can express my grattlude for what the Remedy has done for me. It has done more for me than Mrs. Person premised me it would do, when I consulted her in regard to using it. I will take pleasure in giving any one information in regard to using it. I will take pleasure in giving any one information in regard to using it. I will take pleasure in giving any one information in regard to using it. I will take pleasure in giving any one information of its virtue, I am gratefully.

Wittnesses—H. B. Bryan, E. B. Hodges,

Who is Mrs. Winslow?

Who is Mrs. Winslow?

As this question is frequently asked, we will simply say that she is a lady who for upwards of thirty years has untringly devoted her time and talents as a f-male physician and nurse, principally among children, the has especially studied the constitution and wants of this numerous class, and, as a result of this effort, and practical knowledge, obtained in a lifetime spent as nurse and physician, she has compounded a Soothing Syrup, for children teething. It operates like unagle-giving rest and heatth, and is moreover sure to regulate the bowels. In consequence of this article, Mrs. Winslow is becoming world-renowned as a benefactor of her race; children certainly do rise up and bless her; especially is this the case in this city. Vast quantities of the Soothing Syrup are daily sold and used here. We think Mrs. Winslow as immortalized her name by this invaluable article, and we sincerely believe thousands of children have been saved from an early grave by its timely use, and that millions yet unborn will share its benefits, and unite in calling her blessed. No mother has discharged her duty to her suffering little one, in our opinion, until she has given it the benefit of Mrs. Winslow's Sothing Syrup Try it, mothers—try it now—Ladies' Visitor, New York City—Sold by all druggists.
