UNJUST DISCRIMINATION.

The Washington Critic says that the female employees of the government in the departments at Washington incline to the opinion that Miss Cleveland's influence with her brother, the President, will secure them more consideration at the hands of this administration than they have received under preceding ones, and that the President will as far as possible do away with the unjust discrimination in the matter of salary as between men and women in the departments who do the same kind of work for which the male clerks are much better paid. This is right. There is no reason why women in the government service should be paid less than men who render the same kind of service. If they are as competent as men they should receive the same pay, and if they are not competent they should not be kept in service. The pay should be based on competency and not upon the sex of the employe.

In addition to this there is much room for reform in the departments where females are employed. Heretofore many of these appointments were made as a matter of favoritism, and Congressmen and Senators have thrust into positions where they rendered mere nominal services, their mistresses and supported them at the public expense. Many a frail woman has thus been provided for, and many a woman has parted with her virtue as the price of position sought. There has been much scandal in past years, growing out of this State of affairs, and much more that has never seen the light in print, because the names of the parties that figured in them protected them from public exposure. Besides the frail and the fallen, there are good, pure and honest women, toiling faithfully for the support of themselves and others dependent upon them, who feel humiliated to know that circumstances compel them to be thrown in contact with others who have sold themselves to gain the favor that they had not the merit to win, but they could not help it, for to complain or to protest would be to incur displeasure and loss of place. There are women in Washington, members of what is called the "Women's League," who are doing what they can to reform abuses as regards women employes, and secure fair play and just recognition for the honest toilers. They say they have a "mission." We trust that in their efforts they will have the co-operation of Miss Cleveland, who can be of vast service to them, and of vast service, too, in helping along the reforms in which the better women who seek government employment are so much interested.

There is one thing certain, and that is that under the present regime, with the men who are now at the heads of the respective departments, there will be very little encouragement given to gentlemen who seek soft places for female companions, nor for females who show less respect for the moral code than they should.

A man in New York advertised the other day that he wanted to give away his daughter, a good looking girl eleven years old, alleging as a cause that he could not support her. Investigation developed the fact that he wanted $1,000 for her. The society for the prevention of cruelty to children took the matter into the courts where it was decided that a parent could give away a child but could not receive money for it. This seems to have been a question in New York whether a parent had the right to sell a child.

Perhaps Mr. Riel has been conspiring with Mr. El Mahdi and raised that row up in Manitoba. O'Donovan Rossa has not yet announced that he fixed up all that business.

The New York papers are urging the citizens and authorities of that city to put it in a good sanitary condition to guard against cholera's getting a foothold in the event it makes its appearance this spring which they regard as highly probable.

Congressman S. S. Cox, nominated as U. S. Minister to Turkey, got the sobriquet of "Sunset" from a gorgeous description of a sunset he witnessed on the 19th of May, 1853, when he was editor of the Columbus, Ohio, Statesman.

Miss Cleveland, the President's sister, is very fond of children and kisses all the little fellows who are brought to see her.

The Tennessee Legislature, Saturday repealed the railroad commission law by a vote of 56 to 35.

The Manitoba Revolt.

WINNEPEG, MANITOBA, March 30.—The latest dispatches from Battle Ford last night said Battle Ford has been captured. The Indians have got possession of every house in the place and the settlers escaped to the barracks where they are now awaiting an attack from the Indians who are gathered on the South side of the River. All are well armed. A fight, it is believed, will take place before evening.

THE NOMINATIONS.

OPINION IN THE N. C. "COLONY."

Some Gentlemen Not Satisfied---What is Said About Jarvis and the Mission ---The Other Places.

Correspondence of THE OBSERVER.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—For at least four days it has been known that Gov. Jarvis would receive the mission to Brazil. Building upon the action of the State Legislature, his friends had influence enough with the Congressional delegation to get their unanimous support That done, quiet but exceedingly effective work was "got in," as the Western phrase is, in high quarters One of our Senators gave the matter his close personal attention, and he received such aid as was necessary or possible from his colleagues It is very safe to say that considerable as is the reputation of the ex-Governor at home, he could only have secured the office by strong effort in his behalf exerted unremittingly. It is probable that it would not have been conferred without the earnest solicitation of Gen. Ransom.

The nomination, along with local nominations of prominence, was expected on Friday But the messenger did not arrive until after the Senate had adjourned. Hence the comment one hears is not so fresh as that over the other diplomatic appointments made at the same time. North Carolinians here, as elsewhere, are divided on the question of Jarvis' ability. Some have never thought that he was equal to his measure in the public eye. Others doubt that the measure has been definitely ascertained. But perhaps the larger number, including his zealous personal following and others who do not specially admire him, claim for him very considerable executive force. He is believed by these gentlemen to have been a good leader in reconstruction times, to have made a successful Governor, and to be altogether a man of much sagacity and shrewdness in the conduct of public affairs. Nevertheless, the effort of his peculiar friends to give him the eclat of high statesmanship, and bestow upon him such praise as is only earned by the most gifted and accomplished public men, reacts unfavorably when he comes to be viewed in the larger light of general opinion to which he is now exposed. I have heard from nobody not a North Carolinian this exaggerated judgment or anything approaching it. This afternoon correspondents of leading papers are interviewing citizens of North Carolina for the purpose of ascertaining the facts of his career and some opinion as to his talents. It is the best only that is said in reply to questions, so far as I am aware.

Gov. Jarvis, it is said, will have a fine field of operations in Brazil. It is a large empire, having a constitution and a liberal and enlightened ruler, who is a friend of the United States. As a Southerner, Minister Jarvis will be able to understand the "peculiar institution," slavery, which flourishes in a mild form in Brazil, and therefore will be more en rapport with the Brazilians and their government than would a Northern man. But the greatest consideration is the matter of trade relations with that country, which it is exceedingly desirable to improve. If he will exert himself, and, under the suggestions of policy which Mr. Secretary Bayard will be apt to furnish, carry into effect a treaty which shall enable that people to enjoy our manufactures and our people to enjoy their coffee, fruits and other products, he will add greatly to his laurels and promote in a large measure the prosperity of his country. The salary is $12,000. The language of the country is Portuguese.

Two other nominations of North Carolinians were sent in this noon: Col. David Settle, for marshal of the Western District, and Hon. Clement Dowd, for collector of the Sixth Internal Revenue District. These nominations and the nomination of Ex-Gov. Jarvis were all foreseen in this correspondence. There is some dissatisfaction. Gentlemen who preferred other candidates have their "say." Upon the whole, however, I think the new marshal and collector are regarded as the best men for the respective positions. One thing can be said Our people who fail to get what they ask for or expect do not "cuss and quit," but announce their determination to stand up, "die all the ills of life victorious."

Lieut Gov. Stedman is stopping at the Metropolitan Hotel. He is here to press the application of Mr. Chas. H. Robinson for the collectorship of the port of Wilmington.

Mr. George H Snow, of Raleigh, on his way to New York, spent yesterday in this city.

Dr. Barker, the well known phrenologist, was here on Sunday, but returned home.

Representative Johnston did not leave for Asheville, as he expected, on yesterday. He will remain a few days longer. Mr. Johnston has only one postoffice the term of the postmaster of which has not expired. Now I have got him down fine.

Mr. L. W. Pigott, formerly of Carteret, but latterly of Buncombe county, is now residing in Washington. His son is a clerk in the Ebbitt House. H.

To Prevent Stock Gambling.

Two bills are pending in the Pennsylvania Legislature which are intended to materially change the business of brokers. One of the measures is "An act to prohibit speculation in the stock of corporations, in the necessities of life, and in the commodities of commerce by or under the systems known as dealing in margins." A violation of the provision of the act is made a misdemeanor, punishable on conviction by a term of imprisonment not exceeding one year and a fine not exceeding $500. The second section provides that all contracts in stock or commodities by way of margins, where no delivery is made or expected, shall be entirely void. The other bill requires that every person making a contract for the sale of stock or the delivery of property shall furnish the buyer with the serial numbers and dates of such certificates of stock, receipts, acceptances or other evidences of title to or liability for the delivery of the property therein specified." If no time be specified, then the delivery shall be on the day of making the contract. But in every case the stock or the evidences of property, with the number and dates, must be given to the purchaser.

THE RIDDLES OF NATURE.

Remarkable Facts Concerning Beasts, Birds and Insects.

St. George Mivart, in the Fortnight Review.

Chickens, two minutes after they have left the egg, will follow with their eyes the movements of crawling insects and peck at them, judging distance and direction with almost infallible accuracy. They will instinctively appreciate sounds, readily running toward an invisible hen hidden in a box when they hear her "call." Some young birds also have an innate, instinctive horror of the sight of a hawk and of the sound of its voice. Swallows, titmice, tomtits and wrens, after having been confined from birth, are capable of flying successfully at once, when liberated on their wings having attained the necessary growth to render flight possible. The duke of Argyll relates some very interesting particulars about the instincts of birds, especially of the water ousel, the merganser and the wild duck. Even as to the class of beasts I find recorded: "Five young pole cats were found comfortably imbedded in dry, withered grass, and in a side hole of proper dimensions for such a larder were forty frogs and two toads, all alive, but merely capable of sprawling a little. On examination the whole number, toads and all, proved to have been purposely and dexterously bitten through the brain." Evidently the parent polecat had thus provided the young with food which could be kept perfectly fresh, because alive, and yet was rendered quite unable to escape. This singular instinct is like others which are yet more fully developed among insects—a class of animals the instincts of which are so numerous, wonderful and notorious that it will be probably enough to refer to one or two examples. The female carpenter bee, in order to protect her eggs, excavates, in some piece of wood, a series of chambers, in special order, with a view to a peculiar mode of exit, for her young; but the young mother can have no conscious knowledge of the series of actions subsequently to ensue. The female of the wasp, sphex, affords another well known, but very remarkable example of a complex instinct closely related to that already mentioned in the case of the polecat. The female wasp has to provide fresh, living animal food for her progeny, which, when it quits its eggs, quits it in the form of an almost helpless grub, utterly unable to catch, retain or kill an active struggling prey.

Accordingly the mother insect has not only to provide and place beside her eggs suitable living prey, but so to treat it that it may be a helpless, unresisting victim. That victim may be a mere caterpillar, or it may be a great, powerful grasshopper, or even that most fierce, active and rapacious of insect tyrants, a fell and venomous spider. Whichever it may be, the wasp adroitly stings it at the spot which induces, or in the several spots which induce, complete paralysis as to motion, let us hope as to sensation also. This done, the wasp entombs the helpless being with its own egg, and leaves it for the support of the future grub.

A Winter Climate That has its Faults

From the Philadelphia Press.

This brings me to speak about my experience of the climate of Manitoba. The variations of temperature were very great. I have seen the thermometer stand at 125 degrees inside a tent in summer, and at 58 degrees below zero, or 90 degrees below freezing point, outside the house in winter. Such Arctic cold would be unendurable if the air were not so wonderfully dry and clear, and often very still, that it does not seem half as cold as it really is. Then the changes of weather are not generally very sudden; the heat and cold are very regular, and in midseasons the thermometer does not fluctuate much.

The snow outside our house is from six to ten feet deep from November to April. Moccasins, made by Indians of moose skin, are used instead of shoes to cover the feet, which are first cased in several pairs of stockings.

We were forced to melt snow for all the water we used last winter. The cold is so intense that when melted snow water is poured from the boiler into a pail and taken at once across to the stable, the ice on it frequently has to be broken with a stick before the cattle can drink. It is rather a common sight to see people partly frozen. The part affected turns as white as marble, and loses all feeling. Unless you see yourself in a glass, or are told of it, you are not conscious of being frozen. In this plight it is best not to near a fire, as sudden thawing is very painful. People generally try friction, rubbing themselves with snow, or, better still, with paraffine oil. Occasionally, when one is frozen, and far from help, the part frozen, if an extremity, will snap off. Last year a man living about thirty miles from us was told that his ear was frozen; he put up his hand to feel, and the ear dropped off in his hand. Limbs sometimes have to be amputated from severe frostbites. My kitten's ears froze and broke off last winter, and a neighbor's pony lost its ears in the same way.

I was surprised when I first found the mustard freeze in my mustard pot which stood a foot from the kitchen stovepipe, and two feet above the stove, where there was a blazing fire all day and every day through the winter. Yet the mustard froze between every meal. To a woman the most trying part of a winter in Manitoba is not its severity—for you live in a warm house—but its length. Snow lay on the ground for six months and a half, and the great lakes were frozen.

Diamonds in Ohio.

Newark Special in Cincinnati Enquirer.

A few weeks since Dr. Ayres, of Homer, this county, while walking along the bank of the creek near his home, saw a small pebble glittering in the gravel at his feet. He picked it up and took it home and, after having had the usual test applied to it, it has been pronounced to be a very fine diamond, the value of which has been fixed at $50,000. A few days since Mrs. Mary A. Willis, of the same place, in looking over stones in her possession that she had previously collected from the bed of the same creek, noticed that one of them bore the general appearance of a petrified corn-cob, the kernels of which were glittering little stones. She immediately showed the stone to Dr. Ayres, who pronounced it to be full of small diamonds, of the probable value of $30,000. The utmost excitement prevails in the vicinity over the discovery of these precious stones.

The Florida Land Grants.

In a recent speech in the United States Senate on the land grants to railroads in Florida, Senator Call, of that State, was quoted as saying that Mr. S. T. Wailes, the agent of the Waldo and Tampa Railroad, "has undertaken to expose for sale at public auction certain lands, with the settlers upon them, and to sell them and their orange groves and their improvements, and the lands have been bought largely by speculators." Mr. Wailes, in response, pronounces Senator Call's statement as "simply untrue." He declares that "the rights and claims of the settlers have at all times been recognized by the railroad company and its agents. In all cases settlers have been notified when the lands were to be offered for sale, and they have been allowed the prior right to purchase their lands at not exceeding government price. Any improvement of a permanent character, not accompanied with a settlement, gives the person owning the improvement the preferred right to purchase at the appraised valuation." Mr. Wailes also interposed a number of facts in disproof of Senator Call's statement, that these sales are without authority of law, and he challenges a searching investigation into the whole matter.

WHAT IT HAD DONE.

TARBORO, Feb. 4, 1885.

For several years I have had a trouble with my breast, which I fear is cancer, that being incident to my family. For two years past my general health has been wretched from its effects. I became so weak I was incapacitated for all work; my appetite was gone, the sight of food was nauseating to me. I would wake up in the morning so tired I scarcely had energy to arise and dress myself, upon the least exertion I had palpitation of the heart so violently that I was helpless. I was so nervous I could get no good sleep, but would lay awake at night restless, and when I did drop off to sleep would soon awake with a start, and it would be hours before I could get to sleep again. My constitution was wrecked—hope was gone. I concluded, as a last resort, to try Mrs. Joe Person's Remed. I commenced using it last July, have taken 17 bottles, and the effect has been wonderful. My general health is excellent. I sleep as well as I ever did in my life and wake in the morning feeling refreshed and well I can not only get up and cook my own breakfast without fatigue but have fine appetite to relish it now after I cook it. I can go all day long and am not tired when night comes. I have not had a touch of palpitation of the heart, since soon after I commenced the Remedy. My breast does not pain me at all, or give me any trouble. I do not know whether the Remedy will cure my breast or not, as the lump is still there, but if it never does no words of mine can express my gratitude for what the Remedy has done for me. It has done more for me than Mrs. Person promised me it would do, when I consulted her in regard to using it. I will take pleasure in giving any one information in regard to my case who may desire it. I wish every afflicted person in the land could know of its virtue, I am gratefully,

MARY L. HYMAN.

Who is Mrs. Winslow?

As this question is frequently asked, we will simply say that she is a lady who for upwards of thirty years has untiringly devoted her time and talents as a female physician and nurse, principally among children, she has especially studied the constitution and wants of this numerous class, and, as a result of this effort, and practical knowledge obtained in a lifetime spent as nurse and physician, she has compounded a Soothing syrup, for children teething it operates like magic—giving rest and health, and is more sure to regulate the bowels. As a consequence of this article, Mrs Winslow is becoming world-renowned as a benefactor of her race; children certainly do rise up and bless her, especially is this the case in this city. Vast quantities of the Soothing Syrup are daily sold and used here. We think Mrs Winslow as immortalized her name by this invaluable article and we sincerely believe thousands of children have been saved from an early grave by its timely use, and that millions yet unborn will share its benefits, and unite in calling her blessed. No mother has discharged her duty to her suffering little ones, in our opinion, until she has given it the benefit of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup Try it, mothers—try it now.—Ladies' Visitor, New York City. Sold by all druggists. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Our stock of mourning goods is by far the largest and most select in the Carolinas, comprising every fabric that can be found in the market in the black goods line, at the lowest possible prices.

DRESSMAKING.

Many ladies in remote parts of the State may not be aware that we conduct this branch of business to the perfection of art, under the management of Mme. Reynolds, of New York, whose ability as an artist of the highest order can be vouched for by hundreds of ladies, who have already experienced the product of her genius in the perfection of her fitting.

Our Millinery

Our assortment of Millinery Goods is without doubt the most exquisite for tone and style ever shown in this section. The artistic taste of our Miss Covert is well known, and those ladies who have seen her work, and who we know to be thoroughly competent to judge of such matters, say her designs are really the creation of true art, equal, if not superior, to any Parisian work that can be produced.
