ENGLAND AND RUSSIA.

The situation between England and Russia has not been changed by any further demonstration on the part of Russia on the Afghan frontier, nor by any hostile movement on the part of Great Britain. Both nations are evidently moving carefully as if fully conscious of each other's strength and of the magnitude the est between them must assume when it comes to blows. They are both playing for time, either for the purpose of staving off the conflict, or of getting themselves in better trim for it when it does come. While there is nothing in the news of the past few days that points to inevitable hostilities, the situation is evidently more complicated than it was, and the be gaining ground in England and Iron clads. elsewhere. That the British government, while it will not admit that it expects war, regards it as very probable is shown by the declarations of Lord Granville in Parliament, and by the war loan asked for, as well as by the orders given to the reserves to hold themselves in readiness to be called to active service on short notice. That the House of Commons takes the same view is shown by the readiness and unanimity with which the credit asked for was voted. England hopes to avert war and will do so if Russia gives her a decent excuse, but thus far she hasn't got that, Russia not only making no concessions, nor apologies for Komaroff's movements, but according to the latest reports making conditions as to the agreement between her and England not heretofore hinted at. Some of the German papers which pretty well, closely watching her movements say that she is humbug-ging England with her professions of acific intentions, to which contradic tion is furnished by the movements

Matters are taking such a shape, however, that it cannot be long be- minish the strong desire entertained fore the crisis will be reached and we by the government for a peaceful and shall know whether the Penjdeh incident is to result in a first class clash of arms or a first class back down on the part of Great Britain.

Gen. Grant showed the continued improvement in his condition yesterday not only by repeating his ride in Central Park, but by taking a four block stroll in the afternoon, walking apparently without any difficulty.

STILL BETTER.

Gen. Grant Takes His Drive and Also a Walk.

New York, April 21.—At high noon, exactly midday, Gen. Grant left the house and passed down the steps to the family carriage, which was waiting. He lifted his hat in recognition of the salutation from den's answer to the Government's inthe group of watchers across the street. He was followed by his son Ulysses, his wife and Mr. Jesse Grant. Harrison mounted the box and the party were driven up Fifth avenue and entered the park. At four o'clock this afternoon Gen.

Grant took a walk of four blocks and returned. He used a cane and walked slightly limping, but there was nothing of tottering feebleness, and as he was congratulated during the little walk, he responded with "Thank you," in a voice that was clear and firm.

Dr. Douglas said today that Gen. Grant slept through the night without disturbing him even once, and that he was much improved after his drive yesterday. As far as can be gleaned from the increased amount of exercise taken by the General, the doctor thinks he is gaining in bodily strength. The swelling at the base of the tongue, however, still continues with some little sloughing.

THE KNIFE IN TEXAS.

How Five Young Men Carved Another. Dallas, April 20 .- News reached here yesterday from Mineral Wells of a terrible stabbing affray at that place, in which Green Rowser, aged sixteen years, was killed. He was called out of a saloon by five boys, two brothers named Bell, two cousins named Glenn, and the fifth person named Dave Angline. Rowser was literally carved to death, and died instantly. One of the knife blades penetrated his heart. The cause of the cowardly assault is said have been a derogatory remark de by Rowser concerning the Bells and the Glenns, which was repeated to them by Angline. All those implicated in the crime were arrested and jailed. A mob is reported to have collected and demanded them from the officers. A lynching is feared, All the boys are well connected, and a terrible feud between the friends of the prisoners and their victim will probably follow.

Sjecting Oklahoma Boomers. The Kansas City Times's corres-ordent telegraphs from Camp Rus-ell, Indian Territory, that all settlers ave been removed from Oklahoma, hough the cattle-men still remain. The occupants of two ranches, the improvements on which were detroops are now in a position to inter-cept any considerable force of settlers that might attempt to enter the coun-try. Fears of trouble among the In-dians have been allayed.

An English Vesset Watching a Russian. Norrolk, Va., April 21.—The Russian corvette Stritax, Captain N. Skrgdloff, 180 men, four days out from Havana, arrived at the naval anchorage this afternoon, and was followed in about an hour's time by the British man of war Garnett Captain Henry Hand, from Vera Cruz, with $50 men and 12 guns. The Garnett came to anchor at about a quarter of a mile below the Stritax. Both vessels were saluted by the receiving ship Now Hampshire, lying at the many part.

MAKING READY FOR WAR. LONDON, April 21.-Earl Granville, British foreign minister in the house of Lords this afternoen stated that the Government had come to the conclusion that the position of affairs justified putting army and navy and whole of auxiliary forces in a con dition of immediate readiness for service if required.

RUSSIA DECLINES. London, April 21.-It is stated that Rusia now declines to enter into distinct and definite obligation on no account to advance beyond the Afghan boundary line which shall be settled on by the joint Anglo Rus sian boundary commission. England proposes such obligations as the only stable form of settlement of the present dispute.

Granville said that the operations in Egypt had been such that they could not be abandoned. The gov-ernment had adhered to their pledges given regarding the defence of-Egypt by the vote they had asked for. They had met all the demands of the Indian government, the expenses of which were entirely covered by the provisions at home. The government asked for a credit of four and a half million pounds for the Soudan account and six and a half million for the account of other expenses. England desired to remain on the most of her forces and by her vigorous friendly terms with all foreign counpreparations for war on land and on tries. Contemplating an increase in the strength of the army and navy would not in the slightest degree di dispute with Russia.

> The Earl of Morley, under the secretary of war, announced that the whole of the first class of army reserves had been notified that they are liable to be summoned for service at very short notice. The government had no intention at present, he said, of summoning the united reserves. THE CREDIT PASSED.

The vote of credit was passed by the House of Lords without division. THE CREDIT ASKED FOR.

LONDON, April 21.-The Government has asked for credit of 11,000, 000 pounds for army and navy ac-counts, of this sum four and a half million pounds is for war purp ses in the Soudan, and six and a half million pounds for other naval and military preparations. SERIOUS DIFFERENCE BETWEEN LUMS-

DEN AND KOMAROFF.

London, April 21.-Mr. Gladstone in the House of Commons, this after den's answer to the Government s inquiries of the 10th inst., the message arrived today, said Mr. Gladstone, papers were signed by Senators Butand it shows how seriously Sir Peter Lumsden is at issue with General Komaroff. Russia's Bluff Repry to England. LONDON, April 20. The reply of M. de Giers, Russian foreign minister, to Earl Granville's demand for an explanation of Gen. Komaroff's attack upon the Afghans on Kushk River, which was received at the foreign office on last Saturday, was considered in the Cabinet council. The reply says that Gen. Komaroff's dispatches, copies of which have been forwarded to the British Government, sufficiently explain the Penjdeh incident, and it is needless to supplement then. M. de Giers in his turn, complains strongly of what he calls the excessive numbers of Sir Peter Lums den's escort. He says that this display of a British armed force on the Afghan territory, together with the military demonstration at Rawal Pindi and Earl Dufferin's defiant lan guage, encouraged the Afghans to provoke the Russian attack by lead-

London April 21 —A terrific gas explosion occurred this morning in South London. Several persons were injured by the flying debris and two houses in the vicinity were badly shattered. The explosion was due to leakage of gas from a section of the pipe under the street. After the explosion the gas burned furiously in the road near the scene. Men were at once set to work digging up the street in order to cut off the main and stop the escape of gas.

NORTH CAROLINA BONDS.

The Government Requested to Exchange Some Old Bonds for New. Washington, April 21.—Last year the Legislature of North Carolina passed an Act providing for the re-funding of the State debt, in accordance with an agreement with the bondholders, by the terms of which the latter were to remit payment of the interest which had accumulated during the past few years. Included in the State bonds, however, were securities to the amount of $192,000, which were held by the United States Government on account of the Indian trust funds These bonds had been purchased by the Government before the war, with money derived from the sale of Indian lands and the securities were held in trust for the Indians, the annual interest thereon being disbursed to them. Similar in vestments were made on account of the Indians in bonds of other Southern States. For a number of years no interest has been paid on thes bonds, and Congress has each year appropriated a sum equivalent to the interest due, last year amounting to $90,000, which has been turned over to the Indian Bureau for division among the Indians. Since the passage of the refunding Act by the North Carolina Legislature, that State has requested the United States Government to surrender the Indian trust bonds in return for new bonds minus the accumulated interest. The commission appointed by the Secrehonorable settlement of the present tary of the Treasury and Secretary dispute with Russia. from North Carolina and made a report upon the proposition adverse to its acceptance. The report has not been made public, but it is understood that the commission arrived at the conclusion that the Executive had no power to remit its claim for accumulated interests on bonds in the absence of Congressional authoriza-

THE PRECIOUS METALS.

Product of Nearly Eighty Million From the Mines Last Year.

Mr. Burchard, the director of the mint, in his special annual report on the production of gold and silver in the United States for the calendar year 1884, estimates the production ville S. C. vice Stanley S. Crittenden of the country to have been: Gold, $30,800,000; silver, computed at the silver dollar coining rate, $48,800,000; total, $79,600,000, an increase over the yield of the previous year of about $800,000 gold and $9,400,000 silver.

The total deposit of gold at the mints during the year amounted to $50,518,179, of which $30,808 was reported as domestic. The exports of gold bullion, exclusive of United states bars, amounted to only $115,-

The total deposits of silver bullion, of re-deposits, at the mints and assay offices were $36,670,731, of which $32,305,036 was entered as domestic. The gross exports of domestic silver were $17.697,067. Adding to the amount of domestic silver deposited at the mints the net exports of undeposited and the amount of undeposited used in the arts would make the silver production of the country about $48,800,000, or at its commercial value about $42,000,000. Fiftythree incorporated companies working gold and silver mines paid dur ing the year, in 227 dividends $7,567,698. During the same period some 207 assessments were levied on 117 mines, on which it is essimated that over $4,000,000 have been paid. THE MISSISSIPPI RAILROAD COM-MISSION:

THE SHIRT-TAIL IN WAR.

How Stonewall Jackson Proposed to Mark His Men in a Night Attack. St. Louis Globe Democrat.

On the night of the battle of Fredericksburg, when Burnside was try-ing to get his army back to the Staf-ford side of the river over the one pontdon bridge that was left, Lee called a council of war. Jackson had been holding a position about three miles down the river from Marve's heights, where the fiercest fighting had taken place, but had moved his command up closer late in the afternoon. The night was fearfully dark, and a drizzling rain had set in. Jack son came into the council, saluted the officers present and took a seat off in a corner. Gen. Lee stated the purpose for which the council had been called, and asked one of the senior officers for his opinion; and then another, and another, until all had spoken save Stonewall. Lee then turned and asked his opinion, but received no response. All turned to hear what he would say, and there sat Jackson, bolt upright in his chair, fast asleep. "Why, bless me," said Lee, "the old fellow is fast asleep," and going to him he shook his arm and called his name, which awakened him. "Gen. Jackson, will you give us your opinion as to what should be done?"

"Gentlemen," he said, "I am sorry that I have not heard all that has been said; but my plan is, if the councill agree to it, to go back to my corps and march into Fredericks burg at once. The enemy has met with a reverse, and is in all probabili-ty demoralized. They have only one bridge over which to escape. One corps is sufficient to do this work, to destroy what remains of that army on this side of the river, and that being done the campaign will be over."
"But, general, "said Lee, "consider the fact that those men have only the one bridge over which to escape;

they will fight desperately. "What if they do? My corps is accustomed to desperate fighting. But the very fact that they have only one avenue of escape, in their demoralized condition, will cause them to make every effort to use the bridge. They will not fight so desperately as you think.' "But consider the darkness of the night. Your men will not be able to distinguish their own comrades," "I have thought of all that. I will make my men pull their shirt tails out and march in; they will know one another then,' Gen. Lee walked back and forth for some time, deeply engaged in thought. Finally he said: "General Jackson, I cannot agere to your proposition; the slaughter would be horrible, and my conscience cannot approve of it " "My conscience approves of it thoroughly," said Jackson. "War is war; the slaughter today has been horrible, and would have been worse had the enemy gained those heights. The enemy is in a trap, and we should

were turned they would march in on "And at this very time," said a Union officer to me last April, we were getting out of that place as fast as men could be got over one bridge. We were looking ever minute for the Confederate troops to rush in on us, and if they had done so we would have been utterly ruined. Pope's army, when Jackson got behind him, was at a picnic compared to our situation tha night." And when I told him of Jackson's plan for enabling his troops to know their comrades, he said: "Fabius Maximus is the only other man who ever lived who would have thought of such a thing, and his soldiers didn't have the ma-

In the fall of 1883 I had a valuable horse take In the fall of 1883 I had a valuable horse taken with the pinkeye, resulting in blood poison. After nine months of doctoring with all the remedies to be found in horse books, I despaired of a cure. His right hind-leg was as large as a man's body, and had on it forty running sores. He was a most pitiable looking object. At last I thought ot Swift's Specific and commenced to use it. I used fifteen bottles. In August last all symmtoms of the disease disappeared. There have been no signs of a return, and the borse has done a mule s work on my farm ever since.
