SEVERAL WITNESSES PUT UPON THE STAND.

RICHMOND, May 14.—Dr. William H. Taylor, coroner, resumed the wit ness chair this morning in the Hustings court, and his examination in the Cluverius murder trial was continued. He was questioned at same length by the counsel for the defense in relation to minor details. He stated that in his examination of bedoy of the dead woman he found no abrasion, except about the face, as described yesterday. In answer to Col. Aylet, of the prosecution, he said the first person to identify the body was Miss Dunston. Defense objected to this and it was passed by.

Dr. Taylor as to his expressed opin-ion, written out and published in the New York papers. The opinion, the witness said, was based on two med-ical facts, which were not inconsistent with the theory.

One was made by a large shoe with a flet heel; the other track was small and was made by a woman. He traced both tracks from the hole in the fence to the embankment, but only saw the larger of the tracks ascending the bank.

W. W. Hargrave, an employee of the city engineer, was on the "Clock spring" property adjoining the reservoir grounds on the morning of March 14th. He noticed some hing unusual in the parapet of the reservoir and went there and saw the two lines of tracks already described. There were other tracks but none near the two mentioned. Two per-

The examination of the last four witnesses who testified in connection with the finding of the key occupied two hours, most of the time being taken up by the delence in a rigid cross questioning with developing any new facts.

Jas. R. Mountcastle, a workman employed at the coal dock of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad wharves below the city, testified that on the morning of March 14th, in company with two others, he found a bundle floating on the river. He got it ashore, opened it and found it contained clothing. The bundle was like a satchel, fastened with leather straps. Subsequently he took it to the coroner.

The witness was shown the hundle and identified it as the one found. He stated that it was found about two miles below Mayo's bridge.

Mayo's bridge is a mile and a half from the reservoir.

The witness said that when the bundle was a name on one of the pieces of the clothing and some initials on another. He could not read, so he

R. Dunstan, being sworn, stated that he lived on Reservoir street. He was questioned as to his finding a red shawl on the front fence, when Judge Crump, of the counsel for the defense, asked how this was connected with the deceased and objected to the introduction of such teatimony at this stage of the trial.

The court everruled the objection, and the defense fook an exception.

The witness said the shawl was subsequently turned over to detective John Wren. The shawl had some dry grass sticking to it, such as grows in the fields. No such grass grew on his property.

Judge Crump, of the counsel for the defense, said there was no law, reason or sense in it. It was inverting the process of proof in going away from the paint of alleged mander and connecting garments found with the deceased. There was no connection by proof between the gloves, shawl and weil.

The court decided that the prosecution had promised to prove that the hat belonged to the deceased and that the witness might go on.

At the conclusion of officer Walton's testimony, Judge Crump moved that all that Walton had said be excluded as not legitimate.

The defense made some objections as to the admissibility of his testimony, and was again overruled and again noted an exception.

Jinc. Williams, about 11 years old, testified that on Sunday, March 15-h, he and two other boys were at the reservoir, and that while looking through a hole in the fence he saw a gold watch key with a little ring attached. He picked it up, took it home and gave it to his father.

The much talked of watch fley was here shown to the boy and he said that was the key.

this city syesterday. Supreme Dictator General F.D. Sloat, of New Haven, presided. Thirty six States were represented by 112 delegates, who in turn represent 130,000 members of 2,525 subordinate lodges. Last night, at Mercantile Library Hall, the 29 lodges of St. Louis and their 3,900 members tendered the Supreme Lodge a reception.

Mayor Francis and Judge McKeagan delivered addresses of welcome. Responses were made by General Sloat and Maj L A Gratz, of Knoxville, Tenn, supreme vice dictator. The first lodge of the Knights of Honor was organized at Louisville Ky., in 1872, by J. F. Demaree. It is a beneficiary organization as well as a fraternal society. Assessments are one dollar. These are now about $18 a year for each member. This gives $2,000 insurance to families of deceased members. One assessment, however, pays sixty nine death loss-ses with the present membership. Over $12,000 000 have been paid out to families. Last year's distributions were $2,800,000.

The Grand Secretary's report was then submitted, and shows that there was on the first of January of this year 2,500 working lodges in the country, with a total membership of 128,848. Since then twenty five new lodges have been added, and there has been a net gain of 2,250 members, making a present membership of making a present membership of 131 180. During the year 1884 twenty assessments were called, which yield ed an aggregate amount of $2,709, ed an aggregate amount of $2,703,561, and the number of deaths was 1,409. The Supreme Treasurer presented a financial statement, which shows since the last annual meeting there has been received $2,409,696, and the disbursements have been $2,264,120, leaving a balance in the widows' and orphans' benefit fund of widows' and orphans' benefit fund of $145,575. The general fund report shows receipts $36,585, expenditures $14,570, and a balance to the credit of this fund of $22,006.

After these reports had been disposed of, Delegate Russell ordered that the part of the report of the Supreme Dictator which refers to the conduct of ex Supreme Treasurer Breckenridge be printed and be distributed throughout the rank and file of the order. After a heated discussion the matter was referred to the committee on state of order.

A Russ an Officer's Coolness v Orleans Times-Democrat Translation. Col. not even at official meetings.

The following incident affords A good example of his faculty of keep ing cool and calculating in the midst of danger. Once, when accompanied only by three Cossacks, an interpre-ter and a few natives (Djighites), Ivanoff found himself surrounded and attacked by a hand of at least 100 Turkomans. The Russians immediately grouped themselves close together, back to back, and opened fire. Ivanoff had a six-chembered revolver; he fired five snots, and re served the sixth in spite of the desperate attack of the enemy. When reinforcements arrived, when this handful of Russian troops was saved, and the General, severely wounded. had been carried to camp, sombody ventured to ask him what he had reserved that shot for. "Why, for myself," replied lyanoff, very coolly. "I kept watching to see if the Turko mans had lassoes. If I had felt the touch of a lasso, the Turkomans might have had my corpse, but never a living prisoner."

Bragg on the Rampage.

Gen. Bragg, of Wisconsin, is one of the dissatisfied Democrats who is still in Washington. He is apparently getting ready for a public declaration against the Administration after the style of Senator Eustis, This Administration is not practical enough for Gen. Bragg. His mutterings around the lobbies of the Ebbitt House are deep and ominous. He calls the President a tycoon, and while he is satirically good-natured in most of his criticisms, yet he is thoroughly ready for a fight if the occasion presents itself. This for a man who said in the Chicago Conven tion that he loved Cleveland for the enemies that he had made is at least The witness said the shaw was subsequently surned over to detective John Wren. plag for the Next Presidential Bace. Cor N. Y. World. A great deal of importance is attached to the plans of Senator John Sherman by the Republican leaders who are in Washington. It is generally believed that there is some sort of understanding between Mr. Sherman and Mr. Blaine, that the two have entered into an alliance of a character similar to the one entered into between Messrs Blaine and Lo gan before the meeting of the last June Convention in Chicago. Senator Sherman is to make a trip through tor Sherman is to make a trip through the South very soon with a view of seeing what can be done in working up Republican sentiment there in his favor. Mr. Sherman believes that he is almost the only Republican who can carry both the State of Ohio and the State of New York in the next Presidential election. Mr. Sherman has been encouraged in his candidacy by a number of Eastern capitalists. He is popular with the politicians of his party in one sense of the word, for they believe that he will have nothing to do with the humbug of civil-service reform. It is said that Mr. Blaine is not anxious to take part Mr. Blaine is not anxious to take part again in any political canvass. He had altogether too hard a time last year. He would fear the physical consequences of enduring another similar strain. He would like to return to power, however, if he could do it as the leader of the Cabinet un-der a new Republican administration. Mr. Blaine regards Mr. Sherman as one of the most available men to put forward at the present time for peo-ple to talk about. Gen. Logan may be prominent too as a candidate, if he should win in the Senatorial elec-tion in Illinois. It is understood here that there is a coolness between Blaine and Logan, growing out of the result of the campaign, and that there could be no possible alliance between them in the future.

Reports from Ohio say that John Sherman has made his peace with
Gov. Foster. According to these reports Sherman is to be a candidate for Governor in Ohio at the next election and to withdraw from the canvass for re-election for Senator.
These straigs have parkens a grain These stories have perhaps a grain of truth at the bottom. Foster has been on here for a number of visits during the spring. Lie dislikes Sher man very thoroughly, however, and would not come around to help him again in his presidential ambitions unless he were assured in advance of his pay. Ever since Mr. Foster had the pleasure of paying John Sherman's hotel bill at the Chicago Convention of 1889 he has talked very plainly about that statesman. Ohio people here do not believe that Mr. Sherman could carry Ohio if he were to run as Governor. They say that he is the decdest and most unpopular man among the Republicans in that State. There is no doubt that Brune is willing to have Senator Sherman go ahead and try his hand in seeing what he can do to become there he will be considered in the list of candidates. If he should fail Mr. Blaine would be looking out for another partner in 1888.
