BOUQUETS FOR CONVICTS. There are a good many sympathetic people in this world we live in, and people figure in strange ways and in as they had finished their lessons strange places. They have a society Let them spend their time in drawstrange places They have a society known as the ladies' flower mission in some of the towns of Kentucky, direction. the purpose of which seems to be to console afflicted people by occasional presentation of flowers as reminders that they are not altogether forgotten Recently representatives of this society from Louisville New Albany and Jeffersonville visited the State prison at Jeffersonville and presented each of the convicts a bouquet, and this evidence of kindly regard was doubtless appreciated by those flower loving convicts, who, if they were out of prison, would perchance be indulging their æsthetic tastes in the cultivation of flower gardens. The probabilities are, however, that the majority of them would have shown a keener appreciation of a square meal, or of a four finger slug of "sperits," for the production of which the dark and bloody ground has attained some celebrity.

But levity aside, while we have no objection to manifestations of kindness to convicts, and while we think they should be carefully and humane ly treated, this kind of flower sympathy is misplaced upon them. In those same towns there are thousands of good and honest people whose life is a daily struggle to keep starvation from their doors, and who never see a flower unless in somebody's window or across somebody's fence. There seems to be a morbid sentiment prevalent that gives the convict in prison stripes the advantage over the struggler for bread, who never attracts attention until he breaks into somebody's house to plunder it, or cuts somebody's throat and is sentenced to the gallows, when the fountain of affection seems to be touched, and he at once becomes an object of tender solicitude among the flower-distributing class of people, who make themselves ridiculous in sympathetic demonstra trait in human character. The greater the brute, the more horrible his crime, and the more utterly depraved, the greater their sympathy for him and the more demonstrative their exhibitions over him. There is a good deal of humbug and absurdity in this flower business.

WAKE FOREST COLLEGE.

Wisconsin works splendidly. A Milwaukee journal of late date says: "Total receipts to date of $192,500 for liquor licenses in this city answers the question as to whether high license is wise or not. The receipts last year were $75,000, thus making a clear gain of $117,000. This is not all, for a considerable number of the worst saloons have been suppressed. But not enough have been so destroyed, and a license fee of $500 would not only still further increase the municipal receipts in a very marked degree, but would lower the number of saloons and weed out yet

Miss Fannie Cox, of the Winston graded school, said it depends largely upon how much preparation the teacher has given to this work. The teacher should have a bright, happy disposition, and her enthusiasm will be reflected in the children. She has found that calisthenics will aid the teacher very much in keeping the little ones at work. Put them to drawing some animal on the board, and encourage competition in skill and they will keep themselves busy. Miss Mamte Caldwell, of Greensboro graded school, specially en-dorsed the "drawing idea," and recommended White's drawing books as best adapted to the purpose, in connection with the slates which ac-

Commencement Exercises --- A wards of Merry, Degrees Conferred, Etc.

On Monday the 8th, the passengers on the Ralegh & Gaston Railroad were many of them surprised upon reaching the depot at Wake Forest to see so many boys, who had cast aside their careworn expressions and were with eager faces watching intently to see who of the fair sex were going to and attend commencement. engers on this road were impressed with the fact that there would be a commencement by the presence of these students, and also by the melodious music of Kesnich's band, of Richmond, which greeted the ears and floated out upon the breezes morning and evening, at the arrival of trains. Visitors came in rapidly during the day, and at night a good audience assembled in Memorial Hall to hear the competitors for the Dec-lamation medal. The declamations were excellent and much enjoyed, the band interspersing sweet music and giving the gallant youths time to whisper softly to the beautiful maidens by their side. The medal was won by Mr. W. P. Stradley, of Oxford, N. C. On Tuesday visitors continued to arrive and we realized continued to arrive and we realized that commencement was really upon us. Tuesday night the Alumni address was delivered by Mr. George W. Sanderlin, of Pasquotank county, N. C., to a large and very appreciative audience. The speaker held the audience spellbound, and swayed it at his will. After the address the Alumni banquetted. I hear it was a banquet, indeed, but not being an Alumnus I can't speak from experithat commencement was really upon Alumnus I can't speak from experi-ence, nor can I tell of the speeches made at the banquet. The address on Wednesday morning before the Literary Societies by Hon. R. F. Armfield, of Statesville, N. C., was a very practical address of 45 minutes, after which the medals were presented. Mr. W. P. Stradley was presented with the Declamation med-al; Mr. W. C. Allen, Wake Forest student essay medal; Mr. G. C. Thompson, Whitfield Latin medal; Mr. R. H. Whitehead, Silcox Greek medal; Mr. A. T. Robertson, Monta-gue French medal. The above med-als were presented by Hon. A. S. Merrimon, in a few very appropriate remarks. The medal for the best essay was awarded to Mr. J. B. Pruitt, and the medal for improvement in oratory awarded to Mr. W. S. Thomson by the Philomathesian Society were presented by Hon. S. M. Finger, and the essay medal was awarded to Mr. J. W. Herndon, and the medal for improvement in ora-tory was awarded to Mr. W. C. Corbet by the Euzelian Society and pre-sented by Hon. W. N. H. Smith. Wednesday night Memorial Hall was filled by a large audience eager to hear Rev. F. M. Ellis, D. D., of Bal-timore, preach the Baccalaurate sermon. This audience expected much and in no particular were they disappointed. The preacher carried his audience with him in his very flight, and mightily impressed them by his excellently prepared sermon, his graceful delivery, his forcible gestures, and his great earnestness, which was attested by the excellent order and unusual attention for such an occasion. Thursday morning the graduating class delivered their addresses. The addresses and manner of their delivery showed that these young men had been well trained. They all acquitted them selve well.

The class was composed of four prom ising young men, who no doubt will do honor to their Alma Mater and to their State. The degrees were conferred upon the class by Rev. C. E. Taylor, president, in a few very appropriate remarks, after which Dr. Thomas Skinner, in behalf of the board of trustees, stated that the college was in a flourishing condition financially, the the $100,000 endowment was all profitably invested, and so invested that it could all be collected in 30 days. The trustees did not confer any degrees, but what is much more important, they granted free tuition to the sons of ministers, rrespective of denomination. On Thursday night, the night of all the nights to us boys, there was a social gathering in the Literary halls. On this night rare and beautiful maidens condescended to make the careworn college students forget the cares of the past and live in the present, and I doubt not that some of these poor boys either led or were led to dream of the future walks of life with some of these very angels in white who were sitting by their sides or prome nading with them. I will not attempt to convey to your minds the amount of pleasure afforded that night, but I know that the wee small hours of morning were upon us before we knew it, and bade us go and forget was a success in every respect. Not only did such men as Hon. Chief Justice W. N. H. Smith, Judge A. S. Merrimon, Hon. S M. Finger, Rev F. M. Ellis, Geo. R French, Noah Biggs, H. C. Dockery, J. M. Heck, Rev. T. H. Pritchard, D. D., and many other distinguished divines cititizens attend and lend their presence to the success of our commence ment, but also the daughters were there, the fairest in the land, from the Oxford Female Seminary and all parts of the State. Never have I seen such an array of beauty. This college had 144 students enrolled last year, and expects more next year. It has an excellent faculty presided over by Rev. C. E Taylor, and is prepared to do as good work as any college in the State We left the scene of the late commencement satisfied in our own minds that Wake Forest is the college, and resolved that we would spend another year of herd labor within her walls and enjoy another commencement beneath her old shades, and in her beautiful Literary halls with the fairest daughters of the "Old North State." A PORK HOUSE FIRE.

Blaze that was too Much for the Firemen.

Philadelahia, Pa., June 17.—A fire broke out early this morning in the extensive lard and pork packing establishment of Wasby Budger's sons, on Moore street above Sixth. The structure was an extensive four story building and occupied nearly half a block. Owing to the inflammable contents of the manufactory the fire which broke out in the third story spread rapidly and so fiercely as to make it impossible for the firemen to do more than endeavor to confine it to the building. The walls finally fell and the building was completely demolished. Several dwellings on the south side of Moore street were damaged more er less by the fire and water. Several firemen were injured but none fatally. A number of narrow escapes were made when the walls fell. The loss will probably reach $100,000.

As this question is frequently asked, we will simply say that she is a lady who for upwards of thirty reast has untiringly devoted her time and talents as a female physician and nurse, principally among children, the has especially studied the constitution and wants of this numerous class, and, as a result of this effort, and practical knowledge, obtained in a lifetime spent as nurse and physician, she has compounded a Soothing Syrup, for children teethinff. It operates like magic-giving rest and health, and is moreover sure to regulate the bowels. In consequence of this article, Mrs. Winslow is becoming world-renowned as a benefactor of her race; children certainly do rise up and bless her; especially is this the case in this city. Vast quaptities of the Soothing Syrup are daily sold and used here. We think Mrs. Winslow has immortalized her name by this invaluable article, and we sincerely believe thousands of children have been saved from an early grave by its timely use, and that militous yet unborn will share its benefits, and unite in calling her blessed. No mother has discharged her duty to her suffering little one, in our opinion, until size has given if the benefit of Mrs. Winslow's Seathing Syrup Try it, mothers—try it now.—Ladies/Visitor. As General Agent I have authority from the Secretary of State to receive applications for membership, appoint agents and do any and all business for the Association not in violation of the laws of the same or of the State of North Carolina.

We have not space to explain its proper features. It needs only to be investigated to be appreciated. It is on the same plan of the Knights of Honor, Legion of Honor and Royal Arcanam and other popular co-operative associations, adding the very popular feature that it is not necessary for a member to die to get every dollar his policy calls for. We employ none but gentlemen who can give bond in the vacanity in which they live to canvass for the company, and therefore bespeak for them the paecompany, and therefore bespeak for them the pa-tient hearing and confidence their honorable mis-sion entitles them to.
