THE TARIFF QUESTION ONCE MORE.

As published in our dispatches from Washington Saturday morning, the treasury department has finally rendered a decision in the matter of broken rice in answer to the argument made before it some days ago by representatives of the brewing and rice growing interests, which decision modifies the present rulings on this point.

The question of the duty on rice has been gone over so often of late that it is scarcely necessary to give it again.

The planters, importers and brewers were all interested in this question, and argued the case before the treasury officials.

The planters insisted that the so-called broken rice was rice or assimilated to rice, and should pay the full duty.

The brewers were desirous of importing the broken or granulated rice under a lower rate of duty for brewing purposes.

As they were strong and influential earnest efforts were made to arrange a compromise between them and the planters.

The brewers did not want to use or sell the rice as food, but as a mash for their beer; the planters, on their part, had no desire to interfere with the business of the brewers, desiring only to prevent rice being imported in opposition to that they produced without paying the proper duty, by giving the cereal another name and calling it "broken."

Several meetings were held between the representatives of the opposing interests, and efforts were made to arrange a compromise, but the terms could not be agreed upon.

The difficulty was to fix a standard of "broken or granulated" rice, paying the lower duty.

The planters wanted the standard made what is known as No. 3 in the New Orleans market; the brewers wanted to accept the cargo on the Elba, about which the case arose.

So after all the rice growers, who are generally clamorous "free traders" on everything else but rice and sugar, wanted more "protection" on rice.

They want free iron, free boots, shoes and hats, but

They want protected rice. Even the News and Courier, the champion free trade organ of the South Atlantic States, wants protected rice.

We remember the fable in the spelling book, where the farmer called upon a lawyer to inform him that an ox had been gored.

We remember, too, that the lawyer changed his opinion of the law materially after he learned whose ox had suffered.

The News and Courier and the rice growers seem to have been gored.

Waiting at the Jail Door.

A. F. Lazier, editor of the Panhandle Texan, was arrested on the charge of forgery about a month ago, on the eve of his marriage to a young lady residing at Gainesville, in that State, and locked up in jail at Fort Worth. There he was permitted to remain until a few days ago, when an examination by the officials disclosed the man's innocence of the charge, and he was released. When Lazier got out of the jail doors he was met by Annie L. Hellen, or Mrs. A. F. Lazier, the prisoner's former wife, who had been divorced from him in Virginia. With her was Lazier's little son, 6 years old, and the meeting was an affecting one. The former wife had seen in the newspaper dispatches of her former husband's troubles, and had as soon as possible come to his assistance. After some conversation the past acts were forgiven, a marriage license was obtained, and the long-estranged couple were reunited.

ELECTIONS TO-DAY.

Political elections take place today in New York, Virginia, Iowa, and several other States, but

Only in the two first named New York and Virginia, will the result be regarded with significance.

In Virginia, if the election results in the triumph of the Democratic State ticket, and the control of the Legislature,

It will free that State from the unholy co-alition which resulted in W. C. Cameron in the gubernatorial chair, and Billy Mahone in the United States Senatorial chamber.

Both of these men are the out come of the political evils, which have afflicted the South since the days of reconstruction, and

Which in many instances were worse than the actual ravages of the war itself.

The Democrats claim to be confident of their ability to carry the State, but

So do the Republicans.

Only the ballot box will settle it.

In New York it is difficult to foretell the result.

Nobody trusts New York Democrats in predicting the result of an election.

Politics in New York means advantage.

Both parties are on the trade. There they have Democrats, Republicans, Mugwumps, Stalwarts, Soft Shells, and hundreds of societies and labor unions, ready to go here to fall into ranks there.

Ready to betray friends, on coalesce with the opposition.

Whenever advantage in offices or plunder can be secured.

All these elements make the election there today one of uncertainty. We shall see what we shall see.

STATE NEWS.

Hickory Press: Two little boys about ten years old, sons of Franklin Houston and Abel Knipe were loading a shot-gun with wheat and shooting rats in Huffman's mill, near Oxford's Ford, last Thursday, when the Houston boy discharged the gun, emptying the contents into the back part of the head of the other sportsman.

Wilmington Review: Hon. A. M. Waddell and Mr. James T. Elliott have entered into a copartnership for the practice of law. With offices located in the old Journal building on Princess street.

News and Observer: Gov. Scales has leased for a year the handsome residence, No. 10, east North street, so long occupied by the late Mr. Percud.—State Treasurer Bain will accompany Gov. Scales, Maj. Finger and Attorney General Davidson to the Fayetteville fair this week Major Finger is desirous of meeting as many county superintendents of schools or public school officers as possible.—A law passed at the last session of the legislature imposes upon the State chemist the duty no means pleasant task of analyzing stomachs in cases where poisoning is suspected. Dr. Dabney has just completed analyses of two stomachs and found no poison in either.

Asheville Citizen: Col. Frank Cox reached the city yesterday, and today the work of locating lines for excavation will be done, and excavation will begin at once. The hotel will be located on the very top of the hill, thus securing full view of the surrounding mountains, which from this point is pre-eminently grand. We have seen the ground plan of the building, prepared by Messrs. Hazell-hurst & Huckel, architects of Philadelphia. The whole plan will be here in a few days, then we will give a full description of the mammoth building. The expenditure of from $120,000 to $150,000, as is contemplated by Col. Cox, will transform the old Battery hill into the most attractive point in the South.

In Life's Decline

Infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers. Weakness of the loins, rheumatic ailments, dyspepsia, loss of appetite and quiet sleep, are among these. As a means of counteracting the infirmities of age, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is unrivalled. It quickens and enriches the sluggish and impoverished circulation, begets a hearty appetite and youthful relish for the food, and enables the stomach to digest it. It soothes and invigorates the nervous system and checks a tendency to rheumatism. Its quieting action upon the great sympathetic nerve, which connects the stomach with the brain, results in the speedy departure of the restlessness by night and inquietude by day, which are the reflected manifestations of dyspepsia. It is a most effectual antidote to the poison of malaria, gives a healthful impetus to the action of the kidneys and bladder, and is an admirable means of resuscitating vigor when impaired by overwork or other cause.
