THE DEMOCRATIC VICTORY.

In twelve States the people spoke through the ballot-box on Tuesday.

All hands, and both parties, agreed that only in Virginia and New York would the result be regarded as an endorsement or rebuke to the Democracy.

Virginia elects Lee and a Democratic legislature.

New York, in thunder tones, sends Hill back to the State house.

Owing to the gerry mandering policy of the Republicans when in power, the legislature in New York no longer represents the people, and that body, according to our dispatches, "is strongly Republican."

Tuesday's elections, which show Democratic gains almost universally, will go far towards shaping the future policy of the Democratic administration.

If New York, especially—the home of the President and two of the leading members of his cabinet—should have rebuked him, it would have been a serious blow.

As it is, the result must be considered as an endorsement.

Foraker and other Republican leaders went over to New York to display the "bloody shirt."

It disgusted thousands.

The country wants peace, and the Democratic platform was a platform of peace.

The dying embers of the late civil war no longer smoke in New York.

The effort to fan them into a flame, as was done in Ohio in October, ignominiously failed and

"Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war."

And glorious old Virginia, Mother of States, Mother of Statesmen, and Mother of Presidents.

She has slipped the noose that Mahone had thrown around her neck.

She has elected the peerless Lee, and

Put the power of the State, through the legislature, back into the hands of her own people.

God bless her, and God bless her people.

J. PARADISE OLIVER.

The Story of a Misunderstanding at an Open Air Meeting.

New York World.

Two men, with swollen lips, black eyes and badly scratched faces, were before Justice Duffy at the Tombs yesterday charged with fighting on the street.

"I spoke at an open air ratification meeting in Baxter street last night," said Henry Murphy, "in favor of J. Paradise Oliver for Member of Assembly. I spoke in English and this here chap followed me and made a German speech. I did not understand what he said, but pretty soon I began to hear mutterings from the crowd.

"What's the matter?" I asked of a German Baxter street clothier.

"That speaker," he replied, "is not praising Mr. Oliver, he is giving him fits. I threw him off the platform, and the crowd went for him right and left. I took a hand in it, and got laid out, too. It seems that this man pretended to be Mr. Oliver's friend but he is in the pay of the other side."

"I thought it was a Tammany Hall meeting and I made a speech for Thomas Mahner," said the other prisoner.

The prisoners were discharged.

The Boss Fish Story.

San Francisco Examiner.

A wonderful fish is becoming numerous in Goose Lake. It has the power to fill itself with water until it becomes very much like a round ball. On evenings about sundown they may be seen playing on the surface of the water. They can swell up by taking in the air, and the wind will blow them over the lake. They reflect all the colors of the rainbow, and when sporting over the lake are a grand sight. A hunter several weeks ago saw a crane swallow one of these fish when in its normal condition, but before the crane had proceeded fifty feet up the lake the fish had taken in enough air to explode the crane, which, with a report like that of a gun, flew all to atoms, and the fish came lightly down on the water none the worse off for his short ride in the air.

STATE NEWS.

There were fifty deaths in Wilmington last month.

Wilmington Review: At the services at Fifth Street M. E. church last Sunday night, Rev. Charles J. Soon, the Chinese clergyman, was presented by the congregation, through Rev. D. H. Tuttle the pastor, with a fine Bible. Rev. Mr. Soon will leave the city tomorrow for Tarboro. Thence he will go to Durham to be in attendance upon Conference, where he will be ordained, soon after which he will be for his field of labor. He will take the overland route to San Francisco, thence by steamer across the Pacific ocean to his destination.

Asheville Citizen: The rains which were so general and heavy all over the country last week were less damaging in the mountains than might have been expected. The detentions and interruptions as compared with what they were in Virginia were small, and speedily removed, which goes to show that after a while the mountain sections will be perfectly reliable. Some of the tunnels will require alteration to insure permanency, and then all will be right.

Lumberton Robesonian: Last Wednesday while Mr. W. K. Culbreath was going to his new gin situated at what is known as Pine Log, about six miles from town on the C. C. R. R. a match in the cotton ignited it, and in a moment almost the contents of the lint room were in a blaze. The entire outfit, which was new was destroyed, except the engine, together with about two bales of cotton and about 350 bushels of seed, were destroyed. Loss about $1,500, insured for $1,000.

The stock law has created great excitement in Buncombe county. At a meeting in Avery's creek township, war was declared. One of the preambles was: "Whereas, from first to last, we have been fraudulently and purposely deceived and denied our rights, and the same forcibly taken from us, by the most cowardly conduct of those engaged in the infamous outrage, acting more like a politician board of doubtful reputation, than otherwise, and denounced by the best and most conservative citizens as 'infamous,' together with others who have made themselves partisans to this outrage, by advising and prearranging this fraud. One of the resolutions was: 'Resolved, That we will not put up our stock on the 1st of November and we notify others not to take up the same.' That we pledge ourselves to stand by each other in the defence of what we are advised and believed are our rights, 'That we hereby organize ourselves into a local party' in favor of home rule and self-government, and demand the repeal of the 'no-fence law.'"

Asheville Advance: Mr. Wm. E. Breese, who will be president of the First National Bank of Asheville, and Col. W. C. Courtney, Mayor of the city of Charleston, S. C., arrived yesterday morning. Mr. Breese's object in coming to Asheville, is to perfect arrangements for the opening of the bank sometime during this month. The room in the Western Hotel, formerly occupied by the Bank of Asheville, will be used by the new bank. Col. Courtney's visit is for the purpose of looking into other matters of great importance to Asheville.

Trouble Over Old Whisky.

Washington Critic.

There is a Democrat in this city, temporarily, who for the past twelve years has had on tap a lovely barrel of whisky. The whisky was old in 1876, and our Democratic friend intended to give it to Mr. Tilden when he was inaugurated. Mr. Tilden not being inaugurated he kept the barrel intact to give to the first Democratic President who should be elected. He found out that President Cleveland would not accept any gift of the kind, so he was somewhat in a quandary as to what to do with his mellow tippie. He finally concluded to give it to a Western member of Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet. When he broached the subject he found out that no Western member of the Cabinet used whisky, but he learned about the same time that Cabinet officers sometimes have friends who take a drink occasionally, although they themselves may not indulge. He therefore found a place at last for his fragrant Bourbon, and at last advised the contents of the barrel were lowering rapidly.
