HE DIDN'T EXPECT IT.

It is said that there was a very large increase in the colored vote in the last elections for the Democrats in Virginia and Maryland, in consequence of the threat of John Sherman to reduce Southern representation in Congress and in the electoral college, unless the negro vote could be hereafter controlled by the Republican party. A number of doubtful counties in Maryland were carried for the Democrats against the Republicans and Independents by the colored vote, which in previous elections had been cast against the Democrats. It was so also in Virginia. Intelligent colored men who keep track of current events on the political stage, felt that Sherman's attempt to lay claim to the proprietorship of the colored vote ought to be rebuked, and proceeded to rebuke it. Practically speaking his proposed mode of procedure would amount to a legal disfranchisement of the colored man, pleading in justification that he is now illegally disfranchised. In other words he would do under pretext of the law what he condemns the Southern Democrats for doing in spite of the law. Sum it up, this is what John Sherman would do, and it seems there were some colored men in the country with sagacity enough to see through his game. Sherman, however, did not anticipate this result, and will doubtless, when the next Congress meets, take occasion to brag more or less at the first opportunity. Now, perhaps, he will be more anxious than ever to see the colored man deprived of the ballot, since that ballot can be no longer counted on for the Republicans, but goes to the Democrats to help lay out Sherman and the other bloody shirters.

Kansas City, Mo., has a social sensation. In business circles Frank Gray was a conspicuous and successful figure for two years, while Mrs. Mary B. Wolcott was a leading figure in social circles. A sensation was caused by the recent discovery that Frank Gray and Mary Wolcott were one and the same person successfully playing the role of man in the business world and woman in the social circle. She adopted male attire because, she said, it enabled her the better to struggle in the battle of life, in which she seems to have been able to take her own part, and amassed considerable property. One of the results, however, of her male attire, was a suit for divorce entered some time ago by a jealous husband who didn't fancy his wife's apparent fondness for Frank Gray.

Evangelist Moody is making vigorous war on a custom which prevails in some portions of the North of selecting a pretty girl at church fairs and putting her up to be kissed by the miscellaneous multitude who are willing to pay twenty-five cents a kiss. This is an abuse of beauty for which there is no defense. Churches that have to be cared for in that way had better go to wreck.

The coffee and sugar planters of Mexico are offering a bounty of $25 each for Chinese laborers. There is an opening for the Pacific Chinese exterminators. They can trap the Chinamen, ship 'em to Mexico, and thus get rid of them without killing them, and rake in some lucre at the same time.

There are no insane asylums in China, but that is no proof that there are no insane people there. The Chinese, however, have a habit of taking life so easy that the probabilities are that their number of insane is very small compared with nations whose people live faster and more excited lives.

A Virginia farmer up near the Potomac has found some very fine strawberries on his vines within the past week, fully matured. The old folks say this is an unfailling sign of a cold winter and lots of snow.

STATE NEWS.

News and Observer: The cotton receipts of this market for the week ending last Thursday were 1,648 bales and for the corresponding week last year 1,472 bales. The total receipts from September 1st to Thursday were 12,085 bales against 14,750 last season.

Fayetteville News: Capt. E. T. B. Glenn, of the C. F. & Y. V. R. R. has a fine half setter and sheppard dog, named Joe, that while being one of the most amiable and intelligent dogs that we ever saw, has for the past two months been possessed with the crazy idea that he can catch his shadow. All day long, and on moonlight nights he lies after it, often rolling over and over trying to catch it. He rarely ever stops, except from exhaustion or unless he gets another dog or some person to frolic with. Does any one else know of a case of this kind?

Wilmington Review: Mr. C. J. Gause, of Shallotte township, Brunswick county, has on exhibition at No 11, South Front street, a mammoth saw fish. It was thirteen feet long when first caught, and weighed about 600 pounds. The saw is three feet and a half long, and is a fearful looking weapon. Such fish are seldom seen in these waters, and we had much rather see them dead than when alive. The fish in question was caught at Bland's fishery, on Gause's Beach, Brunswick county, and has been stuffed and preserved for exhibition.

Asheville Advance: One of the most important cases pending for trial at this term of the Federal court is an indictment against Deputy Marshal, William Clapp, of Michell county, who is charged with shooting a negro. The defendant was indicted in the Superior court of Michell county, but upon his motion an affidavit, alleging that the act was committed in the discharge of his duties as a government officer, the case was transferred to the Federal court. The question involved in the case, is whether or not the defendant used excessive force in making the arrest. His attorneys are Messrs. Malone & Brownman.

A Case of Desertion.

Salisbury Watchman. It is an old saying: "Marry in haste and repent in leisure," and how often in life is the truth of the saying observed. A Mr. Vernon, something of an itinerant phrenologist,—a travelled Englishman—took up a temporary abode in Davie county, in the "Fork country," and finally persuaded Miss Mary Hendrix, one of the young ladies of the neighborhood, to marry him. Last week they started off together and at Greensboro, Vernon left his wife, as he said, to return to Salisbury to collect some money. When she next heard from him, he was in Goldsboro and wrote to the effect that "about the best thing she could do was to go back to her father." Her father met her here a few days since and took her home. He, unworthy wretch, is stealing off probably to entice some other confiding woman to a like fate.

Mr. Hendrix, who is a well-to-do farmer, feels much outraged that such villainy should be practiced on a member of his family. His neighbors are also indignant.

A Soldier for Politics Largely.

New York Tribune. General Phil Sheridan thought that General McClellan should have had a military funeral. He said that the absence of either sword or flag from the coffin made him feel that "Little Mac" was not getting a soldier's deserts. I understand that the funeral was in accordance with Gen. McClellan's wishes. A reminiscence of 1864 was recalled to me by a remark of Sheridan. He said: "I fought in the valley to whip McClellan and to elect Lincoln, which is the nearest I ever came to participating in politics." It was Sheridan's victory over Early that turned the tide in the Presidential election of that year, which had been setting in favor of McClellan up to that time.

Silver in Circulation.

The present administration favors the suspension of the coinage of standard silver dollars, but it also favors the enforcement of the coinage act in letter and spirit as long as it remains on the statute books. The result of this loyalty to the act as it stands has been to increase materially the amount of silver in circulation. The amount of standard dollars in circulation on June 30 of the present year was $38,500,000. The amount outstanding today is, in round numbers, $48,500,000. This increase of $10,000,000 has been added to by a net increase of $2,900,000 in the amount of fractional silver put in circulation since June 1, 1885.

The "old reliable"—Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, now sold everywhere.

An Internal Revolution

Which enables the stomach to throw off the role of dyspepsia is effected through the aid of Hoefter's Stomach Bitters, a most efficient ally in warring with all disorders which effect the digestive organs, the liver and the bowels. When the dyspeptic experiences heartburn, wind on the stomach, or any of the other familiar symptoms of his malady, a wise course of this matchless stomachic will dissipate them, and a pursuance of the remedy bring about a cure. Constipation and biliousness, evils to the relief of which aperients and cathartics are inadequate, also yield to this alternative. The restoration of appetite and nightly repose, and the disappearance of those nervous symptoms that habitually annoy the chronic sufferer from dyspepsia, also ensue upon the use of the Bitters, which is likewise a standard remedy and preventive of fever and ague, rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles and debility.
