SILVER SUSPENSION AND THE NEW COINAGE COMMITTEE

The North Carolina appointments of the Speaker are of unusual interest on account of the prominence of certain questions.

WASHINGTON, D. C. January 8.—The appointments of the Speaker are of unusual interest on account of the prominence of certain questions. The main point of interest is the silver question as involved in the constitution of the Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures.

Hon. William R. Cox is made chairman of the committee on Reform in the Civil Service, and a member of the Foreign Affairs committee; the former a promotion, the latter the same position which he had in the last Congress.

Hon. John S. Henderson takes Judge Bennett's place on the Elections committee, and is put on the committee on Railways and Canals.

Hon. James W. Reid has the second place on the Printing and a position on the War Claims committees. He was the first North Carolina member to receive a committee appointment.

On the other hand, Western advocates of silver say that the committee is certainly not dead against them and some of them declare it is with them, though not so decidedly as before.

The Speaker has had a hard and vexatious task and upon the whole he has acquitted himself with his usual wisdom, and impartiality. It is a Western and Southern organization, necessarily. In these sections the dominant party gets its votes, and these are the lands of hopes for the country as well as the Democratic party.

The delegation were thus placed, respectively: Hon. R. T. Bennett, chairman of the committee on Expenditures in the State Department, and a member of the important Judiciary committee. Both are promotions.

Hon. Thomas D. Johnston is a member of the committee on Public Buildings and Grounds and that on the Election of President and Vice President.

Hon. James E. O'Hara is placed on the Invalid Pensions and the Committee on the Expenditures of the Department of Justice.

Generally it is understood that the North Carolina appointments give satisfaction.

Col. A. B. Andrews arrived yesterday morning from the North and left for home in the afternoon.

committee on Ventilation and Acoustics will have the same clerk as the committee on Public Health. I cannot learn in time for this, as Col. Green has not arrived, what arrangement will be made in that case.

Fire in Cincinnati. CINCINNATI, January 9.—A five story building occupied by Jewett & Adams, manufacturers of bur-laps and bags, corner of Water and Vine streets, took fire at six o'clock this morning. The entire fire department has been called out. Two adjacent buildings are burning, and the prospect is that the loss will be heavy.

How Sealskins are Prepared.

It should be premised that the seal-skins, when taken from the animal, are simply salted, and brought here in barrels. The natural color of the fur, which underlies the coarse hair or outside covering, is a dirty cinnamon, and instead of having the rich velvety color which its wearers take so much delight in, it is tangled and curly. The first work done on the raw skins is to lay them, fur down, on semi-circular beams and strip off the fat with knives of different shapes. Next they are stretched on hoops and placed in the drying-room. Next comes the business of plucking, or "unhairing," as it is called in the English factories, and this process is kept a secret.
