CHAS. J. CANDA NOMINATED.

He Will Accept the Position of Assistant Treasurer if Confirmed by the Senate.

New York World.
Mr. Charles J. Canda, of this city, was nominated yesterday by President Cleveland for Assistant Treasurer at this city. During the day Mr. Canda received a telegram from the President asking if he would accept the position, and Mr. Canda replying in the affirmative, the President immediately nominated him.

Mr. Canda's friends, after the designation of Mr. Bigelow, urged on President Cleveland to nominate him, and though he told them he did not seek the place—in fact, did not care for it—they persisted, and the first intimation he received of the success of their efforts was the telegram asking if he would accept.

Mr. Canda is forty eight and a native of France, but came to this country when an infant. In his early manhood he was engaged in the banking business, until he became the private secretary of the late William B. Ogden, at that time President of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad. Mr. Ogden and Samuel J. Tilden were great friends, and it was while in the employ of Mr. Ogden that Mr. Canda formed the acquaintance of Mr. Tilden, which has since ripened into friendship. In 1875 Mr. Canda was appointed a member of the Rapid Transit Commission, which laid out the system of elevated railroad transit now in this city. Since then he has been engaged in reorganizing railroad companies in the West. During the past year he was chairman of the committee that reorganized the main line of the Ohio Central Railroad, and is now President of the reorganized company, the Toledo and Ohio Central. With Samuel J. Tilden he is interested in some mines. During the last Presidential campaign he was the treasurer of the National Democratic Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The nomination of Mr. Canda for Assistant Treasurer at New York meets with favor here among those who know him. He is highly spoken of as a financier and a business man. Mr. Canda has always been a Democrat, and has for years interested himself in national and State campaigns. There was no petition before President Cleveland seeking Mr. Canda's appointment. The President knew him and had spoken about his fitness for the office to D. Willis James, ex-Mayor Cooper, Francis Lynde Steierson and Treasurer Jordan, all of whom have had a long acquaintance with Mr. Canda.

Was Miss Bayard's Death the Result of Wearing Low-Necked Dresses.

The Graphic.
WASHINGTON, January 19.—What caused Miss Bayard's death? Physicians may pronounce it heart disease but those who have seen her habits know that she was the victim to low-necked dresses. That will not deter any other gay young girls from following her fate, but none the less should a moral be pointed. On the Wednesday night preceding her death she "received" with her mother at the usual reception of the wife of the Cabinet officer. It was a bitterly cold day; the air penetrated the thickest wrappers. The pleasant parlors of Mrs. Bayard were filled with groups of visitors coming and going the incessantly opened outer door gave a blast of air fresh from Boreal regions.

Never was Miss Bayard lovelier or more considerate of others, a fact which was remarked by all visitors. She wore a cream-colored brocade with a glint of ashes of roses, cut square in front, thus exposing the anatomy of throat and lungs to the inclement season.

The very night preceding her death she was occupied with a party of friends till midnight. She then wore a décolleté dress, and stood a long time in the hall to "welcome the coming or speed the parting guest." A friend begged her to don a wrap, as she was already suffering from a cold. Accordingly she threw something about her shoulders when the door opened, and threw it off when the door was closed.

Shortly after she retired, giving directions not to be called till afternoon of the next day. When her sister entered the room at the appointed hour her spirit had flown.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

Digest of Opinions. October Term, 1885.

From Advance Sheets of Attorney General T. F. Davidson's 93d N. C. Reports.

Bank vs. Stewart.

The plaintiff may, at any time before the defendant has pleaded a counter-claim, submit to a non suit, and withdraw his suit.

Justice vs. Barter.

Where the title to the land was in a feme covert who married in 1846, when under age, and she and her husband executed a bond to convey the land after she became of age to a party from whom the defendant derived title by mesne conveyances, which bond was never registered, and the defendant had no actual notice of any defect in his title, which he believed to be good; Held, that the doctrine of constructive notice from registration did not apply to such party, and that he was entitled to compensation under the act—The Code, section 473—for permanent improvements made by him on the land.

Taylor vs. Taylor.

1. Alimony is that part of the husband's estate which is allotted to the wife for her support during the period of a judicial separation.

2. The property rights of both husband and wife remain unchanged by a divorce a mensa et thora and an allowance for alimony, and on the death of the husband the wife is entitled to dower, and if he die intestate, to her distributive share in his estate and on the death of the wife the husband is entitled to curtesy and to administration on her estate.

3. After a divorce a mensa et thora, the wife holds, and may dispose of her property as a feme sole.

4. Where alimony is allotted to the wife in specific property of the husband, the title to such property remains in him, and will revert at the death of the wife, or upon a reconciliation.

5. Alimony ceases upon a reconciliation, or the death of either party, and may be reduced or enlarged at any time, in the discretion of the court.

6. Where a decree in an action for divorce a mensa et thora directed that the husband pay a sum in gross, and be discharged from all further liability for the support of his wife; It was held, that after his death the wife was entitled to dower in his lands.

Runkin vs. Ramsay.

1. Where, in a suit instituted in the late court of equity, and transferred to the Superior Court docket under the provision of the Code of Civil Procedure, the parties agreed that the judge should find the facts, and that he should examine witnesses orally, and only the substance of the oral evidence was sent up with the record; It was held, that the right to have the findings of fact reviewed by the Supreme Court was waived.

2. Where parties agree to a particular mode of trial, they are bound by it.

3. The Supreme Court can only review and pass on issues of fact in certain cases, and then only when the evidence on which the finding in the court below was based is set out fully and at large in the record.

4. A party cannot lose the right to appeal by an agreement that the judgment of the court below shall be final, and that neither party will appeal therefrom.

Taylor vs. Bostic.

1. An appeal will not be entertained in this court when there is no judgment rendered in the court below.

2. In order for a special proceeding to get before the judge of a Superior Court, on a question of law, there must be an appeal from some judgment of the clerk.

Patrik vs. Railroad Company.

1. A plaintiff is entitled to such relief as the fact stated in his complaint will admit, although he misconceives the manner in which it may be afforded.

2. A variance is not material unless it has misled the adverse party.

3. Where a contract with a railroad company provided that it might be terminated by a written notice for thirty days, to be signed by a person designated to contract; It was held, that the agent giving the notice had the power to recall it before the expiration of the thirty days.

4. It seems that an agent to give notice of the intention of one party to a contract to end it, cannot withdraw the notice so as to continue the contract, after it has ceased to be operative.

5. In an action for damages for a breach of contract, which could have been terminated by notice, and a notice was given, but withdrawn before the contract was annulled; Held, that it is proper to allege in the complaint that no notice was given.
