STATE NEWS.

Wilmington Review: The receipts of cotton at this port for the month ended January 31st, 1886 foot up 7,127 bales, as against 6,587 bales for the corresponding month last year, an increase of 540 bales. The receipts for the crop year to date foot up 86,986 bales against 88,966 bales for the corresponding period last year, a decrease this year of 2,886 bales.

News and Observer: At the stone quarries near Henderson, about 100 convicts are employed. These as a rule have been very tractable, but Sunday morning a party of them made an attempt to escape. They made a break for liberty, the guards fired away in a lively way and wounded two of the fleeing men. One of them was captured and brought here. Six men made their escape. The February term began yesterday, all the justices being present. The day was devoted to the examination of applicants for license as attorneys. Up to yesterday thirty-three sheriffs had settled the taxes due by their counties.

Goldboro sends fourteen convicts to the penitentiary; all sentenced at the recent term of court. This is the largest number contributed at any one time by one county in a year or more.

Asheville Citizen: Much to the regret of our business community, Captain Grace Hallyburton has retired from the agency of the railroad at this place. Captain Grace has been agent here for several years, and has notwithstanding the many disadvantages of a new road and importunities of impatient patrons, given general satisfaction. He leaves the agency with the best wishes of all, we are sure. He is succeeded by Mr. Frank P. Blair, son of our townsman, Mr. A. J. Blair, Esq. He has been in the service of the company at Salisbury, for some time, and this appointment attests with what excellent satisfaction to his employers. His appointment is very satisfactory to our people.

Asheville Advance: We give below the number of pounds of tobacco sold at three of the Asheville warehouses last week:

Buncombe warehouse,	34,000
Farmer's	70,191
Asheville	78,147
Total,	182,338.

We were unable to get a report from the Banner, but the sales at that warehouse were as great as at any of the others. It will be seen that not less than 260,000 pounds were sold in Asheville last week. The average price was about $12.50 per hundred pounds, making the amount paid out for the week about $20,000.

Concord Times: The case of Charles Eagle brought to break his father's will was given to the jury about 8 o'clock Saturday evening. The jury hung until 11 o'clock at night, when it was called before the judge and dismissed, and adjourned. Mr. Eagle left his only child, Charlie, five dollars, and the rest of his property, worth about $1,500, was to be expended for tombstones. Charlie tried to prove his father's insanity in order to have the will broken.

Standard Oil Company Officers Indicted.

BUFFALO, N. Y., February 3.—Late today the Grand Jury of the Court of Sessions reported indictments against the following persons, officers of the Standard Oil Company: John C. Archibald, Henry H. Rogers and Ambrose McGregor, of New York city, and H. B. and Charles M. Everest, of Rochester. The indictment charges these persons with malicious conspiracy to destroy the business, property and reputation of the Buffalo Lubricating Oil Company (limited). Among the acts charged are the bringing up of vexatious laws for malicious purposes; the corruption, by bribery of the employees of the Buffalo Company, to cause them to act in the interests of the Standard Company; the suborning of witnesses to commit perjury, and the hiring of an employee of the Buffalo Company to commit arson. The indicted persons are the same who were formerly indicted on substantially the same charges and subsequently had the indictments referred back to the Court of Sessions for correction, where the indictments were annulled on questions of law.

MR. BAYARD WILL NOT RESIGN.

The Rumor that He Intended to Leave the Cabinet a Mere Canard.

WASHINGTON, February 2.—There was a rumor today that Secretary Bayard would at an early day resign his office. The rumor was based upon a remark the Secretary is said to have made to an intimate friend, which was in substance that his troubles of late were so great that he was in no condition of mind to attend to the important duties of his office, and he believed that in justice to himself and the administration, he should resign the State portfolio. His friend urged him not to think of taking such a step, and argued that the best relief his mind could get would be in the engrossment of business cares. The Secretary said nothing in answer to this argument. If the Secretary should refer to the subject of resigning to the President the latter will not listen to it for a moment. He is much attached to Mr. Bayard, and regards him as the ablest of his constitutional advisers. The general impression among the friends of Mr. Bayard is that he will not retire from the Cabinet, and that within a few weeks he will be able to resume the important duties of his office.

A DENIAL FROM WILMINGTON.

WILMINGTON, Del., February 2.—Senator Gray, George H. Bates, Esq., and William J. Bryan, Mr. Bayard's private secretary, were seen to-night in respect to Secretary Bayard's reported resignation, and all agree that there is no basis whatever for the rumor. Mr. Bryan said that Mr. Bayard had never intimated such a purpose to him, and he was certain that the idea had never been entertained by Mr. Bayard. This was affirmed by Senator Gray, whose relations with Mr. Bayard are exceedingly close and intimate. Mr. Bates said that the rumor was the mere figment of a reporter's brain, and was deserving of no credit whatever. "I give my strongest assurance," he said, "that Mr. Bayard never thought of resigning. Indeed, what he needs now is not idleness, but work."

A Tooth Forming in His Nose.

A young man went to Bellevue Hospital, New York, Saturday, and wanted to have something done for his throat, which had been giving him so much trouble that he could not work. Dr. Griffin made an examination of his throat, but could not find anything the matter there, and was about to tell the young man that he was carrying a disease around in his mind, when his eyes fell upon something in the roof of the mouth. A closer inspection showed it to be a bone, and by following its course along the upper jaw it was found to fit in a socket at the base and was evidently an extra tooth. The young man had a full set of teeth, and as this extra one could be of little service in the mouth, it had gone on an exploring tour, and the end was found projecting into the left nostril. It had a fine, sharp point and by distending the nostril it could be plainly seen. The patient said that it had been there so long that he could not remember when it came. It had never given him any trouble, and he did not believe that there was anything the matter with it. It was found, however, to be pressing in such a way upon the tissues as to cause irritation and inflammation, and he was advised to have it taken out, as there was a possibility that it might result in cancer. But the patient refused to have it removed, though it could be readily done without disfiguring his face, and went away from the hospital with the idea that a man with a tooth in his nose ought to bring a good price in a museum.
