WASHINGTON NEWS.

OVERTURES ON THE TARIFF.

Colquitt and Logan in the Senate-Other News Items.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Mr. Wilis will defer the introduction of his new bill until Monday of next week. There are some parliamentary technicalities involved. It is desired to have the bill referred to some other than the Education committee and it is said to be doubtful if the Speaker will rule favorably to a submission of the question on the reference. There are circumstances justifying the dispatch in the Philadelphia Press this morning to the effect that overtures have been made by Morrison to Randall. These overtures are said to have come in this way: A question was asked as to what sort of a bill reducing the tariff would be supported by Mr. Landall. This is probably old news to those discerning readers of the OBSERVER who read between the lines in that letter of last week which described the internal revenue measures introduced by Messrs. Henderson and Reid. The confidence of the North Carolina members on this subject may have close relation to this statement about an overture. I do not believe that there has been any such overture. But it is highly probable that if the Ways and Means committee treat the internal revenue reformers as they hope to be treated, the Morrison bill will pass the House of Representatives.

The House is using up the day in roll calls on some private pension bills that came over from Tuesday evening. Mr. Colquitt in the Senate paid a compliment to the Hayes administration for paying which he said Republicans would damn Hayes and Democrats the Senator himself. He said that that administration had done more for peace and State autonomy than any other administration we had had since the war. Senator Colquitt replied very readily to Logan and other Republican Senators who asked very certain damaging facts relating to office-holders under the Arthur administration were given to him to read in a political argument and withheld from the committee. There did not appear to be much heart in Logan's questions and he stumbled in his delivery, contrary to his usual manner of fierce self-confidence. Colquitt has a powerful voice, very deep and bull-like. But he reads extracts in a slipshod undertone.

Gen. Logan did not write the miserable story of "Uncle Daniel," even he can do better. The book first appeared as a serial in the National Tribune, a soldiers' paper published here. Mr. Skinner obtained leave of absence until the 30th inst. The Speaker, having returned from his New York tour, was in his seat this morning.

CARRYING OIL IN BULK.

A Dangerous Trade in Which Many Vessels are Entering. Philadelphia Record. The large German ship Andromeda, now in New York, has been chartered to load crude petroleum in bulk at this port on French account. She has been especially prepared for carrying the oil, and seventy-six tanks have been put in the vessel's hold to prevent the cargo from shifting. When filled to their maximum capacity these tanks will contain 640,000 gallons. The Norwegian bark Lindesnes is also loading the crude product at this port in bulk. Tanks are placed in the lower hold, while barrels will be stowed between decks. It is stated that several large vessels are now being prepared for this trade abroad, and will soon be ready for sailing for Philadelphia. This is not the first time, however, that the oil has been taken out in bulk, as several vessels have before attempted to carry petroleum in that manner. The experiment has not proved successful, however, as several of these vessels have been lost at sea, many of them on their first voyage. The greatest care has to be taken in loading the cargo to allow for the contraction and expansion of the fluid. This is the vital point in loading these dangerous cargoes, as if the work is improperly done the tanks will burst and either fire the ship or cause her to founder. The French are the principal purchasers of petroleum taken out in bulk. In the refining process they save all of the volatile gases and other by-products which go to waste in this country.

The Florence Miscellaneous of the railway. The following is an extract from a letter written to the German informed Messenger, at Chambersburg, Penn.: A RESEARCHER. Just open the door for her. And Mrs. Windsor will prove the American Phlox of the night.

CRIMES THAT ARE INFAMOUS.

The Supreme Court's Decision in the Chicago Election Case. Washington Critic. In the Supreme Court of the United States today Justice Gray delivered the opinion of the full bench in the case of Joseph C. Mackin and William J. Gallagher, plaintiffs in error, vs. the United States, from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit, Chicago. It is the well known Chicago election case, and was sent to the Supreme Court for the purpose of determining whether the charges against the defendants were infamous and could be proceeded with upon information.

Justice Gray's conclusions is that all the crimes charged against the defendants in this information are infamous crimes within the meaning of the fifth amendment to the Constitution, and that the defendants cannot be held to answer in the courts of the United States for any of those crimes otherwise than the presentment or indictment of a grand jury, and that consequently the first question certified must be answered in the affirmative and the second in the negative.

NATIONAL LABOR SUBJECTS.

Commissioner Wright Submits Suggestions to Congress and the Public.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The first annual report of the Bureau of Labor has been submitted in manuscript by Commissioner Carroll D. Wright to the Secretary of the Interior, and will be printed immediately. By way of summary the Commissioner says: "It has been clearly shown that the depression of the past in the manufacturing nations of the world have been nearly or quite contemporaneous in their occurrence. As to the severity of the present industrial depression and its duration, it can safely be asserted that the depression commenced early in 1885 and has continued until the present time. From the time the agents of the bureau entered the field in prosecuting their investigations, up to the time they left the office five or six months, there had been a marked change in the condition of business. At the present time (March 1886) the effects of the depression are wearing away and the indications are that prosperity is slowly, gradually but safely returning. The extent of the depression has not been so great as the popular mind has conceived it to be. "With a healthy public opinion be hindered, the law-making power can prevent to a great degree the unwholesome speculation in food products. It can indulge in conservative care in extending railroad building, and in facilitating the organization of manufacturing corporations. It can restrict the grants of the public domain, it can enact uniform bankruptcy laws, and it can provide for such laws as that the poor man indebted but a few hundred dollars shall be able to readjust his financial affairs as the larger debtor. It can regulate the provisions of laws relating to the collection of debts, so that the credit system shall not be abused. It can regulate transportation on a just and uniform basis, to the end that the stockholder shall not be robbed by ruinous competition, and that the workman may calculate with some degree of certainty the cost of his living and the producer of products, so as to insure himself against a fall in the price of his goods. It can see to it that the tariff shall be regulated on the basis of justice and science and not on a haphazard basis which affects only individuals and not the public in general. It can see to it that a stable currency be guaranteed, that the workman may know the purchasing power of his stipulated earnings, and that the consumer of goods and humane regulations may be adopted relative to immigration and see to it that labor is not lowered either in standard or through earnings by the payment of no end of importations by contract, that every lawful endeavor be made to stimulate industrial education in all parts of the country; that the necessity shall be recognized of the industrial development of all parts of the land, that there may result a legitimate increase in the consuming power of the people. It can stimulate the growth of the principle of industrial co-operation, and of other methods of profit-sharing by wise legislative laws. Public sentiment can encourage the perfect organization of the forces in labor to the end that the employer shall treat with the other through representatives and that production shall be regulated by the demand and not by the ill-advvised eagerness of men to rush into production at a moment's notice, and that the effect of the determination of others, that there may come the universal adoption of shorter hours of labor, and demand that the after capital and labor shall have received their just and reasonable compensation each for its investment, the net profits of production shall be divided under profit-sharing plans or methods, or through industrial co-operation, so that the benefit of the forces of production shall be equally alive to mutual welfare. It can see that the contracts of labor be as free as the contracts of commodities, under fair agreements for services rendered, to the end that the workman shall not be obliged to make contracts on terms not acceptable to him, and it can hold the party which declines to resort to such a method of arbitration wholly responsible for all the ill effects growing out of contracts. These remedial agencies or remedial methods, alleviatory in their design, are all possible, and the reasonable acts of men. They are not chimerical schemes, but measures adapted to practical adoption. They demand simply a fair recognition of the fact of the mutual dependence of the parties to the contract, and that all men shall do unto others as they would have others do unto them.

THE WESTERN STRIKERS.

The Situation Practically Unchanged.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., 23.—9. a. m.—There is no change in the situation at the railway yards this morning. Two hundred switchmen are still out and no freight is moving. There has been no disturbance of any kind. It was stated last night at a conference of the railway superintendents would be held here today. The superintendent on one of the roads said last night: "We are yet undecided as to whether or not this strike is the work of the Knights of Labor. If so then the present time is as good as any for making the issue with them and in this case I am in favor of doing so; filling the place of the strikers and invoking the protection of the law for the resumption of our business. The State Adjutant General has ordered the 7th regiment of militia of the city to assemble nightly at their arsenal for drill until further orders. There is a general disposition to regard the strike with growing seriousness, though it is impossible to be analyzed definitely. The strikers are close mouthed and do not indicate either their motives or purposes except as shown in their statement to the public. It is said that many of those who strike out do not belong to the union, and yet are Knights of Labor, hence the argument that the latter are at the bottom of the trouble. Both Knights and Union strikers, however, deny this, and the public is left to draw its own conclusions. SEDALIA, Mo.—Railway officials notified the city and county authorities yesterday morning that they would attempt to run a train at two o'clock in the afternoon, and requested them to have sufficient force on hand to prevent any trouble. The mayor sent the entire police force on the job, and the city marshal, sheriff and twenty-five deputies taken from the business men of the city. At two p. m. the train was ready to start, and a man named William Freeland, a creek who was laid off after the strike was started stepped up to the train and gave the engineer, fireman and brakemen a note which read: "You are hereby earnestly requested, for the sake of humanity, not to go out on this engine." The train started out, and as it passed New York avenue a torpedo exploded under the engine, and the train came to a standstill, and the train soon came to a standstill, and then backed up to the yard. After consultation, the officials decided to take no more action at this point. Freeland was arrested and placed under $100 bond on charge of trespassing. Another attempt will be made by the officials to get a train out.

THE BURNING GAS WELL.

Ingenuities Efforts to Snuff Out the Flames at Marysville.

PITTSBURG, March 21.—After 48 hours hard work the men in the employ of the Philadelphia and Chartiers Gas Companies have succeeded in getting affairs at the burning well at Marysville in such shape that the fire can be extinguished. A gum was sent up from this city this morning in charge of a detachment of Battery "B," it being the intention to try to shoot off the pipe if other means failed. The chances of success were slight, and before the trial was made another scheme was put in effect. The flame was about 80 feet above the ground. A fireproof shield was constructed, and under its shelter the men gradually worked their way up to the stand pipe. The pipe was then cut half way through and a chain fastened around it above the cut. This done, the workmen left the well, carrying an end of the chain with them. By means of this chain the pipe was pulled over and broken off close to the ground. An arrangement of the principle of an old-fashioned candle snuffer is now being used. Arms will extend on each side of sufficient length to allow the men to work with safety. This contrivance will be pushed up to the well and the cap forced over the pipe and held there until the flames are extinguished by the cutting of the fuel. It is thought that this can be done in the morning. There is no danger from the fire tonight, unless the wind should change into a gale, and the alarm among the people has subsided. Two of the Taylor children, victims of Thursday's explosion, were buried yesterday. Miss Laocook's funeral will take place tomorrow. Mrs. Taylor is growing worse, and her death is expected before morning. A terrific rain and wind storm passed over the town at 3 o'clock this morning, blowing down derricks, fences and small buildings, but doing no damage. The flames from the fire cannot be estimated now.

ENGLAND.

Gladstone's Policy.

LONDON, March 23.—The Daily News, referring to the political situation, says: "All efforts to effect a compromise have failed. The crisis is on the land question, because that was the first question to be presented to the cabinet. Chamberlain and Trevelyan are still as implacably opposed to the home rule scheme. Gladstone is much annoyed by the erroneous report of his scheme which has been given to the public. An authentic statement will show that his project differs widely from the published account of it."

Mrs. Gen'l Hancock Penioned.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The chair laid before the Senate a number of House bills, and among them a bill granting a pension on 20 years to the widow of Gen'l Hancock. On motion of Blair, that bill was at once passed. Mr. Blair stating that it had this morning been considered by the Senate committee of the Senate.

No Boom that Science has Conferred.

Has been fraught with greater blessings than that which has accrued to the inhabitants of materialistic portions of the United States and the Tropics from the use of Haeckel's "Science of Life." The experience of many years is not so clearly demonstrated, the inefficiency of quinine and other drugs to efficiently combat the progress of interstitial, congestive and tubercular meningitis, while on the other hand it has been no less clearly shown that the use of the Bitters, a medicine congenial to the frigid constitution, and derived from purely vegetable sources, affords a reliable safeguard against malarial disease, and averts it when developed. For disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, the general debility and neuralgia, it is also a most efficient remedy. Agents and Sole Importers: J. W. BERRY & CO., 115 N. 7th St., Philadelphia. Sold by all druggists. 25 cents a bottle.
