

THE MONTGOMERY OVA-TION.

The Philadelphia Times, one of the latest newspapers published North of the Mason & Dixon line, has this to say in regard to the reception of Mr. Davis at Montgomery:

Jefferson Davis is one of the few surviving figures of the late Confederacy. It is very natural that the people of Montgomery, the capital of the short-lived attempt at a Southern government in American soil, should kindly toward him and give him an old-fashioned ovation on the occasion of his return to that city a quarter of a century after his inauguration at the same place as the President of the Confederacy.

THE OHIO IDEA.

Reports by Both the Republicans and Democrats to the Ohio Legislature.

COLUMBUS, April 28.—The reports of the investigating committee in the Hamilton county Senatorial contest have been completed and an agreement entered into that they shall come up for final action in the Senate next week.

The Republican members review the frauds in Hamilton county and concentrated on the county and precincts in which the frauds were committed. It is claimed to have been shown in the Fourth ward, Precinct A, Sixth ward, Precinct D and Precinct G, and Ninth ward, Precinct F. These give the Democrats a majority of 179 votes.

The report shows that the returns from these precincts were so permeated by fraud as to be wholly worthless, and recommends that under the first proposition of the agreement of the committee, which provided that the committee should throw out the whole vote in precincts where there was evident fraud by the officers of the election, the entire vote of the precincts be thrown out thus cutting down the vote of the Democratic candidates 1,888 and the Republican candidates 179 and electing all the Republican Senatorial candidates.

The report of the Democratic members claims that there were both Republican and Democratic frauds and states that under the second proposition adopted by the committee of six, which provided that, where frauds were committed by others than the officers of election the committee should ascertain the extent of such frauds and eliminate them, fraudulent votes returned in four Democratic precincts, and the notorious Precinct A, Fourth ward, and in nine Republican precincts, should be thrown out. Throwing out these thirteen precincts a majority of about 1,000 is given for the Democratic candidates.

They find therefore, that the Democratic members are entitled to the seats.

The Montgomery Ceremony.

New York World.

Jefferson Davis made a very brief speech at Montgomery yesterday and the little he did say has done no harm to anybody. Indeed, it no doubt disappointed some politicians who were waiting with some impatience to seize upon his utterances and parade them as evidence that if the South is not in the wrong, it has its riding boots on and is ready to mount at a moment's notice.

There is no lack of enthusiasm at the South when the short-lived Confederacy is invoked. The orator still shouts themselves hoarse when the deeds of their gallant but mistaken soldiers are recalled. The enthusiasm which greeted Jefferson Davis yesterday was greater and deeper than that which greeted him as President of the Confederacy twenty-five years ago.

But over the head of the "unreconstructed" leader waved the Federal flag, with its stars and stripes, till the story of complete re-union.

The speaker's words were few. They referred only to Alabama: to his feelings when he saw the "gentle boys" of that State going forth to war "a holy war" and to his satisfaction at coming to his home—coming to a land where liberty does not and serious sentiments will live forever. Then he retired, and until a storm of vehement applause had compelled him to make his acknowledgments again and again to the people.

Mr. Davis is feeble, although his voice is strong and clear, and his spirit seems as unbroken as ever.

Settlement With the Strikers Expected.

St. Louis, April 30.—It is generally expected here that the offer made by the citizens' committee to the general executive committee of the Knights of Labor to attempt to secure the reinstatement of the strikers upon the railways, will be accepted, and that the strike will be declared off in a few days.

The general board met in executive session yesterday, and in the afternoon were in communication with the citizens' committee, their willingness to end the strike, provided assurance could be had that the agreement of 1885 between the railroad and its employees would be observed, was expressed to the general board and the joint executive committees. The proposition made by the citizens was discussed until an early hour this morning, and an answer will be returned today.

Indicted for Conspiracy.

New York, April 30.—Indictments have been found against members of the executive board of the Empire Protective Association, Joseph R. O'Donnell, Chairman; Andrew J. Best, Secretary; James R. Graham, James T. Downey and John Hughes, for conspiracy in connection with the third Avenue railroad strike. Each appeared at the District Attorney's office today, and gave bail in the amount of $10,000 each. They were afterwards arraigned in court and pleaded not guilty, with leave to withdraw the plea and move to quash the indictment. The trial was fixed for the fifth of May.

Two Men Hanged.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 30.—Armstrong, who in 1885 killed Dr. Ferguson, in Perry county, was hanged in Perry today. George Carroll, who in 1885 killed Dr. Ferguson, in Perry county, was hanged in Perry today. George Carroll, who in 1885 killed Dr. Ferguson, in Perry county, was hanged in Perry today.

The Charleston News and Courier, Augusta Chronicle and Atlanta Constitution, made exactly the same mistake in the name of the French Grenadier alluded to, thus expounding the blame for the mistake either upon the Montgomery (Ala.) operator or the operator who sent the dispatch out from Washington.

It is very provoking to have such mistakes occur, but they will do it sometimes, and then the best we can do is to correct them.

AN ERROR OF THE TELEGRAPH CORRECTED.

In yesterday morning's telegraphic account of the speech of Hon. Jefferson Davis, at Montgomery, occurred this paragraph:

For more than a century after his death, it is said that Philip de Valognes's name was borne on the roll of the Grenadiers, and when his name was called it was answered from the ranks, "Mort sur Le Champ d'honneur."

The name evidently intended was Latour d'Auvergne whose name, for years after his death, was called on parade with the roll of his company of French Grenadiers. This was the man who defended the mountain pass singly and alone against the army of an army of Austrians. He fell at last gallantly fighting at the battle of Oberhausen. The French words used should have been printed: "mort sur l'Champ d'honneur," and translated they mean, "dead on the field of honor." The inaccuracies of the telegraph operator mutilated both the name, and French expression so badly, that the mistake escaped the attention of our usually accurate night editor. It is a matter of fact that several of our friends called our attention to the error of the telegraph operator.

The Charleston News and Courier, Augusta Chronicle and Atlanta Constitution, made exactly the same mistake in the name of the French Grenadier alluded to, thus expounding the blame for the mistake either upon the Montgomery (Ala.) operator or the operator who sent the dispatch out from Washington.

It is very provoking to have such mistakes occur, but they will do it sometimes, and then the best we can do is to correct them.

THE SOUTH'S SITUATION AS DETAILED BY BROWN, IN THE SENATE.

The Growth of Manufacturing Industries.—Future of the New England and The River and Harbor Bill Still Being Discussed.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—SENATE.—On motion of Vance the Senate took up the President's veto of the bill "to provide for the promotion of anatomical science and to prevent desecration of graves." The bill relates to the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection. The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

THE SOUTH'S SITUATION AS DETAILED BY BROWN, IN THE SENATE.

The Growth of Manufacturing Industries.—Future of the New England and The River and Harbor Bill Still Being Discussed.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—SENATE.—On motion of Vance the Senate took up the President's veto of the bill "to provide for the promotion of anatomical science and to prevent desecration of graves." The bill relates to the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

THE SOUTH'S SITUATION AS DETAILED BY BROWN, IN THE SENATE.

The Growth of Manufacturing Industries.—Future of the New England and The River and Harbor Bill Still Being Discussed.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—SENATE.—On motion of Vance the Senate took up the President's veto of the bill "to provide for the promotion of anatomical science and to prevent desecration of graves." The bill relates to the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

The bill is reported by the District of Columbia, and provides that unclaimed bodies of deceased persons, now required by law to be buried at public expense, might be turned over to medical colleges for the purpose of anatomical dissection.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

Table with columns for Market, Price, and Change. Includes sections for Produce, Cotton, and Sugar.

CITY PRODUCE MARKET.

Table with columns for Commodity, Price, and Change. Lists various agricultural products.

A Great Bargain.

We will sell a Water A Wood Harvester and a Tractor... at a great bargain.

PASTURAGE.

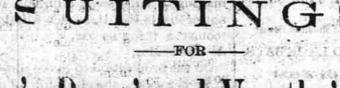

My pasture is now ready and I am prepared to accommodate one hundred head of cattle...

NOTICE.

All the books accounts assigned to me by H. J. Mendel will be presented for payment and if not paid will be advertised and sold.

The Brown Cotton Gin Co.

NEW LONDON, CONN. Manufacturers of the "Old Reliable" Brown Cotton Gins, Feeders and Condensers.

BUHM & McDOWELL, Charlotte, N. C., Agents.

THREE PILLS.

Grab Orchard Water. A Remedy for all Diseases of the Liver, Kidney, Bladder, etc.

WE ARE NOW DISPLAYING.

SPRING BLOCKS. Soft and Stiff Hats. Mens', Boys' and Youths' Wear.