an Address from the Executive Committee Issued --- Deploring Anarchy, but Determined to Make the Labor Fight "If it Takes all Summer."

CHICHGO, May 6—The executive commutee of the trade and labor as-sembly and the master workman of District Assembly No. 24, Knights of Labor have issued the following cir-

FELLOW CITIZENS; - The tragic events of the last few hours, and the deplored sacrifice of human life con-nected therewith are the legitimate results of the tenchings of reckless, law-defying men—together with the excited condition of public feeling, demands that the position of the organized associations of this city, represented in trades and labor assembly, and district assembly, 24, should clearly and officially define the means employed to secure recognition of their demands stated and the facts spread broadcast; that they have neither sympathy or affiliation with any class of men who set law and order at defiance. From the inception of the eight hour movement to the present time they have spoken with no uncertain sound. They have consistently and persistently depreciated any resort to violence and that course they mean to pursue to the end. Their reliance is, and has been, based on the justice of their cause, the nower of the organization and results of the teachings of reckless,

But while they thus unbesitatingly condemn the action of all law breakers as unwise and unnecessary, they take this occasion to announce that secure the recognition and adoption of the eight hour system by any and every lawful means within their power, and intend to fight it out on that line if it takes all summer.

By so doing they will not only show their sympathy with the movement, but contribute their quota to securing the quiet and welfare of the city. They also request that all members of this organization refrain from participating in public processions and open air demonstations, and that even at their union meetings they avoid the use of all boisterous Stock always kept full and

At the Deering Harvester Works the situation was somewhat critical this morning. Committees from the strikers were appointed at a meeting held last night. These were to watch the gates and set any who were in the gates and ask any who were in clined to go to w.rk not to do so.

The Company had offered an advance of 15 per cent,, and some of the men wanted to go back to work at these figures. A majority, however, insisted on the eight hour per day rule. At 6:30 eight hundred men were grouped near the gate, but no-body went in. At seven o'clock Deering appeared and addressed the crowd. He called on the Deering men to go to work at once, and said he had a large amount of work to do before harvest and promised to give eight hours after the rush was over. The Deering men began to file in greeted with cries of "scabs," "eight Five hundred had gone in by 7:30, but after that few entered. The mass of strikers were men from brick yards and neighboring factories, who had been forced out by Deering men in a general movement for the eight hour system. These men were loud in their denunciation of those who had renounced their de mands and acceeded to the terms proposed by Mr. Deering. Shortly after 7 o'clock a squad of 12 police from Webster Avenue station dashed up in a patrol wagon and formed in front of the gate, keeping the way clear. At least six thousand men were out, 12 brick yards and several factories being employed of employees. Trouble was feared. The men were quiet but sullen and de-

THE PRESIDENT'S MAR-RIAGE.

He Practically Admits that He is to Marry Miss Polsom. Burralo, May 4.—The Morning Times has received the following

Washington special:
Reports of President Cleveland's
marriage have thus far not been confirmediby anyone in the White House, ed me fairly, and I believe that the mere mention of a desire on my part to have nothing said about Miss Folsch would only incite the reporters to outdo their previous efforts." Then you are going to be mar-

In the course of further conversavition the President refused to deny the reports of his marriage, and practically admitted that the reports were true. He said in effect that an arrangement had been made by which nothing would be said about the engagement until a time which had been decided upon by the parties directly interested. The impression given was that the President would like to confirm the report, but that through feelings of delicacy he did not feel that he was at liberty to talk about it.

ale men who are in Washing ton are unanimous in saying that the President's wedding will take place in June, and most of them believe that the wedding will take place in Buffalo. It is conceded that Miss Folsom wants to be married in the White House, but Mr. Cleveland's wishes will be consulted, and he is known to be averse to display of any kind on such an occasion. He regards a marriage as a matter which TARIFF TERGIVERSATIONS.

gards a marriage as a matter which concerns only the contracting parties and something that the public generally should not bother about. In talking about the marriage of friends he always depreciates the displays and has frequently said that if he got married, which then was considered an impossibility he would prefer to an impossibility, he would prefer to have the ceremony performed very

WHISKY VS. NO WHISKY. An Appeal for Liberty--An Old

Anti Speaks. TO THE PUBLIC-THE CITIZENS OF CHARLOTTE:—The county commis-sioners have ordered an election on sioners have ordered an election on the 1st day of June, proxime, for the purpose of ascertaining the voice of the people whether the barrooms shall be closed and abolished, or, in other words, shall there be licensed houses to sell spirituous liquors in Charlotte or not. This is the great and absorbing question for the voters of the city to decide on the 1st day of June next.

of June next. Now, to the voters of the city, I wish to present a few facts that may be of great service to them in making up their minds on this momentous question—I say momentous because when we undertake to take away the liberty of any citizen who away the liberty of any citizen who is law abiding in every respect, we transcend the limits set by the constitution of the United States and the State of North Carolina. Spirituous liquors have long been in use as an article of commerce; it has been handed down to us by our forefathers from days of old, and is recognized by the United States and State laws as useful to man if properly used.

based on the justice of their cause, the power of the organization and the sympathy of the public, whose sympathy, when the facts are $11,000, levied by the aldermen of the sympathy. city as license tax for the privilege of selling in the city, which amount is directed by law to go for the support of the graded schools now carried on in this place. The amount paid by they are none the less determined to the liquor dealers is about one-third quor houses what will be the conse quence? Your votes abolish the graded school, both white and colored. Then, in justice, you are compelled to pay back to the licensed dealers the pay back to the licensed dealers the amount of their unexpected city taxes. Suppose they had taken out their license on the first day of January, 1886, and they are closed up on the last day of June of the same year, then one half of the term for which the licenses are to run has expired. It looks reasonable and would be an act of justice that the city pay back to them $5,500, the amount of the unexpired time for which the licenses were to run. This, together with the $11,000 which the city loses every year (and it will be a loss unless it is levied as additional tax on the real and personal estate of the tax payer), will make a large deficiency in the will make a large deficiency in the financial department of the city. Do you think the board of aldermen could stand this drain upon the income of the city and keep the graded school existing? The answer is palpable to every sensible mind. "No." Then the graded school, both white and colored grass by the board and colored, goes by the board. Teachers and children are sent adrift to satisfy the whims of a few poor weak women and a set of fanatical men. Moreover, by all this active movement on the part of the local optionists they will effect nothing—but this: If successful they will transfer the sale of liquor from the transfer the sale of liquor from the licensed barrooms to the druggist who will pay no license, but will sell it under prescription as a medicine. You all know the modus operandi of their operations. You cannot prevent men from buying by the keg or barrel even, for their own use; any and every subterfuge that man can invent will be resorted to, so the illicit traffic will continue. And times will be worse than ever and will be more detrimental to the younger por more detrimental to the younger por tion of the community than at the present time. The most of the liquor houses are located in the heart of the city where your police have them in view all the time and can readily atop any disturbance.

To the local optionists, I wish to propound this question: Who are Is it the man that temperately is it the man that temperately takes two or three drinks a day and never gets drunk, but is always ready to attend to his business?

Is it the man that gets on a "tare"—say once in two or three years and is a total abstainer for the time mentioned

You will certainly answer no. We do not think either of the aforesaid cases should be called drunkards. Then how many men do you think can be found in the city of Charlotte firmediby snyone in the White House, but the Times correspondent was able to obtain today a practical admission from the President that the reports were true. Mr. Cleveland said, "I do not concede the right of newspapers to inquire into my private affairs, and before this I would have requested them to cease printing all this gos sip had it not been for the fact that such a request would have been considered merely in the negative. The newspapers as a rule have not treated me fairly, and I believe that the can be found in the city of Charlotte with a population of over 10,000, that are confirmed drunkards. A confirmed drunkard, in our estimation is one who is drunk every day; the one who neglects his business, who squanders his substance in strong drink, and leaves his wife and children to starve in the midst of plenty, on account of his gluttonous habits. This man is a confirmed drunkard, and is an eating sore upon society. created in the image and likene God) he deserves our sympathy and love, for we see that the demon that is hid in the bottom of the intoxicating cup, has got him firmly grasped, and there he will remain unless some friendly hand goes to his assistance and liberates him from the serpent's coil and makes a sober man of him. Now, of this class, I do not think you will find ten in Charlotte. Friends, let us act together for the common good and be united as brothers in our common course, and vote, not to disturb the relations now existing between man and man, but existing between man and man, but let our votes be recorded on the side of constitutional liberty, then when in days to come, we can look back and see that wisdom and not prejudice, governed our decisions in the noble part we took in this excitementment, which has been sprung upon our common country. Satis verborum.

Yours truly, Arm.

vigorous speech in reply to an illnatured charge by a New York mem ber (I think Mr. Hewitt) that South ern members voted on the river and in it, but because they wished to get even with the North for the heavy pension bills that they were obliged to vote year after year. Mr. Skinner said he had waited, hoping some other Southern Representative would deny this allegation. As no one had seen fit to do so, he would make both a special denial in his own case and a general denial as to other Southern members. He had not himself cast a single vote that was not in accordance with his judgment, and he had voted for two river and harbor bills, and expected soon to vote for another. He had also voted cheerfully for pensions for Northern soldiers, Mr. Skinner's little speech successfully repelled the unfounded charge, It was received with applause on both sides of the chamber. Mr. Skinner is gaining ground here as a debater. He has several times recently taken part in the discussions, and always with credit. He has a strong, clear voice, and a fearless manner. the New Tariff Bill-Skinner's Speech-Personal. The reader must not credit the correspondent with all the tergiversations which appear in what is written from this point on the questions of the tariff, I learn on excellent authority, that the Speaker said last night that the recent story of the conference and the proposition alleged to have been agreed upon that wool should be withdrawn from the proposed free list was not only not cipal one in the bill, and would not be abandoned without destroying the bill as an effective measure of reform. Mr. Carlisle says that the reformers are united in their opinion.

I will say two things: that this statement is in strict conformity with the one sent yesterday referring to Mr. Morrison, and that the statement about the conference was from a high quarter-a Republican member of the ways and means committee-and further that only one or two persons intervened betw en the members referred to and THE OBSERVER correspondent.
