THE TALK IN CONGRESS YESTERDAY.

Oleomargarine Referred to the Invading Army.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—SENATE.—Miller moved the reference of the oleomargarine bill to the committee on agriculture.

Morrill said if the motion should not prevail, he would move to refer it to the committee on finance. If it was to be considered as a revenue bill, the finance committee was the proper one to consider it.

Then there arose a long struggle over the question of reference, the argument being about equal in number and earnestness of speakers in both committees.

During the debate, it was charged by Miller and Van Wyck that imitation butter interests were seeking to send the bill to the committee on finance in order that nothing might be done to it.

That nothing might be done to it. A vote was finally reached, giving 22 for Miller's motion, and 21 against.

The measure was referred to the committee on agriculture. The vote in detail is as follows:

Yea—Aldrich, Beck, Berry, Brown, Butler, Call, Coke, Edmunds, Eustis, Harris, Haley, Jones of Arkansas, Maxey, Morrill, Sawyer, Riddleberger, Teller, Wallball, and Wilson of Maryland; total 21.

The number of pairs were then announced. The consular and diplomatic appropriation bill was then passed.

This morning the Senate proceeded to the consideration of bills on the calendar.

On reaching Platt's resolution providing for open executive session, the words "objection" were heard, so the resolution went over.

Some debate arose on the bill reported by Brown, from the committee on railroads to provide for the settlement of accounts with the road companies.

The bill was reserved for the committee on the United States during 1885-86.

Hawley called attention to the report accompanying the bill. If referred, he said, to the committee on the "invading army," it would be a member of the railroad committee and knew that the committee had ordered the bill to be reported, leaving to Brown the matter of writing the report.

But he did not intend to leave any matter, the majority of whose members were Republicans, would have consented to the submission to the Senate of a report in which the defenders of the Union were styled "an invading army."

Hawley regarded the language of the report as gross discoloring to the committee. The Senator from Georgia had had an opportunity to apologize for it and had not done so.

He was disclaimed by the words used. He didn't know that he had read the report to the committee, but he knew that he had stated to the committee the basis of the report.

As to the language referred to he did not understand what the committee was meaning by it. Probably it was an inadvertent use of it under the circumstances. It had been common in the South during the war to say that "the invading army" had reached a certain point, and the language was used in that sense, and not with any other meaning. It was at all offensive, Brown was quite willing to withdraw that part of it, and to say instead when the Union army had recovered possession of the States.

As "license" to sell whisky to minors. As "license" to sell whisky to men who abuse it.

As "license" to violate the restrictions imposed upon the sale of whisky on Sundays.

As "license" to disregard public property in the keeping of any other than decent and respectable houses.

This community is a temperance community. Our people will not tamely brook violations of the proprieties of society.

And whenever any man does it he will be made to feel the strong force of public opinion, even to the end of the law.

We cannot say more. They will not say less.

Political Excitement in England. LONDON, June 7.—Political excitement throughout England, and particularly in London, is very great.

The politicians of all parties are preparing for a general election with much more vigor than has heretofore been witnessed.

A large number of Tory aspirants for seats in the House of Commons are retiring in favor of the Liberal Unionist candidates in districts where the joint votes of the conservative vote with that of anti-Gladstone. The Whigs will probably secure the election of a Unionist.

At 5:30 p. m.—At this hour the conservatives are jubilant. They say they expect to defeat the home rule bill by a majority of at least 15.

The Parliaments are dubious about the outcome of tonight's division. They all declare they would rather be defeated now than have Gladstone make any more concessions.

The opposition loudly cheered John Bright and Lord Hartington, as they entered and took their places. The Parliaments were all in good voice and gave Gladstone a most enthusiastic welcome.

Every inch of space on the main floor, as well as in the galleries, is occupied.

At the division on the second reading of the home rule bill the Government was beaten by a majority of thirty.

The vote on the home rule bill was 211 for the measure, and 341 against it.

Gladstone then moved an adjournment until Thursday and the motion was adopted.

The New York Strikes. NEW YORK, June 7.—There had been no action taken by District Assembly No. 78, in regard to the Third Avenue strike as yet.

No meeting of the executive board was held yesterday. The District Assembly will meet tonight to take action on the strike, and to depose the leaders, who they have deposed them.

The place of the meeting will be secret. The strikers are exasperated, and threaten violence to the members of the board.
