W. F. CUTHBERTSON SLAIN ON THE STREET

Tragedy in Charlotte-Terminthat Led up to the Final Deed.

shot dead on the street by his son-inlaw, Mr. H. Cyrus Long, a young man who has for sometime past held a position as salesman at Hargraves & Alexander's dry goods store. The tragedy was enacted on Trade street, in front of W. B. Taylor's confectionery store, midway between Independence square and the court house. It was about half past three o'clock in the afternoon when people in that vicinity were startled by the report of a pistol, and those who looked quickly saw Mr. Long and Mr. Cuthbertson standing on the pavement in front of Mr. Taylor's store

FACING EACH OTHER. Mr. Cuthbertson stood erect for the pavement and sank down by an awning post. Mr. Long was taken in the scene, and surrounded the body of Mr. Cuthbertson. As those nearest the scene reached Mr. Cuthbertson, he gave a gasp and expired without having been able to articulate a word. Among the pedestrians who were in the vicinity at the time, was coroner took possession of the body and had it removed to the court house, where it was locked up, pending the organifront of whose store the shooting occurred. Mr. Taylor left his store a few minutes before the affair occurred and walked to Dr. McAden's drug store to make a purchase, when he returned to his place of business, and found Mr. Long standing in the doorway. What transpired afterwards is given in Mr. Taylor's own language.

to be uneasy. Mr. Long had repeatedly talked to him about the threats that Mr. Cuthbertson had been making, and appeared to apprehend trouble, stating that the court would likely turn Cuthbertson loose. "He ought to be imprisoned, or kept under guard; something ought to be done with him, as he is a dangerous man," were expressions repeatedly used by Mr. Long in his conversations with Mr. Query. "The impression made upon my mind by Mr. Long's conversations with me," said Mr. Query, were that he (Long) was in great fear that Cuthbertson would do something desperate, and he seemed to have no doubt but that Cuthbertson would carry out all his threats to the

as removed to the court house Coroner Smith searched the pockets of the deceased, and found $4.05 in cash and a number of papers and letters. Among the documents was a sealed package endorsed, 'The will of W. F. Cuthbertson." These articles were delivered into the custody of Capt. John R. Erwin, while the coroner set about making arrangements to hold the inquest. A jury consisting of H. C. Severs, C. C. Hayes, R. J. Porter, J. C. Boyte and G. M. Cobb, was empanelled, and, together with the coroner and county physician, proceeded to the late home of the deceased, to which place the body was removed for a postmortem examination. Of the Causes that Led to the Couple.

This tragedy is one of the saddest that has ever occurred in this comreader to more fully comprehend the causes that led to the final shedding of blood, a brief resume of family affairs is a necessity. About two years ago, Mr. Long was married to Gen. John A. Young, the postmas- Mr. Cuthbertson's daughter, but so ter, was one of the eye witnesses to bitterly did the father of the girl opthe shooting. Gen. Young was on pose the union, that the young his way to the court house, and was couple had to run away to get marwalking directly behind Mr. Cuth- ried. Mr. Long was regarded by all bertson. now in a very low condition. On Sunday last Mr. Long's mother-inlaw, Mrs. Cuthbertson, paid a visit to the little sufferer, and on her return to her home, Mr. Cuthbertson secured a buggy whip and gave her a terrible beating, she being finally rescued from his power by the neighbors. The case went to court, and on Tuesday afternoon, was submitted, Judge Meares reserving his decision.

THE CLIMAX REACHED During the three days of this week. Mr. Cuthbertson sent numerous threats to Mr. Long, one being his intention to kill Long on sight. In addition to this, Mr. Cuthbertson wrote Mr. Long a note, threatening to kill or whip his (Long's) wife if she ever ventured near him. Yesterday morning several threats reached Mr. Long's ears, and when he found himself in the presence of Mr. Cuthbertson, at Taylor's store, he acted as he had reason to believe, in defence of his own life.

THE SENTIMENT OF THE COMMUNITY Is strongly in sympathy with Mr. Long, who is known by all of our people as a steady, upright, moral young man. Mr. Cuthbertson, was a native of Union county, but has been identified with the business in terests of Charlotte for the past 12 or 14 years. Mr. Long is also a native of the same county. Mr. Cuthbertson was endowed with an unfortunately turbulent disposition and was feared by all who had incurred his enmity. The affair is truly a sad one in all its aspects, and the survivors are to be sincerely sympathized with. List of Letters

To the Editor of THE OBSERVER.

Is it not time that the Democracy of the State should be casting about for suitable candidates for Supreme Court Judges? The present court is composed of gentlemen of learning ability and purity, but two of its members, Chief Justice Smith and Associate Justice Ashe, are too old to expect a renomination. They are elected for eight years. One is now about 77 years and the other 73, I understand, and it is hardly probable that they could retain vigorous health and active mental powers with eight years more of arduous and laborious work. The members of the United States Supreme Court are retired at the age of 70 years on half pay, and so should our members, though the Legislature has made no such provision. Personally, I know little of the legal talent of middle and eastern North Carolina, but either Armistead Burwell, of Charlotte, or R. F. Armfield, of Statesville, possesses the learning, ability and integrity necessary for a Supreme Court Judge. This article was suggested by an editorial on the subject in the last is sue of the Home and Democrat. Our Worst Enemies, Next to our vices, are our foliles. Among them is the imperilling of inture bodily comfort, and the average tenure of life to which persons of moderately good constitutions are presumably entitled, by imprudence in eating and drinking, and the reckiess use of drugs. It is one of the happy capabilities of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters that it can repair damage thus inflicted. When the blood is thin and watery, the bowels out of order, the complexion and tongue both giving evidence of biliousness, there is necessity for repairs upon the human teneuum to brious enough to startle its possessor. A course of the Bitters, the abindonment of "druging" for relief, and a common sense mode of life-these will spreedily produce a change for the better. What quinine for fever and ague, and mercury for biliousness and constipation, won the other water will. It also relieves rheumatism and neuralgis, and inactivity of the kidneys.

Mr. Long was placed in the custody of an officer, and under guard proceeded to his residence to inform his wife of the occurrence, after which he returned and was closeted with his lawyers. The affair was the work of but a moment. Mr. Long was standing in Mr. Taylor's store when Mr. Cuthbertson came by. I turned and saw Mr. Long step from the doorway-to the pavement, his right arm extended and a pistol grasped in his right hand. Almost as soon as Mr. Long had uttered the words, he drew the trigger. As the shot was fired, Mr. Cuthbertson gaid, 'I didn't do any such thing.' then threw his hand to his heart, staggered back and fell to the payement. As Mr. Long fired the shot, I grasped his hand and jerked the pistol from him. I frared that Mr Cuthbertson would shoot back but a glance at his palid features showed that it was all over with him. As he sank down, Mr. Long exclaimed, I do not think Mr. Cuthbertson lived more than two minutes after he was shot. The pistol used was a 38 cali-
