

WASHINGTON POINTS.

POPULARITY OF THE CLEVELAND ADMINISTRATION.

The Humorous Side of Congress--The Members Afraid that a Better Class of Men Will Succeed Them if Civil Service Reform Succeeds.

Correspondence of THE OBSERVER.

Col Green has not been favorable to the civil service law or the general policy of the administration in the matter of appointments and removals. What he says, therefore, in favor of the President must be understood as having more value than if he had been always one of his thick-and-thin admirers.

A well informed correspondent makes a first rate point in discussing civil service reform. He says that the average member of Congress does not care to have the reform succeed because it would so far improve the calibre of the persons in the government service as to make it indispensable to send a class of better men to Congress.

During the debate to-day on the legislative bill the humorous Allen, of Mississippi, said if the silver question was to be discussed he would go home and get his speech. Mr. Randall replied that he hoped the gentleman wouldn't do that, as the vote a moment before had developed the fact that too many Democrats were already at home.

Petitions for settlement of war claims have been presented by Representatives Cowles and Green. The latter brought in a pretty heavy batch.

The two Democratic leaders in the House, Mr. Morrison, chairman of the committee on ways and means, and Mr. Randall, chairman of the appropriations committee, pronounce the word "deficit" with an accent on the second syllable.

The Richmond and Danville at Washington.

The following is taken from a long article published in the Critic concerning new railroad enterprises that Washingtonians are interested in:

"The Richmond and Danville railroad has purchased sixty acres of land in Virginia, at the end of the Long Bridge, and will erect extensive yards and deposits there, thus enabling them to make up their trains on that side of the river and push them right over into the city. The privilege of a water front has been secured along the shore at the east end of the Long Bridge, and docks will be built to accommodate freight traffic. This company has surveyed and staked out a new line from Alexandria to Washington, and it is expected the rails will soon be put down. It is stated that if the government builds a free bridge at the Three Sisters the Aqueduct Bridge piers will be secured for the Richmond and Danville, affording them entrance to Georgetown and connection with the Baltimore and Ohio north of the city. Railroad men attach considerable significance to these improvements when coupled with the rumor of the new trunk line to the Southwest."

Prominent Citizen Dead.

Richmond Dispatch. Major Louis J. Bossieux, one of the best known citizens of Richmond in military and business circles, died quite suddenly at his residence on Twentieth street near Broad, at about 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

DEAD IN BED.

It was his habit to take his breakfast in his room. He was astir and his footsteps were heard about eight o'clock yesterday morning, but the servant who went up to take him his breakfast found the door locked. Later, no movement being heard in the room, the servant was sent there again, and, having managed to look into the room, reported that he believed Mr. Bossieux was dead. At bed time he was then forced open, and Mr. Bossieux was found lifeless in his bed. He had evidently gotten up and gone about his toilet, and feeling badly stretched himself on the bed again and there, apparently without a struggle, his spirit fled. Physicians were summoned, but their efforts were in vain. He was dead, and no doubt from heart disease.

STATE NEWS.

Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage is to spend a portion of the summer season at the Battery Park Hotel Asheville.

Lumberton Robesonian: From what we had to say on this subject last week most people would think that Lumberton was now dry, but this is not the case. The State and county licenses will not expire until July 1st, and the town granted a license for that time much to the surprise of our people.

Asheville Citizen: Representatives of all the southern railroads, will meet in convention in this city on the 23d inst. A large number of gentlemen will be in attendance from the various lines. The meeting will be an important one involving as it does the interest and comforts of southern traveling public. The association have secured rooms at the Swannanoa, and the Messrs. Rawls will give them a most pleasant time during their several days' stay in our city.

Asheville Advances: The celebrated contested will suit of Ray vs. Ray from Yancy county has been set for Tuesday of next week. This suit involves a large amount of property, and the question involved is the capacity of old man William Ray to make a will at the time. Those of the heirs opposing the will are represented by Messrs. M. E. Carter, Joseph S. Adams, Colonel Bowman and others; those in favor of the will are represented by J. Gudger, Sr., Colonel McElroy and Major W. H. Malone.

News and Observer: In a window of Watson's at corner 112 Fayetteville street, is a portrait of Governor William Hawkins, who in 1811 was the chief executive of North Carolina. It is a reproduction of an old portrait, the work being done by Mr. Eugene L. Hart, and will adorn the governor's office. It is given by the Hawkins family, in compliance with the request made some time ago by Governor Seales for such portraits of North Carolina's governors. Other pictures are in course of completion, and by the time the legislature meets it can be what necessary there is for a fund to pay for such portraits, instead of depending for them upon the courtesy and patriotism of private parties. The State bids fair at last to have a picture gallery.

Goldsboro Messenger: Green corn now sell at ten cents per dozen in this market. On Thursday last a passenger train made the trip from Winterton to Goldsboro in about four minutes in one hour and fifty-seven minutes. It seems to be generally conceded throughout this judicial district that both Judge Walter A. Clark and Solicitor Swift will be re-nominated. Dr. Chas. Duffy, formerly of Newbern, but for the past two years a resident of New York, died at Asheville last Sunday, of consumption. He was thirty-three years of age.

Mr. Will Manly, a son of the late Hon. M. E. Manly, of Newbern, who for several years has been in business in Baltimore, was married to Miss Kenny, of the same place, last week. The board of magistrates of Sampson county, re-elected the present excellent board of county commissioners, also Mr. Isham Ross, as county superintendent of education. The tax rate was fixed at $9.16 cents on the one hundred dollar valuation. We learn from Captain Swit Galloway, our popular solicitor, that the request for a local option law should be enforced in Raleigh came from the leaders of the local option movement, and was prompted by the fact that the license law had been granted, leading to the first of June. Every reasonable mind can but endorse the movement of the Raleigh local optionists, and Captain Galloway is right in complying with their request.

A Medical Case.

John Lannon, of Alexandria, Va., died recently at Garfield hospital, Washington, after a long illness. The St. John's Academy Journal says: "Mr. Lannon was born in Ireland and came to Alexandria with his mother with a small boy. He entered St. John's on the 12th of January, 1857. He was a very bright boy and a hard student, and his standing in school was high, but his mother being very poor, he was taken away early to work for a living. Mr. Joseph Broders, a merchant of Alexandria, becoming acquainted with him and liking his appearance and manners, took him into his store and gave him a position under his occupation by the Federal troops in 1861, he left his store in his charge. Young Lannon was then but sixteen, and Mr. Broders estimated the worth of him as an honest return for such goods as he might sell; but he was not only honest, but enterprising, and finding that a larger business could be done than before, he re-opened the store, and when Mr. B. returned in two or three years, he handed over to him not only more goods than he had left, but $5,000 in money which he had made. Mr. Broders made him a present of half of it and took him into partnership, and such was his business talent that in twenty-two or three years which followed he had accumulated a property of about $75,000 to $100,000 in value. He built the opera house and other houses, together with the largest wharf in Alexandria, and was an enterprising active business man all his life, and was very successful. His honesty and industry as well as his uniform observance of his religious duties, point him out as a deserving example for boys."

Another Dynamite Bomb.

CHICAGO, June 16.—A special from Racine, Wis., says: "At 10:30 o'clock last night a dynamite bomb was hurled into the carriage way of Mayor M. M. Secor's house. The bomb exploded with a report that startled the whole city. Mr. Secor drove over the fuse that exploded the bomb about fifteen minutes previous to the explosion. A Bohemian named on his way to his 6:10 train on the Northwestern railroad. He will no doubt have a chance to explain why he did not call for help, when so severely hurt, instead of running away."

TENNESSEE.

A Republican Ticket in the Field.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 16.—The Republican State Judicial Convention held here yesterday, and nominated a full ticket of five judges for the Supreme Court. Ninety-five counties out of ninety-six in the State were represented by over seven hundred delegates. The basis of representation being one vote for each two hundred cast for Blaine. The candidates nominated are W. M. Baxter, Samuel Watson, J. A. Warden, W. W. Murray and W. M. Randolph.

Gov. Lee on his Mettle.

He Denounces a Bomb-Proof Belligerent, Who Didn't Fight Until After the War was Over.

St. Louis, June 16.—On Decoration day Rev. S. McChesney, pastor of the Methodist church at Topeka, Kansas delivered an address in which he used the following language: "I will not attempt to conceal or describe my emotions when I learned that on the 4th of March of last year, at the time of the inauguration ceremonies at Washington, an ex-Confederate general—Fitzhugh Lee—led that military procession in Confederate uniform, with the gallant Sheridan relegated to an inferior position in that line. The address attracted considerable attention at the time, and met Gen. Lee's eyes, for yesterday the Democratic State Committee received the following letter from him: COMMONWEALTH OF VIRGINIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE, RICHMOND, Va., June 10. The statements of Dr. McChesney are false when he says that an ex-Confederate general led the military procession under the war of the rebellion, as well as his statement that Lieutenant General Sheridan, in blue, was placed in an inferior position, and that the military was marshaled by a man in the color of ashes. After reading his absurd sentences comparing the color of ashes, etc., I read in another paper of the action of some Federal soldiers in the Waterworks, N. Y., who had received pensions under the war of the United States, but who, requiring them, had sent them to some Confederate soldiers in this State, because they thought their necessities greater. Which is being most for the promotion of the restored union of co-equal States, this narrow-minded, blood-thirsty preacher, who has probably never smelt gun-powder, or the ex-Union soldiers who stopped fighting when the war was over? I can only pity the man who remains belligerent so long, and express the hope that after death his ashes may be at peace. Very respectfully yours, FITZHUGH LEE.

HEAVY FAILURE IN ATLANTA.

Walter A. Taylor in Financial Trouble. ATLANTA, Ga., June 16.—The reported failure of Walter A. Taylor has not been published by the Atlanta papers, but the chance of conversation in commercial circles today. Not a great while ago the statement was made in the public press that Mr. Taylor had cleared fifty thousand dollars on his S. W. Gum and Mullen. Taylor's Premium Cologne and several proprietary medicines which he was manufacturing and handling, and the general impression was that he was doing a large business. The present embarrassment is a source of surprise in commercial circles. Mr. Taylor's liabilities are said to be largely over a hundred thousand dollars, while his assets are comparatively small. He has sold out to his brothers-in-law, Messrs. J. A. Porter and R. J. Lowry, both prominent bankers of the city. Mr. Taylor is reported to be able to tide him safely over his present embarrassment and place him up on his feet again.

Prohibition in Maine.

Richmond, that voted wet, beats Portland, in the prohibition State of Maine, in enforcing the Sunday law. This is what the New York Herald's correspondent says about Portland: "The first attempt made to strictly enforce the Sunday law was a complete failure. The Sunday papers were sold on the streets as usual, and the papers and the drug stores were open all day. The liquor saloons have been doing a rushing business, apparently. The great mistake that moral reformers make in their efforts for a better observance of the Sabbath is that they undertake a clean sweep. It must be shocking for the good people of Maine to think that saloons exist at all in a prohibition State. But there is no reason whatsoever why the saloons should be kept open on Sunday if the community is in favor of closing. But instead of putting the reform law into effect only so far as saloons are concerned, the sale of newspapers is prohibited on Sunday. This is a mistake that tempted the same thing. A few years ago the authorities of Louisville stopped the milk carts, the ice wagons and the sale of papers, along with the closing of the saloons. The result was that after the first Sunday the milk men and the ice men and the saloon-keepers were all doing business on Sunday. Too many church-goers take ice and milk and the papers on Sunday for a Sunday law prohibiting traffic in the articles named ever to be operative in a large city. Richmond strikes the happy mean, and all works well."
