WOMAN!
 HER BEST FRIEND!
DR. J. BRADFIELD'S
FEMALE REGULATOR
 This famous remedy most happily meets the demands of a woman's peculiar and multifarious condition. It is a remedy for WOMEN ONLY, and is a SPECIAL CLASS of medicine. It is a specific for certain disease conditions of the woman, and cures by its action the Menstrual Function as to regulate all the derangements and irregularities of nature.
MONTHLY SICKNESS.
 Its proprietors claim for it no other medicinal property and to doubt the fact that this medicine does positively possess such comforting and regulating powers is simply to disregard the thousands of women who are daily benefited in the restoration to social health and happiness.
BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR
 Is strictly a vegetable compound, and is the product of medical science and practical experience directed towards the benefit of SUFFERING WOMAN!
 It is the stipulated prescription of a learned physician whose study was WOMAN, and whose fame for her life and humanity has been established by her wonderful success in the treatment and cure of female complaints. THE FEMALE REGULATOR is the grandest, most reliable, and richly deserves its name.
WOMAN'S BEST FRIEND!
 Because it controls a series of functions the various derangements of which cause more ill health than all other causes combined, and thus restores her from a long train of all afflictions which are caused by her life and humanity has been established by her wonderful success in the treatment and cure of female complaints. THE FEMALE REGULATOR is the grandest, most reliable, and richly deserves its name.
PRECIOUS BOON OF HEALTH!
 It will restore you to health all the complaints peculiar to your sex. Buy upon it as your safeguard for health, happiness and long life.
 Sold by all druggists. Send for our treatise on the Health and Happiness of Woman, mailed free, which gives all particulars.

Speech of Mr. William Daniel on the Responsibility for the Liquor Traffic.
 BATHURST, SUNDAY.
 At Mount Pisgah Tabernacle, Mr. William Daniel spoke Tuesday afternoon on "The responsibility for the liquor traffic, and how to get rid of it." He said: "You may talk about the improvement of the race through evolution, but the progress of the race has been aptly called 'devolution,' because the effects of the liquor traffic, which is not responsible because she sells according to law. The drinker disclaims responsibility because the State legalizes the traffic, and the State is supposed to be founded on right. The legislator says he was not elected to make special laws against any business. The minister says a warfare from the pulpit would be entering politics. The individual shrinks the responsibility upon the grounds that temperance is a moral question to be reached by education. The press, especially the political press, claims it as a means to sustain the parties that gives them bread and let the liquor question alone. The capitalist has too much business. The railroad and legislators only to grant them franchises. The laborer has capital to fight, and does not care to wage war against liquor. Who then is responsible? We his traffic is with. The drinker cannot blame the State. The legislator is responsible because the voters may lack courage to oppose the old parties. What shall I say of the set from Baltimore who refused us the right of petition? The press has no right to make estimates for supplying a full plant of mining machinery. Greensboro Patriot: The branch of the C. & N. Y. Railroad to run into the cotton manufacturing section of Randolph county has been surveyed by Major Atkinson and his corps. The road will leave the main line about the eighty five mile post, about the present location of Pleasant Garden and Julian. It will be a little over nine miles long, very straight and very little grading will have to be done. The road will run to a point about a mile and a half from the present terminus, and will be the most convenient point to all the factories.

Wadesboro Intelligencer: There is, at the present time, much sickness in Wadesboro, and four cases of typhoid fever are reported—Mr. E. A. Moore, Mrs. J. A. Morton, and one of her little girls, and Master Edgar Ross. A gentleman, who claims that his wife is the proprietor of the Wadesboro Hotel, has been arrested for the following recipe for killing flies: One tablespoonful of sour buttermilk, the yolk of one egg, one teaspoonful of pulverized black pepper, and a teaspoonful of sugar, the whole thoroughly mixed. This mixture, placed about the room in vessels, it is claimed, will destroy all the flies in less than an hour.

Statesville Lighthouse: A high official of the Richmond & Danville system has said the railroad between Statesville and Taylorsville will certainly be equipped at an early day. It is intended to take up, during the summer, about twenty miles of the rails on the Western North Carolina Railroad and to replace them with new ones, and the rails thus taken up will be laid on the Taylorsville branch. Mr. Benjamin F. Long's only competitor thus far for the Democratic nomination for the solicitorship of this district, seems to be Mr. John W. Mauney, of Rowan. The convention, as previously noted, will meet at Lexington on the 4th of August.

Winston Republican: Mr. Geo. B. Everett, with his children, left for Dakota Territory Monday evening. Mr. Charles Wood accompanied him. A gentleman recently from Wilkes and Ashe counties gives our reporter a very encouraging report of crop prospects in that section, with everything else abundant that makes life pleasant, except the drought. The town commissioners generally issued malt liquor licenses at their meeting last Friday night, until July 1st, to those dealers whom the prohibition surprise caught with a supply of beer in hand. The town commissioners of our sister town have decided upon the purchase of a steam fire engine for their company. It will come from the manufactory of the Button Co., of Waterloo, N. Y., will be piston-valved, nickel-plated, and of the same capacity of the Winston La France, weighs 3,500 pounds, and will cost about $3,000.

Monroe Enquirer: Mr. M. L. Starnes, of Jackson township, met with a serious accident one day last week. He was clearing up some land for Mr. Billy Winchester, and climbed a tree for the purpose of getting down to him. Mr. E. A. Armfield, one of our best farmers and most practical business men, is engaged today in mowing his second crop of clover for the season. His first crop was cut about six weeks ago and made thirty-seven good two horse loads. The clover from three quarters of an acre was sold for $33.50, and this cutting is equally as good if not better than the first. At this rate the two cuttings would net $31.25 per acre—and there is no doubt he will be able to get another cutting and possibly two of them, if he will take it from the land.

Votes of Reckless Bills.
 Baltimore Sun.
 It is now admitted by everybody capable of forming a disinterested opinion on the subject that the pension business is overdue, and that one of President Cleveland's strongest titles to the confidence and support of the country is his disposition to check the reckless extravagance of Congress in this matter. President Cleveland holds that the country should be "not only just but generous" towards those who risked their lives at the command, but needless and disregard of the principles which underlie the granting of pensions is unfair to the crippled soldier, who is honored in the just recognition of his government. Nine vetoes of private pension bills were sent to the capital yesterday, and among the fifteen vetoes sent to Congress Monday were a number of private pension bills. In relation to the pension law, all of which were utterly lacking in merit. In relation to one of these President says: "I am thoroughly tired of disapproving bills of public money to individuals who have no view have no right or claim to the same, notwithstanding a kiss applied to the external auricular appendage. A kiss of such affectionate nature reminds one of Benedict's, which had "such a charming effect" that at the parting, all the church did echo. "Although we may not realize as he does, the widespread and epidemic character of the kissing habit in Washington, we can only trust it will prove a safe place for the international Congress."

STATE NEWS.
 Newbern Journal: Owen H. Guion, Esq., one of our promising young attorneys, left for Washington yesterday morning, accompanied by a number of ladies and gentlemen, where he will be in the company of Miss Patricia Rodman, daughter of William B. Rodman, ex-judge of the Supreme court of North Carolina. The bridal party will leave for an extended tour north.

Salisbury Watchman: Mr. J. A. Boyden, Mr. Breasted and Mr. J. F. Ross, are contemplating going into the fruit canning business here at an early day. Mr. T. N. Smith, a practical canner, will most likely take charge of the works, where these gentlemen conclude to go into the business on a large scale. Mr. John Wilkes, of the Mecklenburg Iron Works, was here on Monday. He was returning from one of the western mines where he has been making estimates for supplying a full plant of mining machinery.

President Cleveland holds that the country should be "not only just but generous" towards those who risked their lives at the command, but needless and disregard of the principles which underlie the granting of pensions is unfair to the crippled soldier, who is honored in the just recognition of his government. Nine vetoes of private pension bills were sent to the capital yesterday, and among the fifteen vetoes sent to Congress Monday were a number of private pension bills. In relation to the pension law, all of which were utterly lacking in merit. In relation to one of these President says: "I am thoroughly tired of disapproving bills of public money to individuals who have no view have no right or claim to the same, notwithstanding apparent congressional sanction." What he means by "apparent congressional sanction" he explains at some length. It is "a" he declares, "that a large proportion of these bills have never been submitted to a majority of either branch of Congress," but are the result of "nominal sessions held for the express purpose of their consideration, and attended by a small minority of the members." He might have added that in the Senate the only scrutiny such bills get, as a rule, is the inspection of a single Senator, who is often the person interested in their passage, and even he at times delegates the discharge of this duty to a sub-committee of one member and his clerk is commonly accepted without examination as correct by the full Senate committee on pensions, and the full Senate in its turn, or the majority of it, accepts the favorable report as the report of the whole committee, and passes the accompanying bill without question. The number of these bills rushed through at a single sitting is absolute proof that they do not express the deliberate judgment of Senators upon their respective merits. The President judges delicately to this circumstance. "When I have deemed it my duty," he says, "to disapprove many of the bills presented, I have hardly regarded my action as dissent from the conclusions of the people's representatives. Congress does not, in fact, acquiesce in such bills, but the private pension bill it passes, but imposes upon a conscientious President the labor of an investigation which it would have been better in the first instance to have left to the pension bureau, with the hundreds of employees paid to do this very work. The present Congress has laid itself specially open to rebuke in this matter. It has already submitted 393 private pension bills to the President for his approval, and he has received the favorable action of both houses, the total of 604 being nearly three times the number passed at any one session since 1861. Upon the 130 now before him, the President declares himself as unable, as was Congress, to bestow, in the time at command, the examination they deserve, with the result that many that should be rejected will probably be approved. For the vetoes of such bills the country will be duly thankful, as it undoubtedly is for his vetoes last Monday of other bills for the erection of useless public buildings in various parts of the country.

100,000 lbs. A POLICEMAN.
 Whenever I know of anything that might be of service to my fellow-men, I desire to impart such information; hence I give the following facts to the public:
 Mrs. M. M. Prince, living at 88 West Fair St. Atlanta, Ga., has been troubled for several months with an ugly form of catarrh, attended with a copious and offensive discharge from both nostrils.
 Her system became so affected and reduced that she was confined to bed at my home for some time, and received the attention of three physicians; and used a dozen bottles of an extensively advertised blood remedy, all without the least benefit.
 She finally commenced the use of B. B. with a decided improvement at once, and when ten bottles had been used, she was entirely cured of all symptoms of catarrh.
 It gave her an appetite, and increased her strength rapidly, and I cheerfully recommend it as a quick and cheap tonic and blood purifier.
