Chester S. C. Dec, 1. At this morn ing's session the special report on State missions contained a recommendation for the employment of an assistant to for the employment of an assistant to the State secretary. Several influential men fought the question pro and con. The Convention finally struck the provision from the report. The committee recommended the employment of a Sunday school secretary. This too, was fought, but finally prevailed. The body got into several parliamentary tangles, but President Smith controlled the body admirably. This proviously trolled the body admirably.
