

THE SENATE IS NOTIFIED.

NO DATE SET FOR SWAYNE TRIAL.

The House Committee, in Formal Style, Recommends That the Senate Take Order—The Hearing May Not Be Reached Until the Next Congress—Phillippine Government and Pure Food Bills Come In for a Share of Consideration.

Washington, Dec. 14.—The Senate, which under the constitution is made the trial court in impeachment cases, today received official notice of the determination of the House of Representatives to present impeachment charges against Charles Swayne, Federal Judge in the district of Florida.

When a few minutes before the hour of the Senate's meeting, the House committee appeared at the Washington president's room to confer with President Pro Tempore Frye, there was a general scurrying about on the part of officials to find precedents and to make preparation for the ceremony, the like of which had not been witnessed in the Senate chamber since the proceedings of 1876 against Secretary Belknap.

While the details were being arranged, Senator Frye was engaged in conference with the House committee, consisting of Messrs. Palmer, Jenkins, Gillett, Clayton and Smith, of Kentucky. Their chief action consisted in a mere notification to Mr. Frye of the committee's desire to bring the action of the House in the Swayne case to the attention of the Senate as early as an hour as possible to-day, and Mr. Frye's reply that the Senate would be prepared to receive the committee at any time that it might arrive.

A brief informal exchange of views as to the time when the Senate should take up the case ensued. The House members stated that it would be impossible for the committee to present its articles of impeachment previous to the holidays, and it was suggested that the trial might be postponed until after March 4th next, or even until the next session of Congress.

The House impeachment committee presented itself at the main door of the Senate, being announced by Clerk Browning, of the House, who was announced in the usual form by B. W. Layton, assistant sergeant-at-arms.

Mr. Browning read the impeachment resolution passed by the House. Mr. Layton then presented the committee, saying: "I am authorized by the House to inform you that the committee appointed in pursuance of the resolution just received."

The chair announced that he would receive the committee, whereupon the committee was taken in charge by Col. D. M. Randall, sergeant-at-arms of the Senate, and all members conducted down to the center of the hall point immediately in front of the president pro-tempore's seat.

COTTON GROWERS TO ORGANIZE.

National Cotton Convention Adopts Strong Resolutions Commanding the Work of the Government Thus Far and Urging a Campaign of Public Education—Plans Adopted for the Organization of the Planters—Mr. Shreveport, La., Dec. 14.—The minority report agreed to all recommendations of the majority except one plank which was finally voted down in the cotton convention today.

The resolutions passed were: "We extend our sincere thanks to the Department of Agriculture of the United States for the timely assistance it has rendered in an effort to overcome the cotton boll weevil."

"That we thank the Department of Entomology, headed by Dr. W. D. Hunter, which has accomplished excellent results in educating the people regarding the nature and habits of the boll weevil and other insect pests and the well conceived plans and work of experimentation along this line."

"That we heartily approve the methods already employed as being both scientific and practical, and that we emphasize the idea of thorough preparation of the cotton lands, a reduction of acreage, the rotation of crops and intensive cultivation with vigorous efforts to secure early maturing cotton in the weevil infested districts."

"That the cotton planters throughout the infested districts are hereby urged to co-operate with the general government in the plans for overcoming this devastating pest."

It is in this sense of this convention that the legislative program of the States be memorialized to enact stringent laws for the protection of all insectivorous birds, their eggs and young."

It was further resolved that a vigorous campaign of public education should be inaugurated through the farmers and pedagogical institutes of the several cotton States, the press and through the public schools.

CHARLES SWAYNE TRIAL.

THE SWAYNE CASE OPENS A WAY.

Chief Specification Against Judge Swayne—The Committee Was Informed That the Federal Judge Said to Have Returned Similar Verdicts—Prominent Man Protests Against the Trial—The Senate Will Hear the Evidence—The Senate Will Hear the Evidence.

Washington, Dec. 14.—It is suggested to-day that night sessions would be held by the Senate to try Judge Swayne, if the testimony is taken at all this session. Senator Simmons said to-day he had understood there was some doubt whether the Senate could hold sessions without adjourning at 4 o'clock. On the other hand, however, the opening of the case in the House is not a continuing body. Representative Powers, who will serve on the committee that must draw up articles of impeachment, will go out on Monday 4th. On the other hand, however, the opening of the case in the House is not a continuing body.

Following the evidence in the Swayne case regarding the exorbitant charges made by him in connection with his hotel and hotel expenses, the fact has been disclosed that about 90 Federal Judges, or nearly half the number on the bench, have been for some time past turning into the government accounts of $10 a day for their expenses. This is regarded as the most damaging evidence against Judge Swayne, and is the sole specification in the charges preferred against him upon which members of the Judiciary committee have been unanimous. The discovery that many other judges have similarly drawn uniform expenses of $10 a day when away from their regular posts is likely to cause further probing into the question of allowances of Federal Judges.

GOVERNMENT AGENTS VARDAMAN. Governor Vardaman, of Mississippi, has been invited to attend the inaugural ceremony. The invitation was sent out by General Harries, as chairman of the committee on military, the governors being treated as commanders of their respective soldiers. In the meantime, protests are being received, and a number either inviting the Governor of Mississippi, or allowing him to participate in the inaugural ceremonies. Following is the communication received at headquarters of the civic organization committee to-day:

"I desire, as a Democrat, to ask you to ignore Governor Vardaman, as I am not at all in sympathy with his attitude toward the President. This is signed by a prominent gentleman whose name it was requested be not published. But there are others, which probably will be turned over to the committee on military."

CONGRESSMAN GETS BILL THROUGH. Congressman Thomas, of Mississippi, succeeded in inducing the House to pass his bill appropriating $175,000 for the construction of a revenue cutter and the bill is now with the Senate. This was regarded as a noteworthy achievement in these days of retrenchment. Mr. Thomas enlisted the kind offices of Representative Hepburn, chairman of the inter-state and foreign commerce committee, who moved the passage of the bill. Representative Richardson, of Alabama, also gave valuable assistance. Senators Simmons and Overman, who were present, believed the Senate would pass the bill. The proposed cutter will be of the first class, adopted to service in the waters of Alabama and Florida, and in the Gulf of Mexico. Mr. Thomas spoke briefly in introducing the passage of the bill. He called the attention of the House to the fact that the Secretary of the Treasury favored the bill, and that the committee had reported unanimously in its favor during the hearing on the Senate. Senator Overman occupied the chair of the presiding officer for some time to-day. The North Carolina Senator, who was called to the head of the table by the President, had a number of important questions to discuss in committee room was as usual crowded during the hearing.

GOVERNOR-ELECT GLENN. Mrs. Glenn and their daughter are here for a short stay.

RECTOR DEAD; MOXLEY DYING. Wounds Received by Allegheny County Duellists Will Result Fatally for Both. Special to The Observer. Elkton, Dec. 14.—Aquilla Rector, who Monday engaged in a pistol duel with T. M. Moxley, near Sparta, Allegheny county, died to-day of his wounds. Moxley is in a critical condition, and cannot live through the night. The men fell out Monday afternoon over a cattle trade. Rector, boasting that he had gotten the best of Moxley in the deal, Moxley fired up on corn liquor, secured a gun and hunted Rector up. When they met, both began firing, with the result that each received mortal wounds.

MRS. CHADWICK REACHES HOME.

MRS. CHADWICK REACHES HOME.

Mrs. Chadwick Arrives at Cleveland at the Exact Minute When Five More Indictments Are Found Against Her—Taken to Cuyahoga County Jail and Placed in the Way to Her Cell—Sarcasm and Bitter Expressions Are Hurled at Her—Crows and Jeers Follow Her All Along the Line of Her Progress.

Cleveland, Dec. 14.—Five times indicted by the United States government at the exact minute that her train rolled into the station, Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick came home to Cleveland this afternoon. She was greeted with jeers, hoots and hisses by the crowds that gathered in the depot when her train arrived, howled at by hundreds gathered in front of the Federal building. The last sound that reached from the outside world as she passed into the stuffy, ill-smelling office of Sheriff Barry in the county jail was the sound of derision from the people massed in front of the court house. She did not attempt to give ball and after a brief stop in the office of the clerk of the United States Court, was taken to jail. She is held to-night in cell 14 in her palatial residence on Euclid avenue of which the furnishings alone are valued at $200,000, is occupied by her maid. Her courage held to the last, but her body failed her and then she laid her head on the three flights of stairs leading to the cell, where she lies in a dead faint.

But for the aid of Deputy United States Marshals Kumb and Keiker, who led her up and almost carried her along as she unsteadily descended the stairs, she would never have been able to reach her cell. Breathless, pale and staggering, she was barely able to reach a chair as the steel door of the woman's cell swung open to receive her. She sank feebly upon the chair, her head fell backward, and but for the marshals she would have rolled to the floor. Water was quickly brought to her and in a few seconds she revived. Nothing was again a woman of business. Her first request was that her lawyer, Sheldon G. Kerrush be sent for, and she was soon engaged in a conference with him concerning her defense. There is small chance that she will be able to leave the jail before her trial. There are now seven indictments against her, five additional charges having been laid against her in the Federal court this afternoon. It would require surety to the amount of at least $100,000 to give Mrs. Chadwick freedom, and there is nobody in Cleveland who is willing to furnish it for her. She has herself no idea of amounting bail and will remain in jail. She has the best cell in the place, but it is not a nice cell, nor is the county jail of Cuyahoga county a nice jail even if she must remain there.

Mrs. Chadwick's train was scheduled to arrive at 11:10 in the morning, but it was three hours later before it reached Cleveland. The delay of the train served but one purpose, and that was increasing the crowd of curious at the depot. When it finally rolled into the station there was a rush from the further end of the iron fence that kept the crowd of curious from the tracks. This mob, which had been gathering for hours, swarmed over the fence and through the gate and upon the tracks, so that when the train came to a standstill there were about a thousand persons about the cars. As the train drew out the crowd of curious, Mrs. Chadwick said: "The next stop will be home."

During the run into Cleveland she conversed with her son and an Associated Press correspondent. She was remarkably calm and in discussing her affairs said she had been informed that she would soon learn that she had been more shamed against than shining. Emil Hoover, who joined the party at Ash-tabula, was the bearer of a letter to her mother from her step daughter, Miss Mary Chadwick, the letter, which was couched in the most endearing language, was written on the paper of the Hotel Continental, Paris and was dated November 30. It commenced, "My dear daughter, I was signed, Your loving daughter, Miss Chadwick."

The letter said that the first intimation Miss Chadwick and her father had of the troubles of Mrs. Chadwick was learned from a New York dispatch in The London Daily Chronicle of November 20. It was signed, "Your loving daughter, Miss Chadwick." The letter said that the first intimation Miss Chadwick and her father had of the troubles of Mrs. Chadwick was learned from a New York dispatch in The London Daily Chronicle of November 20. It was signed, "Your loving daughter, Miss Chadwick."

THE LATEST NEWS. The grand jury returned five indictments against Mrs. Chadwick, three of which charge her with aiding and abetting officers of a national bank to defraud the institution, and two against her for conspiracy to defraud the United States. Four indictments were returned against President Beckwith, of the Oberlin bank, two charging him with misapplication of the funds of a national bank; one with conspiracy to defraud the United States, and one with certifying checks when no funds were on hand. Indictments were returned also against Cashier Spear. They are the same as those against President Beckwith.
