

TILT AT REVIEW PROVISION

WHITE HOUSE ORIGIN RESENDED

Kansas Senator Introduces Rate Bill Amendment Agreed on at White House and Pares Badly at Hands of Messrs. Bailey and Bacon, Who Fire Embarrassing Questions—Want to Know What Right President Has to Propose Amendments, and Even if So Why Did He Ignore Democratic Allies.

Washington, April 3.—When the Senate convened today Mr. Tillman presented his daily letter on the railroad and coal situation, the letter in this case being a complaint from C. W. Edeas, of Ballston Spa, N. Y., a coal dealer, who takes the letter in a crowded place of business by the Delaware and Hudson Railroad Company, which had set up a retail business of its own.

Mr. Tillman represented the letter as a flashlight on a new position of coal situation. "This road is one of five engaged in the coal business," he said. "Not satisfied with monopolizing the production and transportation of coal, it now engages in the retail business. The women and children of our country are being ruined by the long review amendment agreed upon at the White House, spoke on the bill.

Sub-Committee Representing Operators and Miners Refuse to Make the Slightest Concession, and After Debate Had Been Roared Adjournment to Thursday is Taken on President Mitchell's Motion—Rumors Still Current That a Solution Will be Found—The Tip of the Iceberg Collapses—Gov. Pennypacker Urges Settlement.

New York, April 3.—The sub-committee representing the anthracite operators and mine workers of eastern Pennsylvania held their first joint meeting here today and after nearly a three-hour session adjourned until 1 p. m. Thursday without coming to an agreement. Each side to the controversy has refused to make the slightest concession and the whole question apparently is as far from solution as it was before today's conference. In the meantime the tie-up of the anthracite industry remains complete as it was yesterday, without indication that a resumption of mining will occur very soon.

QUARANTINE BILL PASSES

Measure Placing Control of All Quarantine Stations Under the Secretary of the Treasury Meets Bitter Opposition Among Democrats—Though Drawn by Leader Williams, and Passed After Acrimonious Debate—Mr. Williams Reports Rule Limiting Debate on the Measure and is Assailed for Doing So—Injury to States' Rights Alleged.

Washington, April 3.—By a vote of 202 to 26, the House today passed the national quarantine bill. The bill places the control of all quarantine stations, grounds and anchorages under the Secretary of the Treasury and directs that as soon as practicable after the approval of the act he shall select and designate such suitable places for them and establish the same at such points, on or near the seacoast of the United States or on the Mexican border as in his judgment are best suited for the purpose and order to the introduction of yellow fever into the United States.

At the same time the voters, while declaring that the city shall not proceed to operate the railroads, declared that as a question of public policy it would be desirable for the city to do so.

ACTIVITY UNWARRANTED

PRESIDENT'S ACTION RESENDED

Mr. Roosevelt's Activity in Sending Amendment to Rate Bill to Senate Regarded by Republican Senators as an Affront—Conservative Senators Do Not Believe Administration's Amendment Will Carry—Mr. Webb Speaks in Defense of Bill to Incorporate National Educational Association—Puliam Pardon Case to be Considered at Early Date.

BY W. A. HILDEBRAND, Observer Bureau, 1417 G Street, N. W., Washington, April 3.

Those who follow the drift of senatorial sentiment say that the relations between the White House and that contingent of the Republican Senators headed by Mr. Aldrich were never more strained. The debate today disclosed the fact that many Republican leaders, including several Senators who have hitherto been friendly toward the President, resent to the very core the Executive's act of sending to the Senate an amendment to the rate bill through the person of Senator Long. Those Senators who subscribe to this view contend that the Chief Executive discharged his duty to the country when he delivered his opinion through his messages to Congress, and that the framing of amendments, after conferring with a few University friends, is an act of meddling in legislation which must be regarded as an affront. Not only so, but such men as Senators Knox, Spooner and Foraker are obviously offended because they were never consulted with reference to the President's personal amendment.

LONG SPEAKS FOR AMENDMENT.

Mr. Long stated that he would not take the inconsistent position of contending that provision for review is now in the bill, and yet be unwilling to express his review by an appropriate amendment. For this reason he had offered the amendment in the House at the White House conference. He agreed with the Senator from Pennsylvania that there should be no question of the right of the carrier that had been injured by an order of the commission re-elected to the United States Circuit Courts and stated that while he was satisfied with the House bill in this particular, yet in order to remove all questions as to its constitutionality he offered the amendment, and the right to use the commission in the United States Court and giving jurisdiction to the court to hear and determine the question whether the order of the commission was beyond the authority or in violation of the rights of the carrier secured by the constitution.

STATEMENT OF OPERATORS.

The conference began at noon with President E. B. Thomas, of the Lehigh Valley Company, in the chair. Mr. Mitchell made a long speech detailing why, in his judgment, the original demands of the miners ought to be granted. He was followed by Mr. T. J. DeWitt, president of the Shawanna-Wyoming district of the miners' union, who supported Mr. Mitchell's argument. There were other speeches by the representatives of the coal operators, but that side did nearly all the talking.

PROVISIONS OF THE MEASURE.

The bill also provides that every common carrier engaged in interstate commerce shall receive and carry through any State or Territory passengers, freight and baggage which have been discharged and properly certified in accordance with the regulations of the Public Health Service; that every person interfering with or obstructing such carrier or any passenger or any instrumentality of commerce shall be guilty of misdemeanor and on conviction be punished by a fine not exceeding three hundred dollars or be imprisoned for a period not exceeding one year, or both, in the discretion of the court; it is provided, however, that this section shall not be construed as giving authority to any person to embark or unload freight in any locality contrary to the lawful regulation.

TEXANS ALL OPPOSE IT.

Mr. Henry, of Texas, in opposition to the measure, had read a telegram from Jackson, Miss., stating that the House appropriation committee had agreed to withdraw from the bill the appropriation bill for the State board of health. Mr. Henry said, representing three million people, that he would resist the aim of Congress to take away from the people of Texas the right to make their own quarantine regulations. "The government has not the power to interfere with the quarantine regulations of the State of Texas," he said.

75,000,000 CERTIFICATES WIN.

The second proposition involved the approval of an ordinance providing for the issue of street railway certificates in amount not to exceed $75,000,000 for the purchase, ownership and maintenance of the street railways. This was carried by 3,339 votes.

SUPREME COURT OPINIONS.

The following opinions were today handed down by the Supreme Court: Cameron vs. Hicks, from Wayne, new trial; State vs. Powell, from Robeson, new trial; Davis vs. Kerr, from Bladen, affirmed; State vs. Perkins, from Union, no error; State vs. McWhorter, from Union, reversed; Miller vs. Railroad, from Anson, no error; Main vs. Griffin, from Moore, new trial; Bledsoe vs. Harris, from Moore, affirmed; State vs. Melton, from Anson, per curiam, no error.

MR. WEBB DEFENDS EDUCATION.

Mr. Webb defended the National Educational Association, in which prominent educators have taken an active interest, has at last been passed by the House, and Congressman Webb, who participated in the lively debate on the measure before the House, was called upon to defend it. He said that the bill will be of little benefit in passing the bill through the Senate. Messrs. Joyner and Foust will represent North Carolina in the association, the prime purpose of which is to elevate the character and advance the interests of the profession of teaching. In reply to some exceptions which Congressman Sullivan, of Massachusetts, took to the bill, Congressman Webb called attention to the fact that Congress has passed a bill incorporating the Carnegie Institute, almost on all fours with the bill that was being considered, and concluded by saying: "Mr. Speaker, the education is comprised of heads of universities, North and South, East and West, and the heads of other great colleges, and thousands of earnest teachers, and every one of these members, excepting about 15, ask Congress to pass this bill. There is one person, whose name will no doubt appear in this discussion later, who has caused most of the opposition and made the object of this bill, in the eyes of the Democrats, something that does not sound well, when, actually, there is no more power given in this bill than there is given from New Jersey, or North Carolina, or any other State. I want to say that the committee on education considered this bill patiently for four days, and considered it carefully, and concluded it was worth thought it ought to be amended, and we brought in a unanimous report. The committee heard all this opposition that is made to the bill and had before it the person who is making the charge, and I think that is now being made against the measure. The bill is almost an exact copy of the charter under which this organization has operated and existed for years. It is, in my opinion, one of the best bills that have been introduced in the Senate since the present session. I believe it is a fair and just bill, and I believe it is a bill that will be of great benefit to the profession of teaching. I believe it is a bill that will be of great benefit to the nation. I believe it is a bill that will be of great benefit to the world."

ORIGIN OF THE MATTER.

During Mr. Long's speech there was quite a spirited discussion of his amendment and its origin. There had been a controversy over the words "just compensation," which have been frequently used in debate.

BRUTALLY BEATEN, SHE MAY DIE.

Mrs. Sallie Lakey, Aged 75, Attacked in Her Home Near Old Port by Unknown Person, and Killed—Head Will Piece of Iron, Her Skull Being Fractured—Still Alive, but Will Probably Die.

Special to The Observer.

Marion, April 3.—Mrs. Sallie Lakey, aged 75 years, wife of James Lakey, who resides one and a quarter miles from Old Port, was the victim of a most horrible and atrocious crime, committed yesterday by some unknown party. The deed was done about noon, there being no one at home except the old lady herself. An old colored woman was passing by the house about three hours later and heard the screams of the sufferer. Upon going in she found the old lady prostrate upon the floor and bleeding. The victim of this brutal attack was struck across the brow with some iron instrument, and again on the back of the head. She lay in this position in both places. The piece of iron was about three feet long, and was found by the old colored woman lying on the floor. It had blood on it.

High Point Furniture Manufacturers Experiencing No Difficulty in Filling Positions Abandoned by Union Men.

Special to The Observer.

High Point, April 3.—With but one or two exceptions, the various factories experienced very little difficulty in running full blast yesterday. The manufacturing seemed well pleased at the force reporting for work Monday morning, and express themselves as confident of securing what few hands are out at about 25 of the factories. Some of the factories are only short so few that no difficulty whatever is experienced. The manufacturers say, as far as they are concerned, they have already won with hands down. Reported That Mr. Alfred Walker, of the South and Western Road, Will Succeed Him—Mr. C. H. Hix to be Made General Manager.

For months past, there have been rumors afloat of a change in the presidency of the Seaboard Air Line Railway Company. The latest is that Mr. Alfred Walker, president of the South and Western road, is to be elected to succeed Mr. J. M. Barr, at the meeting of the directors of the Seaboard Air Line which is to be held in Charlotte today. It is stated that Mr. Walker, who is a big majority at the election, is to be promoted to a new position, that of general manager, which is to be created at the meeting of the directors. These rumors are said to emanate from a reliable source and are generally credited by those who are in touch with the affairs of the Seaboard Company.

1,000 WOMEN ATTEND OPENINGS.

Large Crowds of Ladies See the Displays of Pretty Hats at the Store of the Little-Long Company, Held in the Charlotte Millinery Company—The Styles for the Spring.

All of feminine Charlotte yesterday attended the millinery openings of the Little-Long Company. Belk Brothers made up in brilliant Oriental colors. It was not extravagant to say that between 800 and 1,000 ladies were out. And none was disappointed at the display of hats. So great is the variety in styles for this spring and so extensive the scores of pretty women who were looking at the display and trying on hats. "The most popular hat this season," she said, "will be the Peter Pan hat, a creation of white horsehair, trimmed with plumes and American flowers. Another popular hat will be the Georgia sailor, trimmed with quills, velvet ribbons or flowers. The most gorgeous hats are the Orientals, made up in brilliant Oriental colors and trimmed with plumes and roses. There is a large variety of hood and lingerie hats, all of which are very pretty. Dainty white hats of malines, lace, etc., are proving very popular and will be much worn."

MR. BACON EMPHATIC.

Recurring to the merits of the controversy, Mr. Bacon referred to the newspapers' account of the conference and said the fact that Mr. Long had introduced into the Senate the amendment, as the papers had said he would have completely corroborated the accounts. "This," he said, "shows that the amendment originated in the White House conference and not with the Senator from Kansas—with those who have no right to propose amendments."
