In imagination I hold in my hand a the sower went forth to sow. We is that seed? Perhaps you say; is brown." But I did not ask the color. "Oblong?" No, I did not ask the shape. These are but few "accidents" of the seed. At the center of that grain there is an essencean indescribable, invisible something. The Latins call it "substantia," the inner principle of the seed. It is this which gives the accidents of color, size and shape. Extract that principle my there is not then left. size and shape. they partake of the nature of tres-pass. Farmers—not accidentally, but purposely—sow upon them for a witness that the claim to them is not abandoned. The unwakened human heart is a path trodden hard by sin and evil habits. Yet it belongs to God. He still claims it. His truth is sown upon it for a testimony. But in such instances the soul of the gospel does not touch the soul of the man. There is an outward hearing, indeed, but no inward comprehending. And the seed is quickly taken away by the evil one who sends irrelevant thoughts, pleasure, business, etc., as a flock of birds to devour the seed. Some seed fall upon a film of soil which covers a ledge of rock. The rock holding the heat acts like a forcing house, and causes the seed to germinate all the more quickly. But there is no chance to draw moisture from the depths of the soil. For a permanent and healthful growth, the seed of the gospel must grow as deep as it grows high. There must be as much interior life as there is exterior expression, as much belief with the heart as confession with the tongue. But the unbroken, rocky covering of the heart renders an inzilians are expert copper smiths and terior growth impossible. The life A. L. Pickard and R. L. They rob the wheat of the nourishment of the soil which belongs to it, its por-tion of sunshine, dew and rain; they poison it with noxious breath, they wound it with their sharp briars, they choke it. Two conditions of human life seem here referred to. The poor in whom often the extreme anxiety about temporal affairs and absorbing attention to the making of a living chokes the spiritual life; and the rich who in their abundance are prone to forget God, and indulge good ground may now be defined by contrast. Lexington Municipal Ticket.

Correspondence of The Observer. Lexington, April 25.-A mass meeting was held in the court house last night for the purpose of nominating a mayboard of town commissioners, the election to be held May 1. Several speeches were made and two tickets nominated. The present encum-bent, John H. Moyer, mayor, was renominated unanimously and heads both tickets. The sense of the meeting indicated, beyond all doubt, that a majority were in favor of the old board. which has been directly responsible for more municipal progress than any former board. The old board consists of G. W. Montcastle, R. L. Burkhead, J. W. Noell, J. H. Thompson and J. L. Peacock. The new ficket named is composed of the following: L. F. Weaver, Z. I. Walser, E. A. Wash-day troubles will vanish like dew before the morning sun if you use GOLD DUST.

"Clothes on the line in half the time," is the motto of the GOLD DUST TWINS.

The old way of rubbing and scrubbing clothes did well enough until GOLD DUST was discovered. It was possible to get the clothes almost clean, but think of the labor involved!
