INTERESTING DIVORCE CASE
One of the worst divorce cases tried here in recent years came up to-day. The plaintiff in the case is a good-looking woman who bears the marks of gentleness. She presented an awful indictment against her husband, charging him with all sorts of violence and with the debilitation of a colored woman. The case was hotly contested with R. Lee Phillips, attorney for the defendant, and Messrs. Horah and A. H. Price as the defendant's attorneys. They handled it very skillfully and the matter turning on a point of law which the court held in favor of the defendant. A trial was then directed by Judge Ward and the case was tried before the jury. The case was heard in the afternoon and the court adjourned until to-morrow.
