Appointing: New York, June 2.-The stock market and a better tone to-day, with an aggressive advance of nearly 4 points in 8t. There was realizing after the appearance of the bank statement, which was con-lidered unfavorable, and the closing tone was quiet. There were important breaks in the ranks of the list, which left the market spoity, and for that reason un-atisfactory to those watching for evi-dences of a general rising tendency. The hovement in St. Paul was based on un-official reports of the plans for financing the Pacific Coast extension. Even the most bearish poor man was reduced to such a state statisticians do not believe that more who wouldn't under the circumstances? There is a certain much advertised volume of excellent outline sermons which a cortain young ciergyman, didrus' 'ul of his own resources, determined to use. He gave out his text boldly, as it was printed. "Proverbs 18:22." A look of interest came over the faces of the young ladies of the congregation. The preacher repeated the reference in sonorous tones, and then looked at his Bill-le to wread it out. The interes: was explained the words that confronted him were "Whoso findeth a wife, findeth a good thing"--a bold subject to choose for a first sermon! Now that book is still in print. the error still remains, and if young clergymen would avoid raising false hopes they had better verify their false hopes they had better verify their "Ah! I shouldn't wonder," he remarked after a pause, "you be out and about, but here be I; what can I do?" One more sickbed reminiscence to illus-trate a parson's perplexity. A certain ancient dame in a country village had lis-tened, during a long period of illness. to the exhortations of her vicar. She was devout and attentive, but hinted more than once that she had something on her mind. There was a question she wished to ask. She hoped to have it answered before she died, but she wasn't quite sure whether the vicar could do so. died, but she wasn't quite sure whether the vicar could do so. It was quite clear from the clersyman's encouraging manner that whether he could or not he meant to try, but when the question came it was a little cascon-certing—"Ought pass'ns to swear?" Anxious to gain fuller knowledge of the reasons behind this extraordinary ques-tion, the vicar inkuired why she asked it in earnest: it was a question 'she had wished answered ever since she was a little girl, and now-well, perhaps she could get her wish at last. Her reason? Yes, she would tell the reason, which she did in the following words: "When I was a little maid the rector of -- was a terrible fine preacher, for sure, When I was a girt high place as big when he did come to preach at our church, giad enough we was.
