SLOCOMB-EMERSON.

Miss Lillian T. Slocomb, of Fayette-ville, Becomes the Bride of Mr. Neill D. Einerson, of Wilmington— Pretty Wedding in St. John's Church.

Special to The Observer. Fayetteville, June 2 .- This morning at 10:30 o'clock, in St. John's Episcopal church, the rector, Rev. I. Hughes, impressively uttering the beautiful service, Mr. Neill D. Emerson, of Wilmington, electrical engineer was united in marriage to Miss Lil lian Taylor Slocomb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Slocomb, of this city, cercles of the State, with hosts of friends wherever she is known.

The color scheme of the church decorations was white and green in asparagus ferns and Easter lilies, and the passage of the bridal party down the aisles was greeted by Lohengrin, splendidly rendered by Mrs. 1. "Are you going to juil if the committee insists on your repeating those lokes about rebates?" asked another friend

"I certainly will before I will repeat them. I have already had half dozen lawyers to volunteer their services to defend me. I don't think the courts will force me to do what is wrong, and I really do not think the committee will go that far."

The understanding is that the committee will only require an apology from Mr. Childs for his so-called disorderly conduct in the presence of the committee. The summons to Mr. Childs says nothing about his declin-ing to repeat the jokes. It notifies him "to show cause why you should not be attached for contempt of the committee in being guilty of disorderly conduct and contempt in the presence of the committee."
