MR .CROMWELL OBDURATE. In Defiance of the Senate Commit-tee's Order He Declines to Answer

H. E. C.

Certain Questions. Washington, June 19 .- In defiance of the order of the Senate committee en inter-oceanic canals that he answer certain questions propounded to him in the investigation of Isthmian canal affairs, William Nelson Crom-well repeated his refusals to-day. He stated that the questions involved confidential relations with his client, the New Panama Canal Co. The questions were read to him by Senato Morgan and when the first one was asked, which concerned the work he did for the Panama Canal Company in America the witness calmly took from his pocket a pre-pared statement which he proceeded read. He stated that his knowledge of the subject under discussion was derived in the course of his professional employment and that he must decline to disclose the interests of his employer concerning any private business matters. In refusing he said he did so with the profoundest respect for the committee

After going over the previous record at some length in order to give the witness another opportunity to answer the committee adjourned until next Tuesday, without having con-cluded the record. The general impression is that the question of Mr. Cromwell's recalcitrancy will not be concluded by the committee in time to certify the case to the courts dur-

ase of City of Durham Against Eno-Cotton Mill to be Called Again for Purpose of Making Permanent the Order Restraining Defendant From Polluting Waters of Eno River.

Special to The Observer.

Durham, June 19.—The litigation of Durham and the city health department against the Eno Cotton Mill Company will get into the courts again to-morrow. The cotton mill company, which-is located in Hillsboro, has been notified to appear before Judge Furgerson, in Greensboro to-morrow and show cause why the company and the officials of the company should not be attached for contents of court company should not be attached for contempt of court.

This is but a formal proceeding to get back into the court the matter that was started early in the year. The proceedings against the cotton mill people and their lenants and employes was to prohibit the dumping of sewerage, dye stun and filth into Eno river, from which a partial supply of the city's water is drawn, especially during the summer. Judge Furgerson decided that the company should be enjoined and the restraining order was issued enjoining the company against dumping filth of all kinds into the river, polluting the waters of the stream.

kinds into the river, polluting the waters of the stream.

Then there was an appeal to the Supreme Court and, at the recent hearing of the case, the court decided that Judge Fergerson was right in making the restraining order and that it should stand. The original order of the judge was that, on and after April 23, the company and others be restrained from polluting the water.

The action taken now is notice for the company to appear before the judge and show cause why the company and officiers should not be attached for contempt of court. This is but the formal order to get the litigation back into the courts so that a final order can be made in the matter. It is not thought that there will be any effort made to have the company and its officials punished for contempt of court. Instead, the judge will make an order carrying into effect the original order, giving the company time in which to install the sewer disposal plant as required by the courts, that is if they want to continue the business at its present site, which will be at its present site, which will be the Rod and Reel. Special to The Observer.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH. Buncombe Fisherman Dazed by Sroke of Lightning While Handling

Asheville, June 19.-Gregg Cham bers, of the Reems Creek section of Buncombe county, had a narrow escape from death Saturday afternoon while fishing along the banks of Reems creek, Mr. Chambers had gone a-fishing up the creek during the afternoon when a heavy rain came up. After the shower the fisherman continued the sport of landing the speckled beauties. He was sitting on the bank of the stream some ten fect from a large tree. There was a vivid flash of lightning and Mr. Chambers was rendered unconscious. He regained consciousness after a lapse of some time and, though dazed from the effects of the stroke, made his way to the home of Jim Ray, not far distant. Upon investigation it was found that the lightning had struck the tree near where Mr. Chambers was fishing and, glancing off, had shocked the fisherman into uncon sciousness. The tree was badly torn by the lightning and it is considered a miracle how he escaped instant death. Mr. Chambers feels no ill effect from his experience. He was not burned by the lightning.
