EXZEMA, ETC.

Dr. J. W. Ayler, 3406 West avenue, Newport News, Va., under date of February 25, 1902, writes:

The case of water was received. The patient for whom I ordered it had been using it for some time. Up to that time the water, Chloride of Calcium, did not seem to be doing much good. It was the most obstinate case of Exzema I ever had, but I believed the water would cure. Trusting in my judgment, continued its use, and I am glad to say she has been entirely cured.

Several other cases of Exzema have been cured by using it externally and internally.

It seems to me to be the best water in the world for the purpose used.
