

Another Governor's Endorsement and the Mayor of Phoenix Sees the Test

The following is an article published in the news columns of the Arizona Republican, at Phoenix, Arizona, Oct. 24. Dr. McKanna just recently established a Sanitarium at Phoenix. Read it carefully. Have you ever heard of anything like this before?

Acosta Pardoned by Gov. Kibbey

CURED OF THE LIQUOR HABIT, OTHER BLESSINGS FOLLOW AT ONCE, AMONG THEM FREEDOM FROM THE BASTILE.

Governor Kibbey yesterday issued a pardon to Ramon Acosta, an inmate of the county jail. The circumstances are somewhat unique in several features. Acosta is a shoemaker and for years has been conducting a little shop in this city, when he was sober enough to attend to business. But the liquor habit grew on him and he was repeatedly arrested and fined or jailed in the city and justice courts. The end of it was that Justice Burnett, on the 15th of October, sentenced him to twenty days in the county jail and he was committed. Saturday there arrived here Dr. McKanna, a physician from Oklahoma City, Okla., who has a treatment for the cure of drunkenness in three days. Dr. McKanna left last night for San Francisco.

During his stay here a couple of Phoenix gentlemen who knew of his work in the East, persuaded him to treat a few cases just for object lessons in demonstration of the merits of his cure. One of the cases was Acosta, whose salvation it was believed would be verging up close to the miraculous. Yesterday the doctor reported to Justice Burnett that he had cured the patient and he believed Acosta could be given his liberty with perfect safety to the community and that the act would be appreciated by Acosta, who had agreed to make a man of himself if given another chance.

The doctor announced also that the Governor had said he would grant a pardon if it was recommended by the court. Justice Burnett thereupon made the recommendation and armed with it, Dr. McKanna made application to the Governor and the pardon was immediately granted, Acosta being given his liberty last night.

Though Dr. McKanna is the man who furnished salvation for Acosta, Mayor Coggins is entitled to credit as the forerunner in the wilderness. He had heard about the doctor and knew of a number of men who had been cured by him. He had great faith in the doctor, but faith without works is dead. Mr. Coggins is always interested in the great moral uplift and whatever will, in his opinion, benefit mankind generally, he is ready to give his moral support. He had great curiosity to see a severe test made and in puzzling his brain for the right kind of a subject, he thought of Acosta and took the doctor to see him. After the cure the doctor expressed regret that the man whose chief crime was intoxication, would have to remain in jail, even after the cause of his trouble had been removed. He was told that the pardoning power of the Governor was the only thing that would get him out. Acosta, free from whiskey, was apparently a man of more than ordinary intelligence and deserving of help, so the doctor exerted himself in his patient's behalf as related above.
