ne break is the session. All the members of the faculty were present at the opening of the college, with the mospion of Professor Schenk, who returned Thursday, and Miss Coleman, who has not yet arrived.

The Athenian and Philomathean Liteary Societies held their first meeting of the new year last night, and their members were very enthusiastic in their interest in the work for the coming months. The members of these societies have always done some of the best work in the college course, and a number of them have taken fine stands in society work at the State University.

with his father The most attractive and most valuable edition the The Wake Forest Student ever published is the Lee Centennial Memorial Number, the January number of The Student. It has created considerable comment and editors have received a number of appreciated commendatory letters from prominent people of North Carolina and ther States, among them being Governor Glonn. The memorial volume is dedicated to the old soldiers of Lee, the Confederate vetercommander, Major-General Julian S. Carr The cover design is a cut made from Miss Dixle Wash-ington Leach's Lee memorial calendar. which she kindly lent theeditors of the magazine. The calendar is printed in colors, giving the birthpiace of Lee, Stratford, the old home, Arlington, his own picture, surmounted by the four flags of the Cenfederacy, his crest motto and signature. WINTHROP.

Winthop College, S. C., Jan. 12 Examinations for the first term commenced to-day, and every one is so absorbed in them that nothing elst is going on. Winthrop girls are apt to give undivided attention to whator play, so that just now even the most fascinating "feast" is neglected for the sake of review. Christmas holldays speedily became a thing of the past, and each girl has settled down post, and each girl has settled down to hard work again.
