SOUTHERN MAN TO DIG CANAL.

Several days ago the press dispatches bore the news that the lowest proposal for completing the Panama Canal was that of William J. Oliver, of Knoxville, Tenn., and Anson M. Bangs, of New York city, who offered to do the work for 6.75 per cent. of the estimated cost, or $9,450,000 if the estimate proves accurate.

Mr. Oliver was among the few contractors invited to bid on the canal project; for he has gathered around him just that combination of talent which Chairman Shonts is on record as having said he desired, and which he thought could be found only in a syndicate of contractors, each one an expert in a given line.

The following sketch of Mr. Oliver's career is taken from The Chattanooga Times.

The career of this Southern captain of industry has been a checked one. He is today in the prime and vigor of full blown manhood, forty years of age. He was born in a small Indiana village near South Bend, and started active life in the great west of Indiana, where, at the age of sixteen, his first work was with the Cotton Belt Railroad as a contractor, handling a fifteen-acre tract.

Some of the contracts now on hand are a dam for the Chattanooga Power Company on the Tennessee, a five-foot high, in which are 500,000 cubic feet of concrete will be used, the cost being estimated at $100,000. He is building 10 miles of railroad out of New Orleans for the Goodyear syndicate of Buffalo, N. Y., this mile of railroad for the Central of Georgia, 100 miles out of Norfolk for the Tidewater Railroad, working for practically every railroad in the South. He is building a mammoth warehouse of reinforced concrete for the Louisville and Nashville Railroad at Atlanta, also a great concrete viaduct in that city. He is boring a tunnel for the Southern Railway through Laurel Mountain. In his contracting interest, Mr. Oliver owns a large interest in one of the largest supply houses in the South, that of the C. E. Bangs Company at Charlotte, N. C. He is also a partner in a highly successful operation in building his own Portland cement plant at Fossilford, Ga., Tenn., which is to be the largest in this country. He owns at Knoxville one of the largest manufacturing plants for the manufacturing of all kinds of machinery, cars, locomotives, etc., in America. He owns and operates elevators and lumber yards in Johns River, Va. In fact, there are few business enterprises of any size, importance or commercial value in the South in which W. J. Oliver is not personally and actively interested.

Mr. Oliver's way of conducting in everything which he undertakes and of not undertaking anything in which he cannot succeed affords us great encouragement that the canal will be completed in a reasonable time. His associate in the colossal undertaking, Mr. Bangs, is one of the largest and most successful heavy contractors in the East, and abundant resources will not be lacking.

William J. Oliver is the very man for the job. He can dig the big ditch if anybody can.

Philadelphia wants Congress to give her a 25-foot channel to the sea. With this, she would have one of the best harbors north of Charleston.

We hope the Legislature will spare him.

FARES, A FLAT RATE, AND NEEDED RAILROAD LEGISLATION.

Senator Graham, of Orange, tells the Raleigh correspondent of The Observer that he is confident the Legislature will fix railroad fares at approximately 2 1-2 cents for first-class and 2 cents for second-class and that one fare at a flat rate of 2 1-2 cents would not be satisfactory to the public. The figures suggested for first and second-class fares are about right—the cut should not, in justice, be deeper than that indicated, and a second-class rate of 2 1-4 cents would not be out of the way, with an interchangeable mileage book at 2 cents. We are sure that Maj. Graham is correct in his opinion that the abolition of the second-class car and a flat rate of 2 1-2 cents would not be satisfactory to the public. If there are any who favor this it is doubtless because they have not reflected deeply upon it. All are familiar with the fact that on gala day and holiday occasions, and not on those occasions alone, by any means, drunken, turbulent men, agitate and pollute the atmosphere of the second-class car, to which they resort by preference, with profanity and obscenity, and that violence is not uncommon. To think of women and children as witnesses of such scenes, and enforced hearers of the language to which they would be subjected under a one-fare system, shocks the senses. For their sakes, as well as that of men to whom unseemly language and behavior are offensive, we sincerely hope the Legislature will not lend its countenance to the flat rate. We have no idea what the railroads think of this idea; that is a minor consideration; but there are several phases of the railroad question which suggest legislation while to inaugurate the flat rate would be to precipitate conditions which would be almost calamitous for the next two years when the Legislature would, in the light of the experience suffered, surely compel the restoration of the second-class car. As matters which need legislation, apart from the reduction of fares—upon which subject legislation is assumed—Intra-State freight rates should be reduced, or the power to reduce them lodged with the corporation commission, the powers of the commission materially enlarged, to the end that it may correct manifest abuses; and a penalty laid for failure to properly bulletin trains, as to which matter the orders of the commission are openly and flagrantly defied.

SENATOR SIMMONS FOR SECOND TERM.

The Democratic caucus of the Legislature last night, as was expected of it and as was right for it to have done, nominated Hon. Furnifold M. Simmons for a second term in the Senate of the United States and he will be re-elected to-day. This will be in conformity with the practically unanimous will of the Democratic party of the State. Mr. Simmons has borne himself splendidly in the Senate, reflecting credit upon North Carolina. Those who in time past held of him the opinion that he was merely a smart, shifty politician, have had occasion to change their minds. The State realizes now that he is a man of substantial ability, of fine judgment and of broad, statesman-like qualities. He has grown greatly in the last six years, as nearly all men grow after entering the great body of which he has become a conspicuous member, and it is a reasonable expectation that the enlargement of his powers and influence in the six years coming will be steadily progressive, since he will be only 53 years old on the 20th of the present month, an age at which all men have not yet reached their mental maturity and after which their wisdom is enlarged and refined by larger experience.

We regret very much the financial mistakes which have overtaken our friends the Odells, of Concord. Capt. J. M. Odell, now seventy-four years old, and his son, Mr. W. R. Odell, Senator from Mecklenburg and Cabarrus. They are the best of men and have done much for their community and for North Carolina. While their reverses are to be deplored it is a pleasure to know that their assets are double their liabilities and that their mills, in the hands of a highly capable mill man as receiver, Mr. Caesar Cone, will not suspend operations.

It is because of great gratification that enough money has been raised to insure an auditorium for Charlotte, and one of the right kind. This is one of the city's most vital needs and the wisdom of its construction will be at once demonstrated. With the ordinary comforts and conveniences of modern life, with splendid railroad facilities and a fine station, with large hotel accommodations and more immediately in prospect and with a great auditorium in sight, Charlotte needs next to address itself to the matter of good streets.

It has been pointed out that if the government secures indictments and convictions in all the cases which it now has against the oil trust, and collects maximum fines, an amount almost equal to the estimated cost of digging the Panama Canal will be realized. Let but this attractive thought become widely diffused among the people and its popularity will make the octopus tremble to the utmost of every tentacle.

Col. Walter R. Henry, challenger.

The Observer to combat on the mermaid proposition and gives away his own case by citing mythology as his own authority. We would delight to debate with the colonel about any actuality, but there is no mermaid. She is a myth; a fragment of the brain; the product of a pipe dream; has no more existence than "Miss Harris" whom Sary Gamp quoted so often and with so much unction. The story about the mermaid in the Catawba river was only a camp-rumor. We reject all of the colonel's authorities and come down to the standard, the Century Dictionary, which tells us that the mermaid is "a fabled marine or amphibian creature." "Fabled," mark you. We go to the source of light and knowledge, while Col. Henry quotes mythology, poetry, unidentified priests, newspaper reporters who were full up to the back teeth and could see anything, and one missionary. Col. Henry has no case at all. Let him call off his mermaid as he has called off his bloodhounds.

ALL GO TO WENTWORTH.

Discussion of Court House Site Before County Commissioners—Parrish Morehead Marriage To-Night. Spicy, Jan. 15.—To-day a general exodus to Wentworth took place from all parts of the county. The commissioners sat in special session to hear the pros and cons of the court house question—whether to rebuild or not to rebuild and whether the people of the county should have a "say" in the matter. It is understood that the general desire is to rebuild the court house at Wentworth, beginning the work at once. Redevelopment people alone oppose this step. It is said they want the county seat moved to Healdville, and in order to accomplish this step they are proposing to leave the question to the people, as the commissioners are not empowered to do so. Water works in the radius of a mile of the present site. Great pressure will be brought to bear by both factions, as the decision of the commissioners is an all important one to Rockingham county. This county is one of the most prominent and influential counties in the State, and is rapidly forging forward. The present population of 35,000, covering an area of 550 square miles, giving a State Senator and two Representatives.

Preparations for the nuptials of Wednesday night are going on. It is then Miss E. Gray Morehead becomes the bride of Mr. Robert Parrish, as previously announced by The Observer. Mrs. W. T. Harris, of Danville, Va., sister of the bride, is here and will act as hostess. Mrs. B. Frank Mcbane being indisposed and necessarily absent.

Saturday night Mr. Parrish, with a large party of his male friends, arrived on a special train, and, while awaiting the train, will enjoy the fox and quail hunting the game preserves here afforded.

Messrs. Smith and Hatbrook, of New York city, are spending the winter at the Colonnade. They are here for their health.

Under the management of Mr. M. J. Wilson the Colonnade Hotel has become a thing of beauty. Water works, electric lights and a steam heating outfit are being installed, and every other convenience contingent to the successful operating of a hotel is being afforded by the popular proprietor.

The Rhode Island mills are now operating on two shifts in order to supply the demand for their product, namely, cotton, blankets and yarns. The Warren-Ehret Company, of Charlotte, has closed the contract for the gravel road covering the large addition to its quarters here.

RESEMER MILLS FAIL.

Mr. Caesar Cone, of Greensboro, Appointed by Judge Boyd, Receiver of Southern Mills, Which Will Resume Operation—Receivership of Tar Heel Company Permanent. Special to The Observer. Greensboro, Jan. 15.—Judge Boyd in the United States Court this afternoon appointed Caesar Cone, of this city, receiver for the Southern Mills, at Resemer City. The complaint was filed by King and Kimball, attorneys for the bond and present a Commission Company. All the creditors and a majority of the stockholders.

It had been erroneously reported and published in some of the State papers that the bond had been appointed receiver several days ago, but this is unfounded. Mr. Cone will arrange at once for the mill, which was closed down last Tuesday night, to resume operation. The Messrs. Cone, of Concord, who are large stockholders in the Odell Manufacturing Company, which failed yesterday, are also stockholders in the Southern Mills, and with their consent Mr. Cone was named receiver of both companies. It is understood that the assets of both companies will be sufficient to pay the liabilities.

Judge M. H. Justice, in Superior Court to-day signed an order making permanent the appointment of Mr. John Crouch as receiver of the Tar Heel Publishing Company. The temporary order was made 10 days ago. Neither Congressman Blackburn nor his friends opposed the appointment. Crouch stated this afternoon that the paper would be discontinued for the present and the plant sold. After this the purpose of Mr. Crouch and others is to reorganize the company as soon as possible. The assets are said to be in excess of the liabilities.

CUPID THIRCE DEFEATED.

Miss Boxie Devereux and Mr. Archie Robinson, of Durham, Make Three Efforts in Virginia to Tie Knot—Nothing is Doing, but They Are Nothing Dismayed. Special to The Observer. Danville, Va., Jan. 15. Miss Boxie Devereux and Mr. Archie Robinson, a young couple from Durham, N. C., have had strenuous times in their efforts to close and get their knot tied, but their plans already frustrated, had not they been disappointed, the pair is probably at this moment in search of some minister who will tie the knot. If they are not already married.

They left their home early yesterday morning for Houston, but upon arriving at that place found to their disappointment that the angry father of the would-be bride had telegraphed the clerk not to issue them licenses. They drove from Houston to South Boston, a distance of about six miles, and failing to secure any one who would perform the ceremony, took a train for Pelham, N. C., late yesterday afternoon. At that place they were met by the girl's made good the justice of the peace warning that her father objected. They then took a south-bound train and the girl, not to be discouraged, remarked, "We will keep trying until we succeed." Miss Devereux gave her age as 21, though she could not more easily pass for 18. Robinson is of a British appearance, and says he is 17.

NOTHING DONE BY COURTS.

Absence of Attorneys Handicaps Administration of Justice—Attorneys for Mill Men Called to Asheville. Special to The Observer. Greensboro, Jan. 15.—Nothing was done in the United States Courts here to-day, on account of the absence of attorneys. It looks as if the term of which such great things have been expected will fall far short of what anticipated. Court convened at 10 o'clock this morning. Monday, when adjournment was taken until to-morrow morning. It may be a few weeks before court settles down to business.

Messrs. C. W. Tillet and T. C. Guthrie, of Charlotte, who, with E. T. Canler, of the same city, are attorneys for the defendants in the case for alleged violation of the labor contract laws, were called to Asheville early in the week to argue a matter before Judge Brinkman, in the United States Circuit Court, and for this reason it is impossible to take up the demurrer to the bill in the case. Before the case can be tried the demurrer must be disposed of. If it is sustained, as the attorneys for the defense believe, this will end the case.

The bankruptcy case against Hardin and others, of Wilkesboro, cannot be taken up, as Messrs. King & Kincaid, attorneys for the creditors, are engaged in the trial of a damage suit against the Southern Railway, which was commenced in Guilford Superior Court Monday. It was thought that this case would be taken up after the case against the Charlotte mill.

The cases for alleged revenue frauds are not to be called until after the bankruptcy case against R. H. Hardin is disposed of. The cases against the defendants in the revenue fraud cases, Judge Boyd is expected to dispose of all the cases for revenue fraud at one time, but not until after the cases in which violation of the property is involved is settled. There are a number of people here to attend the session of court. Among them are E. J. Romanus and Z. L. Linnery, of the eighth district; Congressman-elect R. N. Hackett, of the same district, and the usual contingent of Wilkes county revenue officers, indicted moonshiners and witnesses.

F. N. Taylor, chief of the fire department, received a letter this morning from Mr. J. W. Lindau, one of the proprietors of the Finishing Mill, which was recently destroyed by fire Thursday night. The letter thanked Mr. Taylor and the members of the department for their services, and enclosed was a check for $100 for the department.

R. M. Fox, an undertaker of Danville, Va., was here to-day for the purpose of attending to the remains of a man who was drowned while bathing in the White Oak pond several months ago. Lewis came here from Danville and was employed in the White Oak Mills.

SYLVESTER BARRETT HANGED.

Negro Murderer of Constable Waller Lovett Meets Death on Scaffold at Greenville, N. C.—Denied Crime. Special to The Observer. Greenville, N. C., Jan. 15.—Sylvester Barrett, colored, was hanged here to-day for the murder of Constable Waller Lovett, of Farmville township. The crime was committed January 20th last. Barrett was an accomplice to Jerry Cobb, shooting and killing the officer while he, with deputies, was out with warrants looking for the negroes. Barrett and Cobb were both arrested and tried during the following week before Judge B. F. Long, who was holding court here at the time.

Barrett was convicted of murder in the first degree and Cobb in the second degree. Barrett was sentenced to hang February 25th and Cobb to serve 25 years in the penitentiary. Both appealed to the Supreme Court, but Cobb's appeal was withdrawn and he is now serving his sentence. The Supreme Court affirmed the decision of the lower court as to Barrett. The day of execution was again set for November 15th, followed by two respites to December 1st and January 15th.

The execution took place to-day as the law prescribed. Barrett ascended the scaffold at 12:45, and the drop fell two minutes later. In 10 minutes physicians pronounced him dead. The only statement made on the scaffold was a negative reply to the question if he was guilty.

UNION HEBREW CONGREGATIONS.

Opening Meeting of Convention at Atlanta, Ga., is Addressed by Governor Terrell, Mayor Joyner and Rabbi Marx—President Woolner Responded. Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 15.—The 20th annual convention of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, which met here to-day, is said to be the largest convened association of the kind. Address of welcome by Governor Terrell, Mayor Joyner and Rabbi Marx were responded to by President Woolner, of the union.

The President's and secretary's reports were then presented and showed the union to be in a high degree of prosperity. Permanent organization was effected by the election of Adolf Kraus, of Chicago, president; Sol Sulzberger, of New York, vice president; Lipman Levy, of Cincinnati, secretary, and Milton M. Hirsch, of Atlanta, assistant secretary.

Resolutions were adopted extending the thanks of the union to the National House of Representatives for opposing the rather too stringent provisions of the immigration laws passed by the Senate.

A telegram was read from Isaac W. Bernheim, of Louisville, Ky., donating the expense of building a library, which is one of the purposes now being for Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati.

To-night a very able address was delivered by Rabbi M. J. Gries, of Cleveland.

MASTER BUILDERS ORGANIZE.

Contractors of the State Effect Organization at Greensboro—Sabbath Convention Meets. Special to The Observer. Greensboro, Jan. 15.—A number of contractors met here this evening and organized the Master Builders Association of North Carolina. The membership includes a number of the most prominent contractors and contracting firms of the State.

The following officers were elected: N. Underwood, of Durham, president; J. N. Long, of Greensboro, vice president; treasurer, Rev. B. F. Campbell, of Greensboro. After the meeting an elaborate banquet was held in the hall where the association met. Several toasts were offered and responses were made. The first State convention of North Carolina observers and the preservation of the Christiania Salt bath met in West Market Street, M. E. church to-night, and will continue through to-morrow. Rev. B. F. Campbell, of Asheville, is presiding and Rev. J. W. Goodman, of Greensboro, is secretary. The committee were appointed: Dr. H. W. Battle welcomed the convention and Dr. Campbell responded. The factors of the session to-night was an address by President J. G. Kline, of Trinity College, on "The American Sabbath." He made a masterful and scholarly speech, there is a large attendance and much enthusiasm.

Mrs. T. A. Gardner, of Wilmington.

Wilmington, Jan. 15.—Mrs. T. A. Gardner, an aged woman of Wilmington, died at 12 o'clock this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. R. Branch, on Market street. Besides Mrs. Gardner, she leaves a son, Mr. T. A. Gardner, of Wilmington, and a daughter, Miss Sarah Gardner, of Wilmington. The deceased was in the 74th year of her age. She was a member of St. James Episcopal church. The funeral will be conducted to-morrow.
