Correspondence of The Observer Chapel Hill, Feb. 16.-The University Chapel Hill, Feb. 16.—The University Glee Club and Orchestra, under the able direction of Mr. C. T. Woollen, promises to be especially good this year. All of the members of last year's orchestra are back on the Hill except Mr. J. B. Geslen, who has played the solo cornet parts for the last four years. His loss is one that will be felt, but his successor, Mr. C. B. Rights, promises to fill his place well. The other places in the orchestra are filled by men who have had his place well. The other places in the orchestra are filled by men who have had several years' training under Mr. Woolien. Several members of last year's glee club are candidates again this spring and a number of new men have presented themselves. Altogether the prospects for a strong club are good.

Manager Foye Roberson, of the musical association, has already arranged an elaborate tour of the eastern part of the State for the club and orchestra, of the State for the club and orchestra, beginning the week after Easter. Dates for Washington, Greenville, Wilson, Newbern, Goldsboro and Rocky Mount have already been closed and other engagements will be made later. Manager Roberson expects to arrange for another trip later in the spring. The magazine presents less verse than could be desired. Only three poems appear in this Issue; "The Mermaid's Song," "Gur Passing Heroes" and "Cupid's Sentence." "The Mermaid's Song," a fragment found by Professor Collier Cobb on Hatteras island, has the delightful lyric quality which marks Elizabethan verse. It is worthy of having been written by Sir Walter Raleigh and has probably been handed down from the date of the island's settlement. On the whole the January issue of the magazine is very pleasing.

Treasurer John B. Troy, at Fayetteville. Special to The Observer.

Fayetteville, Feb. 17.-Mr. John B. Proy, county treasurer, aged 77 years dled in this city this morning suddeny after a brief serious illness. He nad been in feeble health for some time. He was a native of Randolph county, and engaged in business here both before and after the civil war, but for several years was county treasurer. So esteemed was he that was elected term after term virtually by acclamation. He leaves a widow and one daughter, Mrs. W.

Mr. R. L. Winters, at Newton. Special to The Observer.

Newton, Feb. 17 .- Mr. R. L. Winers, son of Mr. W. R. Winters, of Catawba county, was seriously injured Tuesday afternoon and died from the effetcs in the hospital in Columbia, S. C., Friday afternoon. Mr. Winters was alding in removing a wreck near Johnston, S. C., on Tuesday afternoon, when the tackle broke and the block in falling struck him on the head, fracturing his skull. He was taken to the hospital in Columbia at once and his family in this county were notified of his condition. His father went immediately to him, and was at his side when the end came. The remains were brought to his home yesterday and were buried in Claremont to-day.

Mr. Winters was about 25 years old and unmarried. He had many warm friends, who will mourn his untimely death, while the sympathy of our entire community belongs to his estimable parents thus suddenly bereft. Mr. Albert S. Klingender, at Salisbury.

Special to The Observer. Salisbury, Feb. 17.-This beautiful day has had a peculiar sadness to Salisbury and Statesville friends of Mr. Albert S. Klingender, who died Mrs. W. H. Neave.

Mr. Klingender arose from his sleep in perfect health so far as anyone knows. He went to the bathroom up-stairs and had turned on the water. Later he was heard to breathe with alarming difficulty and a rap on his door brought no answer. Upon going to the bath tub, one of the residents found him in the water and held his head above it until a physician was called. Dr. W. W. McKenzie responded soon and worked with him, but to no purpose. He died about 9 o'clock.

The Statesville relatives of Mr Klingender were immediately notified and Mr. Ned French came on the morning train to take charge of the funeral arrngements. Rev. Father Leo held a short service at the residence this afternoon and the remains were shipped to Statesville to-night for burial to-morrow morning.

Mr. Klingender came to Salisbury last fall. He entered the G. W. Frix Musical Company as a stockholder and assistant manager and his dally contact with the Salisbury public made him the acquaintance of almost everybody here. He was liked by all people and had a manner that attracted everyone. Though a native Englishman, no Southern gentleman of the old school was politer He came to this country about 25 years ago from the vicinity of London and has spent the most of his is right here. We have a time in Baltimore and Statesville. He has two aunts in Baltimore, Mrs. Stove for you that will George Jenkins and Mrs. Henry Dangerfield, and a brother in Nevada. He also has a sister in England. Mr. Klingender was 41 years old and unmarried. He was a man of house cozy and comfortable. music and art, a useful citizen in the community, a gentleman, an intel-

THE STATES THAT WERE.

(An irregular ballad inspired by an irregular proceeding, by John Kendrie Bangs.)

Harper's Weekly. O, where are the States, that used to be: New York, Dakota and Maine; Kentucky, and guod old Tennessee, The home of the liquid grain? Will grand old Texas come again? Will Rhody once more occur? Or green Vermont, with her hill and

O, where are the States that were? When Teddy retired the Union free From valley, and hill, and plain, And wiped them out with a one, two, three.

Like snowdrifts before the rain;
When out of the massive fertile brain
of Teddy's Prime Minister
There came the edict, men cried with pain: where are the States that were?"

They sought them upon the land and sea; They sought them in mountain chain; They sought them in mountain chain in valley, and glen right faithfully. In highway and country lane. In places sacred and eke profane; In lands of the pine and fir; Nor was that ardent seach in vain To locate the States that were.

For at all points of the weather-vane, O, President Roosevelt, sir, Those sovereigns State did yet remain Just as they used to were.

Mark Alexander, of Sharon, fell and broke its arm one day last week. The wound was dressed by Dr. L. W. Hunter and is doing nicely.
