Fables From Farm and Forest

THE PARROT, UNDER SENTENCE.

The owl was holding a criminal court for the birds, he being, by virtue of his long reputed wisdom and his dignified appearance, their judge. Among other prisoners brought to the bar was a parrot that had blundered into an escape and had been arrested in the woods for vagrancy. The court put the question, "To-who?" To-who? which means, "Pardon?" and the parrot pleaded guilty; whereupon the owl, under the penal statute by nature made and provided, adjudged that the offender be imprisoned a term of thirty days.

"Ah!" sighed the parrot, when he heard himself again in a cage. "I may now take my ease for thirty days!"

Justice can never become absolute so long as punishment for one is pleasure for another.

THE DELUDED OLD LADY.

There was an old lady under the delusion that at half-past eight o'clock on a certain Saturday morning she was fated to die. This she announced to her family and friends, that they might be at her bedside. She made herself neat with fresh linen and put her simple effects in order, and when a few neighbor women stole into the room, as is the manner of the living in the presence of the dead or dying, they found her on her pillow, palely regarding the clock and the corroborating sunbeam on the wall. The minute hand pitilessly approached the half-hour mark and the sunbeam sank toward the notch. Now it wanted a minute of the fated hour; now half a minute; now fifteen seconds; now it was half-past eight. The old lady had her eyes closed; she was pale; she seemed cold. But a neighbor woman felt of her heart, and, lo, it was beating.

The influence of mind on body is graciously limited.

THE SMALL LAD AND HIS BROTHER.

A lusty young woodman allowed his small brother to troop at his heels when he went to the forest to rive boards. He tested the grain of many pine before he settled himself to fell one. The small lad, entering the wood, paddling his feet, or lying on the leaves to watch the chips fly from his brother's axe. When the triangle had sunk to the heart of the pine on one side and nearly to its heart on the other; that is, when a gust of wind would have toppled the tree, the woodman called to the small boy, resigned the axe to him, told him where to strike, and, behold, the tree began to strain and crack, and the great pine crashed among its mighty neighbors to the ground. "See! See!" cried the small lad, astonished and delighted. "I have cut the big tree down, where even you had failed!"

Strength and patience are his who plants and ploughs, but the triumph song is on the lips of the harvester.

THE FLICKER AND THE BLUE-BIRD.

As a flicker flew across the pasture in long swoops and rises, he smelt in the south-wind that mating time was near. Obedient to his instinct, he sought at once an old pine stump and set in to bore him a hollow. The blue-bird, meanwhile, was occupied on the burr-trees and in the new furrows he, too, felt the prophecy in the air, but it did not provoke him to providence. When mating time came, he and the flicker wooed and won each his mate, but the flicker had headed his bride into a new home, made for and first to be occupied by her, while the tardy bluebird must needs make the best of a last-year's sapsucker's premises and draw upon his mate's affection for pardon.

Love's fall treasure is invaded by hardship and neglect.

THE TWO DOGS.

A certain farmer went daily at sunset to his pasture by a neighbor's curtilage, which was fenced with high palings. His dog always followed him, and he and the neighbor's dog fawned and snuggled at the palings to get at each other, as if they would each tear the other in pieces. One day a storm blew down a panel of the fencing. When the farmer that sunset saw it, he feared that might come of the dogs, whose tether had been long loosed and who might imagine his amusement when they satisfied themselves with a mere haughty look and low growls, and did not so much as fight at all.

Any coward will make as if to fight while he is being held.

THE FARMER AND THE STRANGER.

"Why do you labor with that old straight-framed plough?" asked a stranger of a farmer by the roadside, "when the hardware stores are supplied with modern ploughs, possessing many advantages over the old-fashioned cheap? You might lessen your toll and increase your productive capacity."

"I use this old plough now," replied the farmer, "because I used it ten years ago and at that time told my neighbors that it was the best of ploughs."

Consistency, for its own sake, is a vice.

THE YOUNG MAN AND THE FOOL.

"I am about to take a very important step in life," said a young man to a fool, and I crave your advice. "My advice would be of no account to you," said the fool. "There is a wise man within call, however, and, if you please, I will have him here and you may take counsel of him."

"Nay, nay, thou fool!" cried the young man, hastily. "I will with thee or nobody that I sought to advise."

When a man is set upon a doubtful venture, he persuades himself that he wants a supporting opinion, but he will hear no opinion strong enough to affect his purpose.

THE THOROUGHBRED AND THE PLUG.

At Happy Valley there was a fine racehorse, thoroughbred, sensible, kind, subject to the saddle and harness. He was the despair of all the other horses and mules that knew him, so beautiful and swift was he. When tied, it was his habit to rear back suddenly and snap his rein or halter and stand free. An old plug of

A POOR ORGAN.

Blame the bile. That's what your liver does if it's torpid. Then the bile overflows into the blood-poison your system causing skin-eruptions, biliousness, yellow skin, coated tongue, sick stomach, dizziness, fainting spells, etc. Hanson's treatment of Liver Pills and Bile Beans restores the liver and makes it do its own work. Prevents and cures these troubles. It also doesn't harm a hair on your head.

Relieved by Pe-ru-na After Three Years Suffering With Chronic Catarrh.

Rev. P. E. Swanstrom, Swedish Baptist Pastor, box 228, Grantsburg, Wis., writes: "I feel that it is my duty as well as pleasure to let you know that I am perfectly well, entirely cured of chronic diarrhoea and catarrh. I thank you for your directions how to use Peruna, and for your kindness to me."

"I have used Peruna according to your personal directions and I am very glad that I found a medicine which would cure me after three years suffering."

Rev. P. E. Swanstrom, Swedish Baptist Pastor, box 228, Grantsburg, Wis., writes:

"I have heard much of the great curative power of your Peruna, we concluded to try it. For colds and dyspepsia, we have found it to be an excellent remedy."

The vocation of preaching is a very trying one, especially to the throat and lungs. The preacher must stand before large audiences, frequently in well ventilated rooms, sometimes over heated, and other times filled with dangerous drafts. The preacher is frequently called upon to stand in such places and preside at a service an hour or more in length.

This is the most trying test that can possibly be put to the vocal organs. The liability to catarrh is very great. This is so universally true that the majority of preachers have catarrh, in more or less pronounced form.

Many preachers have found Peruna of use to them, to prevent as well as to relieve the catarrh ailments to which the preacher is constantly subjected.

Follicular pharyngitis has come to be a very common expression. It is sometimes called preacher's sore throat.

In reality, this affection is catarrhal pharyngitis. Hoarseness is generally due to catarrhal laryngitis. Chronic cough is generally due to catarrhal bronchitis. All these conditions beset the preacher, and are his constant liability the whole year round.

Notwithstanding the diffidence of the clergy to give public testimony to any remedy, yet a large number of them, impelled by gratitude, have expressed their high appreciation of Peruna as a remedy for this class of ailments.

Cold Settled on Lungs.

H. M. Turner, D. D., L. L. D., 80 Young St., Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I contracted a dreadful cold which settled on my lungs. I tried several remedies recommended by the doctors, but my condition grew worse until I was alarmed."

"I finally resorted to Peruna, and I find myself well again."

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF ANIMALS, THE BUCK AND THE BULL.

The general assembly of animals was in session, when news reached it that a certain buck, of the deer breed, and a certain bull, of the Durham breed, had been talking about it, each in his own way. It was offended, and appointed a committee of its members to hale the buck and the bull to a hearing and make them run their back track.

"Ha, ha!" they cried, the buck and the bull. "What is this? We will go at their call; but suppose we refuse to answer their questions? Or, answering their questions, suppose we reflect upon them? Are they not assembled to legislate, and will we pronounce judgment nor execute decrees. It is our belief," said the bull and the buck, "that they have done a vain thing, and that, if they find us guilty, they may punish us only by fist and skin. It is necessary in order to exact an unwilling obedience."

NEWS OF THE STATE CAPITAL.

Game Plaintiff This Season—Report on Public Schools—Charter Granted Sanitarium—Amount of Life Insurance Premiums.

Observer Bureau, The Holloman Building, Raleigh, March 9.

The action of the Legislature in taking a very large part of the earnings of the penitentiary came quite as a surprise to the Legislature, to the general public and of course to the penitentiary authorities themselves. The penitentiary and the insurance department are two of the great money makers of the state and both have made splendid records in the past seven years.

Chief Game Warden John W. Upchurch says that a great many birds escaped the guns last season and that in some sections partridges are extremely numerous. The open season ended in almost every county with February. Robbins are included in the same law and to-day the warden went out to make an arrest of the man who had been shooting tows.

Commissions were issued to-day to William A. Jackson and John S. Witt as first and second lieutenants of the Company, I. First Infantry, of the National Guard of this State.

A charter is granted the National Sanitarium Company, at Scayles, Macon county, capital stock $15,000. It is stated by Insurance Commissioner Young that the amount of life insurance premiums in this State for the last fiscal year of his department was $4,614,444; the losses $1,215,057. The life insurance premiums were $2,250,549, and the losses $1,071,115.

THE MASK OF THE FALSE LIFE.

No Helping Hand, But Everywhere the Reverse, Extended to the Man Who is Trying to Live Within His Means—Glimpse of a Downward Road.

To the Editor of The Observer:

I want to make a plea for the man who has a reasonable income and tries to live within it. His problem becomes greater as his children grow up around him and the expense of living increases. He needs help and he deserves it, for when you come to think of it, he is the bed-rock of our civilization, the supporter of law and order and, as a rule, the example of a clean life.

This help he needs against the hourly temptations to grant this or allow that to his family or to himself, to keep up with others, to whom shall he look for it? To his church? It would seem that it, or the members thereof, ought to be able to help him. But does it? On the contrary some of the most irresistible appeals come from that very source, appeals that tempt him most, appeals not always or alone through the eloquence of the preached to his religious duty or charitable instincts, but sometimes, it must be admitted, to his pride and vanity by methods some would rather not see employed.

That man of the class I am describing, who hasn't had the strength to resist these appeals, will also be found lacking in the power to withstand the temptations that come to him when the coils of debt tighten about his already weakened soul. The process of decline is as plain to reflective observers as the descent of the drunkard, although it may be less spectacular. First there comes a hardening in his dealings with his fellows, a feeling that the world owes him a living, a growing recklessness in the management of his affairs, ending in speculation, gambling, or worse.

In view of this well-known fact, I venture the deliberate statement, that he who induces a man to assume obligations that he is unable to meet, without a revolution in his manner of living, is guilty of as great a wrong as one who tempts another with drink. If one tends to lead to habits which destroy the body and ultimately the soul, the pressure of debt upon a man who is led into it through pride and vanity tends equally to destroy the soul. There is more hope to the community, to morality and to religion from the drunkard, than there is from the gambler and the thief.

Fortunately for the good of humanity, all men who drink do not become drunkards, and all who have been led to assume debts they cannot pay, do not become gamblers or thieves. The world over, good people are trying to help men and women ### who are disposed towards drunkenness, and some drunkards are now leading in this fight.

Public sentiment had lessened this evil before the great activity of recent years began. But, so far as I know, there is no helping hand extended to the man who is trying to live within his means. Society demands more from him, public charity demands more, and the church demands more. Infatuated and excited advocates of various schemes of cupidity and uplift ridicule or abuse him in ignorance of what he may be doing in directions out of their narrow line of vision, and the only help he has is direct from God Almighty and his own inherited backbone.

I make a plea for this man who saves us from the grinning mask of the false life.

RACE PROBLEM VANISHING.

The Observer's Opposition to the Attempt to Get Together a Conference of Representatives of Southern States Appreciated—Would Have Filled the Negroes With Dread.

To the Editor of The Observer:

I trust I am not taking an unwarranted liberty in writing this letter to say please accept a thousand thanks for your editorial, "No Confederate Congress," and also for your habitual brave, fair stand on the race question. In ignorance of what he may be doing in directions out of their narrow line of vision, and the only help he has is direct from God Almighty and his own inherited backbone.

I make a plea for this man who saves us from the grinning mask of the false life.

Bishop Holsey's Strong Tribute to Pe-ru-na.

L. H. Holsey, Bishop, C. M. E. Church, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I have found Peruna to be a great remedy for catarrh. I have suffered with this terrible disease for more than twenty years, until since I have been using Peruna, which has relieved me of the trouble."

"I have tried many remedies and spent a great deal of hard earned money for them, but I found nothing so effective in the cure of catarrh as the great medicine, Peruna."

"I feel sure that Peruna is not only a triumph of medical science, but it is a blessing to suffering humanity."

"Every individual who suffers with respiratory diseases will find Peruna to be a magnificent and sovereign remedy."

Convicted of the Merits of Pe-ru-na.

Rev. Dr. Josiah Getz, 47 Park Ave., Albany, N. Y., for years a Rabbi of the Hebrew Synagogue, but now retired, writes: "I am fully convinced of the merits of Peruna in cases of colds and catarrh, and as a general tonic."

"I have taken it off and on now for several years and always find that it is very effective in restoring lost strength and appetite, and very effective in ridding the system of colds. I gladly endorse it."

Rev. J. G. Duker, pastor of the Unitarian Church, of Pinetown, N. C., writes: "My wife has been in a very bad state of health for several years, and nothing seemed to do her any good until she began to use Peruna one month ago. Since then the color has returned to her face, and she is gaining in flesh every day, and I believe she is a well woman to-day."

Many Would Be Saved From Death If Pe-ru-na Were Kept in the House.

Rev. H. Stubenvoll, of Elkhorn, Wis., is pastor of the St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church of that place. Rev. Stubenvoll is the possessor of two Bibles presented to him by Emperor William of Germany. Upon the fly leaf of one of the Bibles the Emperor has written in his own handwriting a text.

This honored pastor, in a recent letter to The Peruna Drug Mfg Co., of Columbus, Ohio, says:

"I had hemorrhages of the lungs for a long time, and all despaired of me. I took Peruna and was cured. It gave me strength and courage, and made healthy, pure blood. It increased my weight, gave me a healthy color, and I feel well. It is the best medicine in the world. If everyone kept Peruna in the house it would save many from death every year."
