"Do you know," gaid the elevator boy, "I didn't know till to-day that we built elevators"

He was addressing the night watchman, who was coming in. "Let me tell you, my hop," said the watchman, "there's a whole lot we do here you haven't found out yet. "The elevator we shipped to-day was a regular daudy. The engo was shipped out of the wood shop and the running gear and appare out of the Dilworth shop. When I was surprised Billy isughed at me and said he used to sell elevators for the company when he was elevator boy on this elevator."

"We make elevators all right,"said the watchman, "but don't you listen too much to what Billy says. He's liable to tell you he's bought one of the Pyramids in Egypt. What else have you shipped to-day?"

"Four yarn recis went out and a whole lot of hangers and pulleys. It stumps me what people do with so many pulleys. Every day it's pulleys and hangers, hangers and pulleys going out. Big pulleys, little pulleys, split pulleys, and then there's hangers, couplings and set cellars. Gears is also a big item. All kinds of wheels, in fact."

"Sounds like business is moying," said the wate

"It's worse than moving-it's humming. People like to send us orders because we deliver the goods on time," said the boy. "We be the railroads all to pieces on delivering machinery, and we make the machinery, too."

"How's the roller covering shop getting along?" asked the watch-
