THE CORONER'S VERDICT. Stephenson Was Killed by Kimball With a Gun. The coroner's inquest in the Stephenson-Kimball case was concluded yesterday afternoon. The jury found that Stephenson came to his death by a blow on the head with a gun barrel in the hands of Kimball.

Mr. Oscar Hunter, who testified Monday, was recalled. He said that Kimball admitted to him that he had killed Stephenson in a hand to hand fight which followed the attempt of the latter to outrage the wife of the prisoner. Another witness said that he saw Stephenson chase Mrs. Kimball in the house.

Messrs. McNinch & Kirkpatrick, attorneys for Kimball, will ask for bond for him, and it is believed that they will get it. The story printed in The Observer of last Tuesday was substantially true.
