The Wedded State. would be much more harmonious and happy if a woman would believe less of what a man tells her before marriage, more of what he tells her afterwards, and insist on a proper and reasonable amount of life insurance. Let no false modesty prevent your demanding of your husband a reasonable amount of insurance on his life, payable directly to you, in the event of his death. It is your right. No other classes of persons have received such benefits from life insurance as women and children, as it is for their benefit that nearly all life insurance is taken.

No company in the world offers greater certainty of payment than the Equitable. This is the first consideration in life insurance. No company can furnish safer life insurance at a permanently lower cost than the Equitable.
