No Thue to Make Political Cupital. Statesville Mascot.

This is a serious time in the affairs of North Carolina. Much more so than is generally supposed and while we have a State law that must be en-forced and upheld yet this is no time for the demagogue, whether in the press, on the stump or in the court coom.! This is no time for dissensions among North Carolinians of whateve political opinion and the man who will attempt to make political capital out of the situation should be frowned upon by his fellow-men.

hand to participate in the meeting. A REPLY TO THE MULE PEN.

The Observer's Salisbury Correspond-ent Gives Setting to the Isaac-Rebecca Affair, a Confusion Between an Ideal Courtship and an Ideal Marriage Having Arisen in His Mind-He Favors a Long Courtship. 'e the Editor of The Observer:

The Mule Pen doesn't often know what It is talking about, but when it says the Salisbury correspondent knows more theology than to ascribe fourteen years theology than to ascribe fourteen years of courting, to the late lamented Isaac, when he never even had to ask the girl or the old man, there is a notable ex-ception. In fact excess of scriptural and theological knowledge, coupled with the rush of the night and the intense indis-rosition of knowledge one to communicate position of knowing ones to communicate the consummation of the antique court-ship, caused a fall down that many less learned students than your correspond-ont might have avoided. Of course the Mule Pen never read it, because it is too peretical a convention, but others will remember in the Episcopal Book of Com-mon Prayer the benediction asked for married couples. This is found in the mor Prayer the benediction asked for married couples. This is found in the parsons perform and keep the vows and covenant betwixt them made," etc. It was an easy error to confuse an ideal courtship with an ideal marriage. The Mule Pen was generous (and this is appreciated) when it vouched for its correspondent's theological lore. It did him an injustice, however, when it said "he once thought he had a call to preach, but was mistaken." leaving the public to infer that chronic laxiness or something worse was his only recommendation. Truth is, he is in favor of long and Bib-ical courtships, such comradeships as give each a chance to learn the other's irump cards, even it some of the enthus-insm is consumed in the preparation. W. THOMAS BOST. Salisbury, July 20.
