

From Congress to Governor

BY SAVOYARD.
James E. Watson is a leader in Congress, a fine public speaker, an excellent organizer, the Republican whip, and the personal representative of the Republican Speaker on the floor of the House, where a good deal of dirty work has to be done and all must admit that the Hon. Watson does it with fairly clean hands, especially when the job is as filthy as that ship subsidy deal.

There was a time when to be Governor of a sovereign State of this Union was a much bigger office than to be a member of Congress, but that was when the Federal power was a great deal modest than it is now. Henry Clay left the United States Senate to take a seat in the Kentucky Legislature. I believe something like that happened to Caleb Cushing, though he retired from the National House to go to the Massachusetts Legislature. De Witt Clinton was Senator in Congress and mayor of New York at the same time, and he regarded the best lawyer in the State and the greatest debater of his time. He was nominated for Governor and very nearly elected. It was understood that Vallandigham was to be Senator if the Legislature was Democratic. The main issue was whether the word "no" in the suffrage clause of the Ohio constitution was to be interpreted as 50,000 majority, and the word is in that constitution to this day. Thurman made such a splendid race for Governor that he was given the Senatorship by Vallandigham had earned. It was a calamity all around. Had Thurman been elected Governor it would have been the last of R. B. Hayes; Vallandigham would have been sent to the Senate, whence, I have little doubt, he would have gone to the White House.

Proctor Knott might have remained in Congress to this day had he not sought the Senatorship through the Governor's mansion. John W. Stevenson got to the Senate by that route, but Leslie, McCreary, Knott, Buckner, and John Young Brown all failed, as did W. O. Bradley on the other side of the political hedge. It is true that Governor Beckham is nominated for Senator in a fairly manly way, but wonderfully conceited and conducted, but Governor Beckham is not yet Senator. Benton McMillin's is a case in point. He came to Congress in 1879 and was made a pet by the set headed by William H. Morrison and that had for its members Carlisle, Mills, Hurd, and Tucker, later reinforced by Turner, the Breckenridges, Wilson, and men like those. He got a knowledge of the tariff by absorption, and became a member of ways and means. They used to send for him to go North and instruct them on political economy and as long as he confined himself to the tariff he did very well indeed. The Democratic party, God bless it, is a composite of Philip Sidney, Roger de Coverley, Baron Bradwardine, Wilkins Misawber, and Tam O' Shanter. Now it is the Tooth Legion that saved great Caesar, and now it is the squad whose Falstaff refused to go through Coventry with it, and finally human it has the simplicity and the abiding confidence of the honest country gentleman that thinks not, knows not, and cannot understand guile. Is it not written: Verily I say unto you: Whosoever shall not receive the Kingdom of God as a little child, shall in no wise enter therein. That is the way the Democratic party receives everything. It will be the same mouth for crow as for chicken, the same palate for fall as for nectar. That is what makes it immortal, and that is what makes it the pudgy and the anchor of this mighty republic. Be ye of good cheer; it will escape the wilderness where it was interred in the struggle of 1896.

Well, Benton McMillin had a heap to do with it. In 1890 the American people were contrite for their defeat of Grover Cleveland in 1888, and they were outraged because of the enormities of the first Tom Reed Congress. The grave voice of their petitions and their disgust in the complete victory for the Democracy in the entire history of our republic, before or since. If the South had been silent in the Fifty-second Congress, the Democrats had a majority of the Northern members and the South was solid with a possible minority not exceeding three. Who did it? Cleveland, Carlisle, Mills, the Breckenridges, Turner, Wilson, and that set. A race came on for Speaker. Had the House been convened in March 1891, not ten votes would have been cast against Roger Q. Mills in the Democratic caucus. Morrison had been put out of Congress by Pittsburg tariff boulder. Carlisle had been sent to fill Beck's shoes in the Senate. The inevitable, the logical, the one possible Speaker was Roger Q. Mills, who stood for the idea.

Benton McMillin had about as much chance for Speaker as I had to be Pop of Rome. Yet combinations began to form in 1891 with a single object—to beat for the nomination the only Democrat who could be elected President of the United States, and it would have succeeded, if a similar combination had not been triumphant in 1890. Crisp was the favorite of the combination that was captained by Tammany Hall, David B. Hill and Arthur F. Gorham. McMillin, all of whose eggs were in the Mills basket, was induced to run under the persuasion

The Question Box

J. P. N.—Will you kindly print a sketch of Niebuhr, the German who wrote a history of Rome, etc?
A. Bathold Georg Niebuhr was born at Copenhagen August 17, 1776; died at Bonn, Prussia, January 24, 1831. A celebrated German historian, philologist and critic, son of Karsten Niebuhr. He was in the civil service of Denmark until 1806, and in that of Prussia 1806-10; was lecturer at the University of Berlin; was Prussian ambassador at Rome 1816-23, and became lecturer at the University of Bonn in 1823. His chief work, Romische Geschichte (Roman History, three volumes, 1811-33; English translation by Hare and Thirlwall), on the earlier history of Rome, produced a revolution in the study of Roman history. His Kleine Schriften (minor writings), were published 1823-43.

A. C. M.—What two States have the largest colored population? (2) Is Blanche K. Bruce the only negro to be elected to the United States Senate? (3) Of what State was he a native?
A. Georgia and Mississippi. (2) There have been three negro Senators—Bruce and Revels, of Mississippi, and Pinchback, of Louisiana. (3) He was born a slave, probably in Mississippi.

School Boy.—What causes a halo around the moon at times? (2) What letters of the alphabet should be the same height in writing? (3) Which is the heaviest, the sun or the earth, and if the earth is heaviest how does the sun hold it? (4) What is the length of the Canadian Pacific and the Siberian Railroads? (5) Can a noun be in the first person? Give an example?
A. It is due to the atmosphere. (2) Ask your teacher. (3) The bulk of the sun is that of 1,273,000 earths, and its weight is 325,000 times that of the earth. (4) The Canadian Pacific has 8,776 miles of track; the Siberian is over 4,000 miles long. (5) A noun is always in the third person.

C. P. C.—I have a large meadow that has been badly infested with grasshoppers for several years past. Directions how to destroy them will be highly appreciated. (2) Where can I procure books devoted to the cultivation of vegetables, the best means of canning, and the name of some paper that is helpful to a grower of peas or peanuts?
A. So far as I know there is no way to get rid of grasshoppers, but if any reader can suggest a remedy it will be printed in this column. (2) I cannot suggest any book relating to true gardening, but there are many periodicals from which help may be derived—such as Southern Farmer, Athens, Ga.; Southern Cultivator, Atlanta, Ga.; Farmer's Advocate or Kansas Farmer, Topeka, Kans.; Farmer and Gardener, Chattanooga, Tenn., etc. Help as to the cultivation of peanuts and other crops may be had from the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

E. R. P.—Is there any market for pipe clay?
A. Consult makers of pipes, whose names can be obtained from dealers in smokers' materials.
P. C. G.—How was money kept and handled in Arkansas a hundred and a hundred and fifty years ago? (2) When was Arkansas colonized or settled, and by what people? (3) What States would be the best in which to look for hidden treasures?
A. French money was the "coin of the realm" in Arkansas at that period, when barter largely took the place that money now fills. Except that there were no banks, I suppose money was kept and handled as it is to-day. (2) Settled by the French in 1804. (3) Help as to the territory in 1886. (3) I have no knowledge of any buried treasure, and if I did I should not "give it away."

J. H.—How is tobacco prepared to make cigars?
A. The natural leaves are used, being first divested of the stems.

J. W. P.—What is the value of an American copper cent of 1869 and 1817? (2) What was the greatest Christian martyr of the reformation? (3) Who is considered the greatest protestant preacher in America today? (4) What city in the South has made the greatest progress since 1900?
A. The cent of 1869 is quoted at 5 to 50 cents. (2) It cannot be said; there are no known degrees in being burned to death. (3) No man is great until he is dead. (4) There are no statistics covering dates so recent. There are many Southern cities that have made wonderful progress in this time.

L. S.—I have a violin with the inscription "Antonius Stradivarius Cremonensis, factus Anno 1784," and the words "Belini Violin" is shown back of the head. What is it worth and where can I sell it?
A. If the instrument is a genuine Stradivarius it is worth a great deal of money, but there are many imitations which are worthless. Show it to a player whose judgment is worth something, and if thought worth while get it into the hands of a dealer.

R. W. S.—Your inquiry is too fragmentary for reply. The value of a coin of 1774 depends much on what metal it is made of, and where.

G. G.—Are any others than Chinese barred from naturalization in this country?
A. While the Chinese are the only race specifically barred by statute, several other races have been decided against by the courts—Japanese, Indians, Mexicans, etc. Under a recent ruling by Richard K. Campbell, chief of the Bureau of Naturalization, a Japanese cannot under existing laws become a citizen of the United States.

W. J. F.—I am much given to sneezing, and sometimes it is very annoying. Is there any way to prevent it?
A. Pressing hard on the upper lip will generally answer the purpose. Ordinarily it is better to sneeze. Sneezing frequently clears a "stopped-up" nose. In old times people took snuff to make them sneeze. Sneeze as often as you can when you don't disturb anybody.

F. J.—What is the method of pasteurizing milk?
A. The process consists in heating milk in closed vessels to a temperature ranging from 65 to 80 degrees for a sufficient time to kill the organisms contained in it, the best results being obtained when the milk is reheated 24 to 28 hours after the first heating, the jars having been kept closed. Milk thus treated will keep without undergoing the usual fermentation so long as the cans are kept closed and the access of germs is thus prevented.

G. B. D.—What day was Dec. 21st, 1886? And what is the horoscope of one born on that day—also April 21st?
A. Tuesday. Active and not easily to become acquainted with, fearless and loyal to friends. April 21st, good reasoner, fond of order, difficult to drive or force.

D. E. B.—How can I make a pasty substance which may fill the cracks in a floor, and then harden and take paint?
A. Soak newspapers in a paste made of half a pound of alum, half a pound of flour and three quarts of water, mixed and boiled. This mixture, which should be as thick as putty, may be forced into cracks in floors or walls with a case knife. It is said to harden like paper mache, nearly and permanently filling spaces to which it is applied.

A. H.—The negro population of the country nearly doubled from 1870 to 1900, the date of the last census.
