

FUNERAL OF MR. JORDAN

IMMENSE THROUG ATTENDED

Floral Designs Most Lavish and Beautiful, Coming From Numerous Individuals, Fraternal Orders and Board of Deacons of the First Baptist Church...

"As pastor of this man, I cannot trust myself to speak of him now" - Rev. Herman H. Hulken, D. D. "One of the most beautiful characteristics of Mr. Jordan was his devotion to his pastors, all of whom he befriended..."

"During my pastorate of 14 years in this city, he was one of the best, if not the best, friend I ever had. He not only loved his fellowmen in his community and his own country, but he was a friend of the unsaved man across the water. He was a missionary..."

These were the tributes spoken yesterday afternoon as the last and most impressive of the funeral services for Henry Jordan were being performed in the First Baptist church before an audience that uncomfortably crowded that building. A sadder occasion is not now remembered, a funeral service more largely attended passes the recollection of old inhabitants, and floral designs more exquisitely beautiful more perfectly designed, or more lavishly bestowed have seldom, if ever, encompassed and covered the bier of any citizen of Charlotte.

The attestations of words and tears and flowers stamped all claims of the man's character with the seal of genuineness. It was said of him that he was a friend to all classes of people, that his charity knew no limit. The enormous throng coming from all ranks of life to attend his funeral substantiates this claim. It was said of him that he was the most lovable and kindest disposed citizen of Charlotte. Tears flowing unrestrained from men and women and little children, exhibited the fact that those who in times past had come under his influence had been touched with the spirit of gentleness and kindness which he exhales. It was, further more, said of him that in his daily conduct the principles of the religion he professed were openly demonstrated. The presence of leading ministers of the city, and churchmen from every denomination evidenced the sympathy and sincerity of his religious avowals.

MR. JORDAN'S FAVORITE HYMN. After the choir sang Mr. Jordan's favorite selection, "My Hope is Fixed on Nothing Less," Rev. Dr. J. Q. Adams led in a beautiful prayer, particularly in behalf of the intimate bereaved ones. Mrs. W. A. Graham, who feebly rendered a solo, "Face to Face," and immediately after this song, the pastor, Rev. Dr. Hulken stated that the deceased was a great friend of all the ministers of the city, and especially those of the Baptist denomination, for the reason he deemed it fitting that as many of these as possible should be given a place in the informal service. He called on Rev. Mr. Pruett, who is the oldest pastor in the city in point of service.

REV. MR. PRUETT SPEAKS. "The friendship of the man whose loss we mourn this afternoon extended in every direction," said Mr. Pruett. "It was exhibited in the business and social life of the city. I spent more of my 'idle moments in his drug store than in any other place in the city. During all of my fourteen years pastorate here, this brother was one of the best, if not the best, friends I ever had. Nine years ago I was ill with typhoid fever. Mr. Jordan, acting for himself entirely, hired a trained nurse, and at his own expense, kept her at my bedside until I recovered. For that service he never would take a cent. His was a life of charity. Very frequently I have heard of how he would instruct the physicians to dispense on prescriptions sent to his store the needs of patients, and he would send them medicine without cost. This is charity unobserved, charity that vauntheth not itself; charity that is not puffed up. He was one of the most liberal men I ever knew. He told me that he had given away every cent he had made for the past 8 or 10 years. His friendship was largely extended, and most beautifully, into his Christian life. He was profoundly interested in the work of his church and was a friend to every other church in the city. He was a missionary, and gave largely of his means for such work."

MR. CONRAD'S TRIBUTE. Rev. D. M. Austin read a tribute from Rev. S. F. Conrad, who was detained from the service on account of sickness. He spoke particularly of the charity and loyalty of the deceased in his Christian life, saying among other things: "He never gave with a slack hand, no matter what the cause which presented itself to him. Another characteristic was his adaptation to people of all conditions. He kept in close touch with the Christian people of the city, and at the same time mingled and enjoyed the comradeship of those who made no pretensions of religion."

REV. D. M. AUSTIN SPEAKS. "I have known Mr. Jordan for 23 years and during all that life I counted him my friend," said Rev. D. M. Austin. "I have known him in all his relationships and have always found that he was a Christian gentleman. It gave him a great pleasure to be of service to his friends. I admired him for his liberality, not only with his means, but with his views. Those who differed with him in his convictions did not lose his confidence, his friendship nor his kindness. It was my privilege to speak with him on a number of occasions, and while I have always made it a practice to say nothing at a man's funeral that I would not say to him face to face, I do want to say of him that he cherished high hopes of the life beyond and his glorious expectations of his joys and rewards."

HIS INHERENT QUALITIES. "The likable and lovable characteristics of the man were inherent with him," said Dr. J. Q. Adams, who was the last speaker. "I was his mother's pastor and knew his father intimately while I was serving a pastorate in Chester county. His father was a Christian of the old school and always gave diligence to the work of the church. The deceased inherited his religious instincts and his devotion to his parents was one of the most striking traits. His mother said to me once: 'Bobbie never forgot to send me a check every month. He was the favorite of the family, the one who was so distinctly marked the hour of both his mother and father being definitely marked in his own make-up. He inherited the strength of his father's"

DEATH OF MR. ELIOTT.

Well-Known Citizen of the County Passes Away After a Long Illness. Funeral This Morning at 11 O'clock at Ebenezer Church.

The announcement came not unexpectedly yesterday that Mr. John W. Elliott, a well-known citizen of the county, had passed away at his home near Ebenezer church early in the morning. Mr. Elliott suffered injuries several weeks ago by falling from a wagon loaded with hay, and since that occurrence has been confined to his bed practically all the time, partial paralysis having seized him shortly after the accident. For the past two weeks, those who ministered to his needs realized that the end of the struggle was near, and Wednesday he suffered a lapse of consciousness from which there came no recovery.

Mr. Elliott was a son of the late Samuel Harvey and Mary Withers Elliott and was born 54 years ago. He lived all his life on his father's old plantation six miles south of the city, where he was successfully engaged in farming. He was married to Miss Margaret Boyce near Winnsboro, S. C., and to them were born four children. These are: Boyce Elliott, of Fort Mill, S. C., and Messrs. Willis, Harvey and Charles Elliott, all of whom, with their mother, survive. Mr. James A. Elliott, of this city, and Messrs. C. P. Elliott and Samuel H. Elliott, of the county, also survive. One brother, Mr. Thomas Benjamin Elliott, died several years ago. The deceased was also preceded to the grave by four well-known sisters, who were Mesdames William W. Pogram, Jerusha Morrow, Louise Smith and Adeline I. Orr, all of this county.

The deceased for many years had been a consistent member of the Ebenezer A. R. P. church and served in the capacity of deacon for a long time. The funeral services will be conducted this morning at 11 o'clock at the church by the pastor, Rev. Dr. G. R. White. The pallbearers will be as follows: Messrs. W. E. Throver, T. L. Kirkpatrick, Edward M. Bell, Clifford Bell, J. William Elliott, R. H. Elliott, Pink Morrow and W. N. Peoples.

Mr. Wheeler's Loss. Mr. O. D. Wheeler, whose residence caught fire Wednesday afternoon, stated yesterday that his loss would amount to much more than the $1,500 damage was done through fire, water and breakage of furniture. Several valuable and highly prized pieces of house furnishings were thrown from the windows and totally broken to fragments during the excitement. The private fire department of the American Machine & Manufacturing Co. and the Southern Cotton Oil Company rendered efficient service in subduing the flames.

Basketball. The Southerners and the Mystic Five are scheduled to contest in a match game of basketball at the Young Men's Christian Association to-morrow night at 8:30 o'clock. Both teams are very fast and a great game of ball is predicted. The line-up will be as follows: Southerners: Green and Willmann, forward; J. W. Kirby and Stewart, guards; W. C. Hinson, centre. Mystic Five: Benlot and Calder, forwards; W. C. Kirby and King, guards; Clark, centre.

Catarrh. Cold in head, Hay Fever, rapidly infects the mucous membrane of the throat, and leads to graver complications, unless promptly attended to. We recommend King's Sarsaparil internally to purify the blood, and direct treatment with Dr. King's Catarrh Remedy (a douche comes with each bottle). It gains a foothold from which it is hard to dislodge. With treatment of these two medicines any ordinary case will yield quickly—the very worst cases will be greatly relieved. The price, $1.00; three for $2.50, guaranteed. Sold by Burwell & Dunn.

Rev. William B. Sample, a Native of the Village of Charlotte, Dies in Bellingham, Wash., After a Church Service of Many Years. News of the death of Rev. William Addison Sample, D. D., a well-known minister of the Presbyterian Church in the State of Washington, and a native of Charlotte, has reached this city, in the form of an article in The Reveille, a daily newspaper of Bellingham, Wash., the city in which he died. A copy of the paper of the 5th was sent by Mr. John Calder, who formerly lived here, to Mr. Archibald Graham. The article says in part: "Ending a career as a minister that extended over a period of forty years, death came to Rev. William Addison Sample, D. D., yesterday evening at 11:45 o'clock in the temporary home in the Schering block in South Bellingham. Heart disease was the cause of the death. Rev. Mr. Sample was one of the best-known pastors in the western part of the State and had reached the age of 79 years when he passed away. Forty years ago he was ordained and began work as a missionary in the church at Fort Worth, Ark.

"Rev. Mr. Sample was born in Charlotte, North Carolina, June 25th, 1828. After graduating from the Hanover College at Hanover, Indiana, he went through the Danville Theological Seminary at Danville, Kentucky, and then took up active work as a preacher of the Gospel. In his first pastorate at Fort Worth, Ark., he spent 25 years of his life. Leaving Fort Worth he went to Memphis, Tenn., where he acted as pastor of the Third Presbyterian church for three years and then returned to Fort Worth. In 1858 Mr. Sample started for the West. He remained in the State of California, preaching at different places, for about a year. Later he came to Washington."

Mr. Sample was first united in marriage to Miss Ellen Dodge, of Little Rock, Ark. Two children, survive: Ruth Laraway, of Centralia, Wash., who was with him at the time of his death. Probably there are few in Mecklenburg county who recall Mr. Sample, but here and there will be a white-haired grandpa who will remember.

There Mr. and Mrs. Suther had made their home. Rev. H. K. Boyer, pastor of Tryon Street Methodist church, and Rev. EDISON'S GREATEST INVENTION! is probably not the Mimeograph but there are few things that have ever been invented in the line of office devices that surpass it in usefulness to the average business man. Circular letters, quotations, instructions to agents, etc., are constantly being sent out, at considerable expense if the printer does it, to say nothing of the delay. A thousand letters can be printed and mailed long before the average printer will send you the proof for corrections.

The New Rotary Mimeograph is wonderful in its simplicity and the quality of its work. Drop in and see it at work any time this week, or a special representative of the factory will be glad to demonstrate it to you in your office.
