Henry Blount To-morrow Night.

The lecture of Henry Blount at the Tenth Avenue Presbyterian church to-morrow night will be a treat to those who have heard this gifted man before, as well as to those who have not heard him. His wit, humor, eloquence and oratory are well worth hearing and richly deserve such a tribute as the following paid him by Capt. C. B. Denson: "He waved the magician's wand of genius, and all felt the potency of his spell. His apostrophe to the valor of the Confederate soldier and the patriotism of woman surpassed in beauty and eloquence and impressive oratory anything I have ever heard. Every Confederate soldier should be thrilled with pride that there is a Henry Blount who can speak in fitting terms of their valor and daring, and every woman should be proud to know there is such a word painter to trace in such rich and rare and exquisite colors the royalty of her womanhood."

"Cupid's Pranks" at Theatro.

"Cupid's Pranks," a first-class picture, which attracted much attention at the Theatro yesterday, will be on exhibition again to-morrow by special arrangement. The picture is not only amusing but exceedingly pretty in design and execution. It is one of the good pictures of the season.

Intemperance in Eating.

Youth's Companion. It is in eating that there is more intemperance than in any other of man's indulgences. It would surprise and grieve many a man, who would not touch a drop of liquor to save his life, to be told that he was as intemperate as the greatest slave of alcohol, yet there are numbers of just such persons. They will eat three hearty meals a day with meat, and drink one or two cups of coffee or tea with each meal, and perhaps nibble at little "snacks" between meals, besides taking a bite—and a good big one—before retiring, and yet scorn the man who drinks however moderately, anything containing alcohol. One need not praise the drinker, who deserves no praise, in saying that the ever-eater is the greater sinner.

The Biggest Hit of the Season, Cupid's Pranks, at Theatro again Monday.

Dissolution Notice.

The firm of Perkins & Jordan, proprietors of the Central Hotel, has been dissolved by mutual consent. Mr. Perkins retiring. All accounts will be collected by Mr. Jordan and all debts settled by him.

ETHICS OF ENGRAVING

Engraving is not a matter of conjecture. It is either correct or incorrect. The house which keeps you in a state of uncertainty with an order is never satisfactory. Placing an order here insures you the correct engraving—style and form. Our Spring styles of stationary are now on exhibition; let us show you samples of wedding invitations and visiting cards, which we send free. J. P.
