

ENDING OF STRANGE LIFE

CAREER OF PINK BERRYHILL.

Familiar Character Who Has Been on the Streets of Charlotte So Long That the Memory of Old-Time Residents Remains in Hospital Where He Was Taken After Injuries on Southern Tracks—A Man Who Has Begged Probably For Half a Century—Seemingly Hoarded the Proceeds of His Begging and Has Comfortable Sum Secured.

Funeral services over the remains of Pink Berryhill, the aged white man, who was struck by a train Saturday and died at an early hour yesterday morning, will be conducted at 9 o'clock this morning by Rev. Dr. R. C. Holland, chaplain of Mecklenburg Camp, United Confederate Veterans. The pall-bearers will be chosen from the ranks of this little band of old soldiers and the interment will be in Elmwood. The old man who lived the beggar-life exclusively will be given a decent burial by friends and sympathizers. The Southern Railway Company will provide all the money necessary for a respectable interment.

Berryhill's life from beginning to end ran an uneven course. It is somewhat remarkable that the tragedy which hung over him during his earthly career, from day to day, did not desert him in the supreme hour, and after coming through fortune, he died and was buried in the same way as a pauper. He was a native of Mecklenburg county, and his father was a farmer and a carpenter. He was a native of Mecklenburg county, and his father was a farmer and a carpenter.

Berryhill was a native Mecklenburg, so far as anybody around here seems to know. He was a working man, when Squire H. C. Sevier was the governor. He was a native of Mecklenburg county, and his father was a farmer and a carpenter.

REVIVAL MEETING BEGINS.

Rev. Dr. G. W. McDaniel, of Richmond, Va., Preaches First Sermon at First Baptist Church—An Impressive Service.

The special evangelistic meeting began last night at the First Baptist church. There was a large congregation present. After a spirited song service, Rev. Dr. George W. McDaniel preached on the "Conditions of Pentecostal Power," naming particularly earnestness, purpose and prayer.

"I sometimes fear that prayer is almost a lost art and that men value prayer to-day chiefly because of its reflex influence. It was not so with the disciples and the women who prayed at Pentecost. They believed that somehow prayer is the power which moves the arm of God. Hudson Taylor was converted in a distant city through the prayers of his mother. Some years ago at Acacia, Texas, a fire destroyed the little Baptist church, leaving the lot heavily mortgaged. This lot with the blackened ruins of the church was put up for sale. But the women prayed all night that in some way deliverance might come to the little town on business and the next morning, through curiosity, while awaiting the coming of the train, attended the sale. One of them bought the lot and directed that the deed be made to the trustees of the church. The stranger was George J. Gould, of New York. Some men call this chance, but I call it prayer."

At the conclusion of the service very many called forward and signified their purpose to join in earnest prayer for the conversion of souls. It was indeed a responsive congregation. Dr. McDaniel is a man of splendid presence, a strong voice, decided eloquence and earnest, winsome personality. The services to-night will begin at 7:45 o'clock.

BRITT HAS STRONG BACKING.

His Endorsement For Governor Creates Considerable Interest—Ella Mack, Judge Pritchard and DeWitt Prohibition Speeches—Elks to Build a Home.

Special to The Observer. Asheville, March 2.—The endorsement by the Republicans of Buncombe county Saturday of James J. Britt, of Asheville, for the republican nomination for Governor has created considerable interest in the Republican circle in other Buncombe and other western counties. The statement is made that Mr. Britt has a strong following in both central as well as western counties and that the tenor of the heroic heroism, the noble heroism, is played by Stephanie Longfellow, the grand niece of the poet. Miss Longfellow though a very young girl, is described as possessing considerable skill and a very strong and charming. The genial Judge, sterling gentleman of the old southern school, is a character which has been entrusted to George Miller, who has played Colonel Moberly in "Alabama" more than 100 times.

The play and the book from which its story was taken, are too well known to make description of the plot necessary. "Checkers," the book, is the hero in hero times. "Checkers" the play ends with him standing on the threshold of a happy future. The story is a pretty one, strong and sympathy compelling as well as simple. As an example of an American play written about incidents of everyday American life and told in the words of everyday speech, it is nothing short of a classic. Its sentiment is honest and wholesome, and its dramatic incidents are presented in a natural and very stirring way. There can be no one in the audience who is not keenly interested as the race in the Derby Day scene near its end, meaning so very much to Checkers, will unfold the full clean story of a young man beginning in hard luck, but winning out in the end and possessing the sympathy of his audience from first to last. A new set of scenes has been furnished for this season and the same management which has handled "Checkers" from the beginning, promises a performance quite up to the high plane of excellence which it obtained here.

Seats are now selling at Hawley's. DOCKSTADER'S MINSTRELS. The old adage, "That there is nothing new under the sun," will be found to have been completely shattered when Charlotte theatre-goers witness the performance to be given at the Academy of Music next Saturday, matinee and night, when Lew Dockstader and his great minstrel Twelfth Street band will appear. The Dockstader show is always a matter of interest. Last, but not least, must be mentioned the individual effort of Lew Dockstader himself this year called "A Day in the White House," in which the imperious, no less an individual than the President and shows the workings in Teddy's office during one day at Washington. The ensemble from a scenic standpoint, also in the most artistic manner, is absolutely new and represents an expenditure of $25,000.

MR. CRAIG TO ADDRESS LEAGUE. Invited to Speak at Wayneville March 13th—Meeting of Anti-Liquor People. Correspondence of The Observer. Wayneville, March 1.—This afternoon at 3 o'clock the Haywood county Anti-Liquor League held a very interesting meeting in the court house. It was well attended by the prohibition workers of Wayneville and community. Rev. W. H. Woodall, of Chide, presided over the meeting and Prof. G. C. Briggs was secretary. Rev. W. H. Willis, presiding elder of the Wayneville district, addressed the meeting in a very strong and eloquent speech. He gave some very cogent reasons for opposing the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors. His arguments for State prohibition were almost unanswerable. His illustrations were beautiful and striking, winning for him the undivided attention of the audience.

ONE CERTAINLY. Some Charlotte People Fully Realize It Now. When the back aches from kidney illness, there is a certain way to find relief. A sure way to be cured. Doan's Kidney Pills will do it. Charlotte people who claim this, T. G. Northey, 2 West Tenth Street, Charlotte, N. C., says: "I have not the least hesitancy in giving my name as an endorser of Doan's Kidney Pills. I feel that in so doing some sufferer from kidney trouble may be able to find relief through the use of this remedy. I suffered from an acute attack of kidney trouble for a long time, frequently the pains in the small of my back being so severe that I was unable to work. There was a constant soreness in the region of the kidneys and to say that I was in misery feebly expresses my condition. Upon learning of Doan's Kidney Pills I purchased a box at R. H. Jordan's drug store and after using them the trouble by their use, I have not felt the need of a kidney remedy since, as my kidneys have remained in a healthy condition and there has been no return of my backache."

A weak stomach means weak stomach nerves, stomach. And this is also true of the Heart and Kidneys. It is a pity that sick ones continue to drug the stomach or stimulate the Heart and Kidneys. The weak nerves, not the organs themselves, need this help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative has, and it promptly helps to cure sick ones. It goes direct to the cause of these diseases. Test this vital truth, and see, Muller's Pharmacy.
