STEWART TAKEN TO ASYLUM.

Old Man Who Tried to Kill Himself is Recovering—Great Building Spill in Reidsville—Roads Being Made—Special to the Observer.

Reidsville, May 8.—Col. J. N. Craig of the Third Regiment North Carolina National Guards, has returned from Morehead City, to which place he and other officers went to make preliminary arrangements for the annual encampment in the summer. The Reidsville organizations, as required by law, will participate in the Morehead encampment. It is possible that the hospital corps will also be in the encampment at Fort Caswell early next month when there will be maneuvers jointly with the regulars stationed at Fort Caswell. Participation in this encampment is voluntary.

Mr. George W. Stewart, the old man who attempted to commit suicide by chopping himself in the head in the northern part of town two or three weeks ago, has almost recovered. Mr. Stewart has been mentally unbalanced for a long time and upon application he was admitted to the State Hospital at Morganton, to which place he was taken by Deputy Sheriff Lambeth.

The recent rains made a fine tobacco planting season and millions of plants have been set out.

Mr. William G. McCollum, formerly a student at Oak Ridge Institute, has accepted a position with the Spray Woolen Mills Company, at Spray.

The mills in this county, while of course feeling the hard times to some extent, have enough orders to run them for several months and are running on full time.

There are more new buildings under course of construction than ever before at one time in the history of Reidsville. It is estimated that fifty houses are now being erected, and still the demand has not been met.

Reidsville real estate has experienced a decided advance during the past several months.

His many Reidsville friends were delighted to have Rev. W. R. Bradshaw, a former pastor of the First Baptist church, with them Tuesday night. He delivered a masterly address on prohibition at the Casino, and the building was well filled with the citizenship of the place.

Dr. Bradshaw is the most popular minister who has ever resided in Reidsville, and it is thought his able presentation of arguments in behalf of prohibition did incalculable good.

County Road Improvement Station and his road force are now at work grading the road from Settle's bridge to Wentworth. The new road leaves the old road bed and takes a route which is better for the road. The newly graded road is one of the prettiest in the State, and when macadamized it is expected to be decidedly the best and handsomest thoroughfare in the county.

Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Irvin, of Danville, Va., are guests of relatives here.

Mr. Robert Hairston has been in Raleigh the past few days attending the Episcopal convention.

HIGH POINT HAPPENINGS.

Fishermen Mistook Innocent Little Girl For Night Hawk—Chair Company Moves to China Grove. Special to the Observer.

High Point, May 8.—Sunday Rev. O. L. Powers, of the First Baptist church, will preach the annual sermon before the school at Mount Airy. His subject will be "The Spirit of the Lord." Archibald Johnson, of Thomasville, The Ford & Johnson Co., which has leased a chair plant at China Grove and which has been maintaining an office here for some time, has recently moved to China Grove, Mr. McDonald being in charge.

Prof. J. Allen Holt, Democratic candidate for nomination for Congress in the 4th district, was here yesterday in consultation with his friends and expressed himself as well pleased with the outcome so far as to the prospects for his nomination at the convention.

Large crowds are attending the services at South Main street at E. church being conducted by the pastor, Rev. O. E. Ader, assisted by Rev. Mr. Owenby, of Reidsville. A meeting has been made to get all the churches to come together and work for a common good in getting all the unconverted people out to hear the Word.

The fishing party that went down to Henley's pond Monday returned last night and relate interesting experiences. Tuesday night while the wind was blowing and the rain was falling in torrents, Frank Brown and Martin Bennett were awakened by a noise, as of some one talking. Two others of the party, Messrs. Lyon and Arthur Kirkman, were also awakened and made a dash to the door. To add to the situation a flap of the tent had been thrown back. The fishermen stalked forth in the darkness of the night to find the "night riders" as they termed them, but imagine their surprise when excitement was at the highest tension to find across a number of pigs which had been talking in "pig talk" in which they were all the excitement. The party returned to tent and proceeded to go to sleep, but Frank Brown and Martin Bennett said they were not sleepy anyway and said they believed they would sit up all night.

The High Point Blues, the new baseball team, have begun to practice and a few days ago they defeated one of the best amateur teams in the State. Handsome uniforms have been ordered and the canvas to enclose the grounds will arrive in a few days. The ball park on South Main street has already been got in shape.

BOY RAN OFF FROM HOME.

A Statesville Youngster Tries His External Power and Hides Himself Away—Schoolhouse Denied For Prohibition Speaking. Special to the Observer.

Mooreville, May 8.—A telegram was received by Policeman Brawley this morning from a Mr. Cloaniger in Statesville to intercept his small boy, who was running away. Policeman Brawley watched the Statesville train closely and was rewarded by locating the youngster, or at least one, who answered the description given.

The boy gave his name as Stewart and stated that his home was in Newton, and that he was on his way to see his mother, who, he said, lives in Spartanburg, S. C. He says he never heard of Cloaniger and had never been to Statesville. Mr. Cloaniger is coming to Mooreville this afternoon by private conveyance to look after the boy.

Rev. Mr. Adams, prohibition orator, hailing from the Lone Star State, was to have addressed the citizens of Enochville last night in Enochville schoolhouse, but was prevented from so doing by having the use of the schoolhouse forbidden him by the school trustees. It was rumored throughout the community that those would be no speaking, but in spite of this quite a little crowd gathered on the outside; but no address was delivered, as the school committee, in accordance with the prohibition, had nailed up the doors. Quite a little feeling was aroused by this act.

Mr. Claude Thompson is visiting friends at Salisbury this week.

An important meeting of the Merchants Retail Association is called to meet Tuesday night in the Pythian Hall at 8 o'clock.

LESSON FOR SUNDAY.

Second Quarter. Lesson VI. John xv, 26, xvi, 24. May 10th, 1908.

THE MISSION OF THE HOLY SPIRIT.

The Divine Spirit was no new or late arrival in the world. He brooded over the waters before there was land, or light, or life. He strove on occasion in the consciences of the elect of men. The patriarchs felt his immanence. By him also the prophets spoke. But as if all this had been cumulative and preparatory it was in the person of Jesus that the Holy Spirit had his consummate revelation. In him the Spirit kept living so constantly and in such fullness that it was as if his body was designed for nothing so much as for a residence of the Spirit.

The disciples had become familiar with this manifestation of the divine spirit in Jesus. Their Christ Company Moves to China Grove. Special to the Observer.

COMFORTER. Literally it is one summoned to the side. For example, like advocate to conduct one's case in court.

The word comforter is a translation from the supposed Latin equivalent of the Greek paraclete. It literally means the office of the spirit to move particularly the intellectual, and the other the moral faculties. It admits of question whether it would not be better to transfer the untranslated Greek word paraclete to the text. It includes all the offices of the spirit.

The early Church was in danger of losing its spirit in the blistering metaphysical controversy over a single word. What difference could it make whether he proceeded from the Father or from the Father and the Son. The vital question is "Have I the Spirit?"

DEATH OF MR. WEBB'S CHILD.

Little Daughter of Ninth District Congressman Passes Away After a Protracted Illness—Was a Babe of Rare Loveliness. Special to the Observer.

Shelby, May 8.—Little Jane Webb, the sweet infant daughter of Congressman and Mrs. E. V. Webb, died this morning at 7:30 o'clock. She just had passed her first birthday, having been born the 13th of April, 1907. She was a babe of rare loveliness; never fretful, always with a smile for every one. Her disposition was as cheerful as the sunshine.

Her sickness began with measles six weeks ago. This did not seem to be severe and she soon apparently recovered. But this was followed by serious stomach troubles three weeks later. But with the aid of the best medical skill and nursing she came through this after a desperate struggle and for two weeks seemed to be steadily improving. But four days ago a sudden relapse set in and it was soon apparent that the little one had grown too weak to successfully withstand the new attack. Her stomach was in such a condition that she could seldom retain the treatment, and when she did the response was only temporary. Mr. Webb came home from Washington last Saturday, having spent ten days with the little one during the first illness. All the physicians of this place, with Drs. Noxall and Faison, of Charlotte, with two trained nurses and a host of friends, did all that trail humanity could do. But the death angel came and plucked the bud that it might be transplanted to the better land, there to rest in peace.

WHOOPIING COUGH.

"In February our daughter had the whooping cough. Mr. Lane, of Hartland, recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and said it gave her customers the best of satisfaction. We found it as he said, and can recommend it to anyone having children troubled with whooping cough," says Mrs. A. Goss, of Durand, Mich. For sale by R. H. Jordan & Co.
