THE CONTESTED GAME.

The following relative to the protested game at Greensboro last Tuesday will be read with interest, being taken from The Greenville News:

"The Greenville team may yet be awarded the pennant of the Carolina Association. It became known yester-Association. It became known yester-day that Manager Tommie Stouch of the locals had protested the second game of the double-header Tuesday on the ground that the Greenville club could not be forced to play off a game postponed by rain in a series early in the season, and that the prospects of his protest being upheld by the league officials was excellent.

. The first report which reached the city was to the effect that President Wearn had already thrown out the protested game and that the pennant had been awarded to Greenville. As the information looked to be correct a bulletin was posted in front of The News office, giving the rumor. It took only a few minutes for it to spread and soon a large crowd of enthusiastic fans congregated in front of The News Building and made the air ring with yells. Later the report came that President Wearn had not yet thrown out the game, but that it would, in all likelihood be thrown

He replied that he had sent the facts of the case to Secretary Farrell, of the National Commission. and that he was awaiting a reply from him. It is understood that Mr. Wearn has stated that he does not see how the game can count under the strict interpretation of the constitution of the Carolina Association. FOOTBALL AT DAVIDSON

Davidson, Aug. 13.—The summer's heat will hardly have given place to the cool of autumn before Sprunt Athletic Field, with its freshly limed gridiron, will warm pp with lively, not to say red-hot, practices that will usher in what the enthusiastic rooters and supporters of the Red and Black believe is going to be the finest foot-ball season the college has ever known. If excellent coaching and an ambitious, difficult schedule are any pointers as to what the management thinks can be made out of present and prospective material, then the Presbyterians ought to have this fall a cyclonic aggregation of fast flying ends, swift backs, irresistible tackles, stalwart and, when desirable, immovable guards to support a centre rush who himself knows the game and how to pass the ball to quarter with a rapidity and dexterity that is confusing to the enemy. The quarter Bo Elliott is both general and cap-tain, steady, clear-headed, experienced and one of the finest at drop kicking this campus has ever seen. Fortunately and unlike the experience of former years almost every man last year's team will be in training and a candidate for a place again this season. Add to this the coming in of some fine new material in the class of '12 and that already partly developed in the training of last year's class games, it seems fair to say that the coaches will have a squad to handle that in quantity and quality will be worthy of their highest and best endeavors.

Of the old men, ex-Captain "Red" Edgerton at centre, is not as heavy as he might be, if weight could be added for the washing, but more than a year ago he was named as second for an all-star team, and retrogression is not in Edgerton's vocabulary. With a combination of Yale and the University of Virginia tactics and the best in each at their disposal, it would seem that the education of the Presbyterians, as regards a spherold body and the laws governing its motion between two given lines upon the earth's surface, will be in safe and competent hands and that if the players fall short of victory it will not be for lack of training so much as from lack of natural ability and avoirdu-
