THE JAPANESE FAIR.

come Interested in the Coming Show at Tokio-Uncle Sam Has Appropriated $1,500,000 For An Exhibit and a Commission is Now at Work-Mr. Francis B. Loomis, Former Assistant Secretary of State, Heads the Commission-Representative Hodenberg Had the Bill Passed.

"The World's Fair in Japan will be great thing for the South," said a vell-known Southern man, at the Selwyn', yesterday.

"Uncle Sam, thanks to Representtive William A. Rodenberg, of the 22d district of Illinois, will contribute largey to the Japanese exposition at Tokio in 1912. The first session of the Sixtieth Congress voted an appropriation of $1,500,000 for the exhibit. Although the show is three years off Commissioner Francis B. Loomis and his associates, Francis D. Millet, of New York, and Frederick J. V. Skiff, of Chicago, are already at work making elaborate preparations for a creditable exhibition. The United States will make an extensive showing at Nippon's international fair. Despite the prophecies of alarmists of the type of Representative Richard Pearson Hobson, the American people have no idea of going to war with the Japanese, and the large sum do-nated for a worthy representation at the big show in 1912 will go far toward allaying feeling in the hearts of beiligerent persons in the two nations. The bill, authorizing the appropriation, when it first came, up, provided for something more than $800,000. Mr. Rodenberg, who is a man of fine sense, wide influence, and genuine popularity among Democrats as well as Republicans, argued that this amount was not sufficient to make the kind of exhibit desired, and urged that it be increased. His suggestions met with such favor that he succeed-ed in having the sum raised to $1,500-000, without encountering any sort of opposition. Men of all parties were by-word. "Is Saul also among the glad to vote for the bill. The comprophets?" He met a company of missioners will not be hampered by

"Mr. Loomis, who for a time was Assistant Secretary of State, is emi-nently fitted for the work given him. He has ability and suavity, and will do all within his power to represent his country well, and show up its resources to the best possible advantage. His associates are trained men. Mr. Millet was director of decorations at the Chicago World's Fair and Mr. Skiff, director of the Field Columbian Museum, held an important position at the Chicago show.

"William A. Newcome, of Califor-nia, has been appointed chief clerk to the commission and has charge of the Washington offices. Messrs. Leomis and Millet will visit Tokio this summer and confer with the officials of the exposition in regard to the site and style of the American buildings. They will, during their there, gather information that will interest our manufacturers who intend to participate in the American exhibit They sail the last of this nonth from San Francisco.

"This winter, J. Callan O'Laughlan, a prominent Washington newspaper man, secretary to the commis-sion, will visit all the State capitals to confer with the Governors and make preliminary arrangements for exilibits.

"This, to my mind, will be a great opportunity for the manufacturers of the South. The American manufacturer should now prepare to actively invade the Eastern markets. ing men of this section should get in touch with Mr. Loomis and his coworkers and arrange to take part in the first show of the kind to be held in the Orient. Uncle Sam has done his part so far, and will continue, to do it, but the States and individuals become interested. American Manufacturers' Association and the various cotton mill organizations should keep step with the progress of the work of the commission.

FASTER RUN FOR FAST TRAINS.

Southern Railway Will Shorten Schedule of Trains Nos, 37 and 38 by Four Hours Between New Orleans and New York. Announcement is made that the Southern Railway Company, beginning September 1st, will shorten the schedule of trains Nos. 37 and 38, the fastest and finest trains on the road between New Orleans and New York, four hours. The Atlanta Georgian has this to say of the change which will be of interest to the traveling public:

"An important change of the greatest importance and interest to the Atlanta traveling public is the announce-ment that through trains 37 and 38. between New Orleans, Atlanta and New York will soon run on a schedule some four hours or more shorter than at present. These two trains, the finest through trains in the South, are by far the most popular with all Southerners, It will be remembered that some two years ago, owing to the greatly congested travel and new construction under way, both the schedules of through and local trains were lengthened in an attempt to correct and solve the problem of late trains, Among the schedules lengthened at that time were those of trains 37 and 38. "Under the new and greatly shortened schedule, plans are under way to have this train leave Atlanta about 11 o'clock in the morning and arrive in New York the following day at noon. From this it will be seen that the schedule will be shortened some three or four hours between Atlanta and New York alone. While the arrangements have not yet been completed, a meeting of passenger officials is set for the near future, and the schedule will be 'tightened' all along the line, even between New Orleans and San Francisco.

"It is believed that this new schedule, which will probably conform closely to the old schedule some two years ago, will be maintained, and it is also reported that other trains will have their schedules shortened.

"One important effect will be to very greatly improve the mail service will deliver the address of welcom the time the present slow schedules were established the impaired mail throughout the South.

"It was expected that these new schedules providing for faster time on all of the roads traversed—the Penn-sylvanis. Southern Railway. West Point route and Louisville & Nash-ville—would go into effect next Sun-day. While this is not now possible, it is stated on good authority that the fast schedules will go into effect by

Once before Saul was touched with renzy. His action gave origin to the youths who, under the revival of zeal for Jehovah's worship, exhibited a violent agitation while they improvised hymns, danced, and played upon instruments. Saul felt the mystic spell and, before he knew it, was joining in their weird exercises. This was religious frenzy. How different that which now takes possession of him! He is, in this instance, the easy prey to jealous frenzy. It has the speed of poison in his blood. He is ripe for murder at once. In the violence of his rage, his personal debt to his intended victim is forgotten. So also his inpalace wall with his spear. Foiled by for the opening performance. David's agility, Saul seeks to com-pass his death by placing him at unwarranted and unreasonable exposure to the enemy. The young Bethlehemite has a charmed life. And while he escapes his enemy on the one hand, he grows steadily in popular admiration and love on the other. But it is significantly said that Saul kept eyeing David. That eye was full of murder-

Monarchy had not yet proved itself the evil thing it had been declared to be. The vivid picture of the tyranny of the Oriental despot had no fulfillment in Saul. He assumed no luxurious habits on ascending the throne. His private life was marked by perfect simplicity and he was scrupulous in observing the forms of religion. In the field he had proved himself an agmental carries house, and that if the check was a forgery he had no knowledge of it. However, P. C. Collins, cashler of the Bank of Orange, and Thomas A. Corbin, proprietor of the Corbinton Inn, testified that the signature on the check was in the same handthe check was in the same hand-writing as Rose's name on the hotel register, where he took dinner. The jury was out only a short time and brought in a verdict of guilty. He was given three years on the roads.

After spending a few days in looking over the city, Col. Frank A. Dil-lingham, the wealthy Cincinnati manufacturer, has decided to spend several weeks in Charlotte, and announces that he will open one of his free shows, which have won such great popularity in other sections of the South, for the entertainment of the people of Charlotte, and with genuous character. At first opportu-nity the king seeks to pin him to his are now busily engaged in preparing

With his face wreathed in a happy smile of contentment and his person resplendent with a king's ransom in diamonds, Col. Frank A. Dillingham mingled with the business men of Charlotte yesterday, a veritable herald of prosperity, health and happiness. There are few men more widely known throughout the counpiness. try as a man of progressive and gigantic plans than Colonel Dillingham, and his visit here will mean the expenditure of thousands of dol-lars through various channels to make the acquaintance of the people of this section.

It is doubtful if Colonel Dilingham is himself aware of the manner in which this money will be spent, or what plan he will adopt to introduce his famous remedies here. However, it may be safely said that he will do something original, something agreeably startling and beneficial to the public. On former casions these whims have been of such astounding nature as to cause the public to marvel at his extravagance and absolute disregard of the value of money. Only a few weeks ago, in a Northern city, Colo-nel Dillingham appeared upon the platform during one of his entertainments surrounded by large bags containing thousands of dollars in silver. His appearance was greeted by such a volume of applause and evidence of affection that his big heart was touched and he showed his appreciation of the reception accorded him by throwing handfuls of silver dollars into the crowd. He continued this expensive amusement until one of his associates touched his elbow and reminded him that he had emptied a number of bags and himself poorer by several
