New York, Aug. 20.—The cotton market to-day was one of the most active and Excited sessions experienced since the Sully year. The aensational break in October carried the price from 9.1%, the closing figure of last night, to 8.55 or a loss of 60 points, amounting to about $3 per bale. The close was steady at the decline of 1052 paints for the day, Sules were estimated at fully $00,000 bales.

The market opened easy at a decline of 5515 points in response to lower Liverpool cables, rains in sections which have recently complained of drought, lear pressure and buil liquidation. After afowing a net loss of about 40 points there was a slight rally on-covering but the market became even market.

there was a slight rally on covering but the market became even weaker and more active during the afternoon with the bulls throwing their cotton over in large blocks and at one time the near months were fully 60 points net lower with later positions showing a net loss 39642 points. It was estimated that buil crowd liquidated between 200,000 and 250,000 bales during the day. There was a rally from the lowest in the last half heur on covering but sentiment continued very bourish on the idea that a considerable long line remained outstand. ing and the trade was facing the move-ment of 14,000,000 bale crop with no pros-pect of even a normally active trade demand during the autumn. One broker alone is said to have had a selling order for 50,000 bales during the afternoon and other brokers are supposed to have sold from 20,000 to 30,000 bales. Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s Cotton Letter. Special to The Observer.

New York, Aug. 20.—Further showers throughout the South with predictions of these continuing dur-ing to-day and to-morrow prevented any recovery in Liverpool. Our mar-ket opened easier, showing the pres-sure to sell on the part of the large interest had not ceased, and this selling continued during the session, at times breaking prices sharply; but the market finally closed at a rally of ten points from the tow point. All of the Wall Street brokers were found to be heavy sellers, though it not believed they have liquidated their entire interest. Further showers would lead to anticipations of a large yield. Most of the buy ing to-day was for local and Southern account, as the South has been largely short during the past month. We believe the operatives in Lancashire will consent to a reduction in wages rather than to strike in the present depressed condition of the textile industry. At the close the fo-cal traders were free buyers, looking a substantial raily to-morrow on the idea that the pressure for the moment is over. Baltimore Produce.

Yesterday Mr. Roland made reply, declining to accept. In refusing a joint campaign Mr. Roland gives several "reasons," including "that the number of candidates is so large that a division of time also large that a division of time allowing a speech for each of the two candidates for all the offices would require so much time that it could not be held at any one place on the same day." Again Mr. Roland says, "Joint discussions are usually provocative of bitterness, acrimony and strife and sometimes result in separating neighbors and friends who rating neighbors and friends who would otherwise remain at peace would otherwise remain at peace with each other. The custom has very largely gone out of vogue, nearly every other place having left it off, it now being a thing of the past." Mr. Roland says that he has no fears for a comparison of the character and ability of the candidates of the Republican party in Runcombe with any other equal. Buncombe with any other equal number of men in either party, but that for the reasons given the invitation for a joint campaign is
